GREAT "FORWARD LA CROSSE" DINNER OVERFLOWS DINING ROOMS INTO HOTEL LOBBY

The preparatory state of the "Forward La Crosse" movement will reach its climax tonight at the Stoddard hotel dinner where the largest audience that has ever attended an affair for the community welfare in western Wisconsin will assemble. In order to take care of the guests the hotel will use both dining rooms, while fifty people will be accommodated in the lobby adjoining the dining room. It is the most remarkable response ever made locally to a subscription dinner, as not a single ticket was disposed of by canvassing.

Tonight hundreds of business and professional men assembled will hear about the building of cities through organized effort. Tomorrow and for the three days following they will be called upon to show their faith in the new organization and in the future of La Crosse by taking memberships in the Chamber of Commerce. The canvass will be conducted by 100 of the leading men of the city, in all lines of business and professions. Twenty-five committees of from three to five men have been organized and they will report at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at the council chamber of the city hall, where final instructions will be given, and they will then start out on the most systematic canvass in the history of the city.

Advance reports as to what many of the leading concerns of the city are going to do in the way of memberships indicate that at the close of the campaign La Crosse will have one of the strongest commercial organizations in the country for a city of under 40,000.

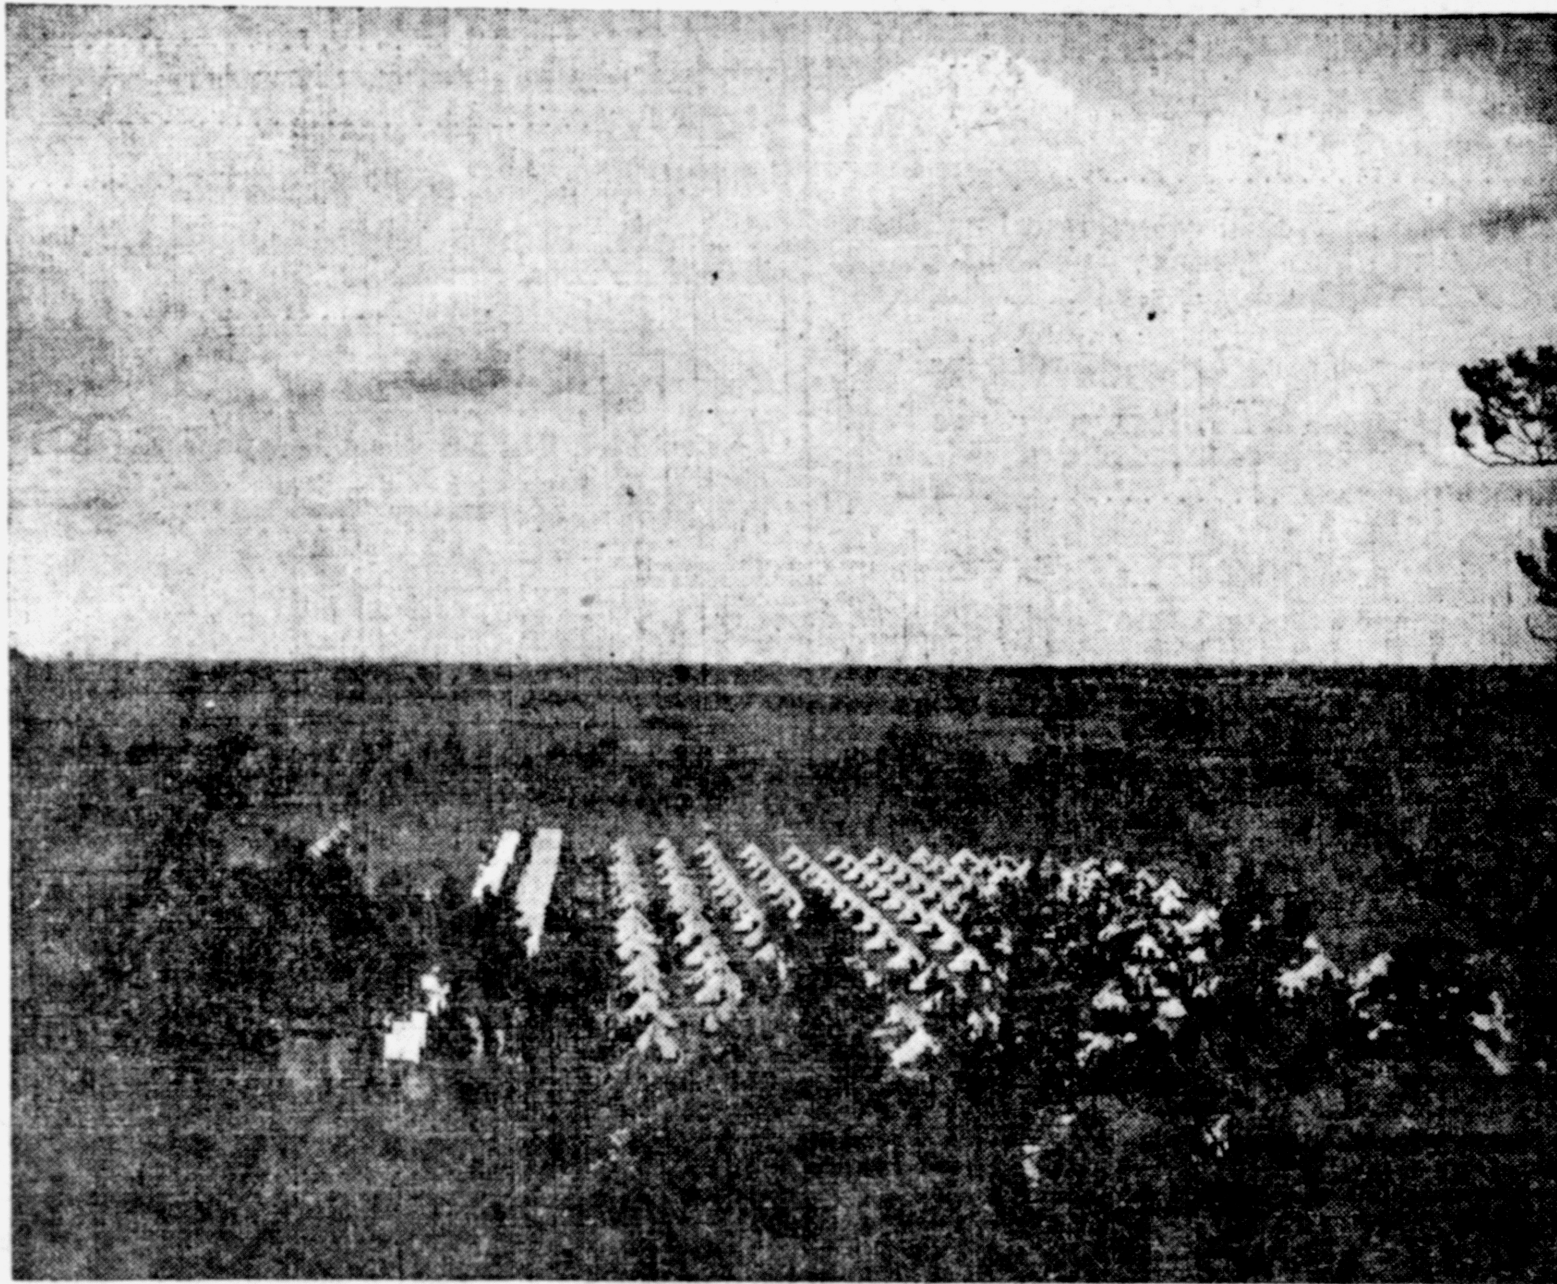

The dinner tonight is set to start at 7 o'clock. The hotel management has arranged to use the "ordinary" to take care of the regular guests of the hotel at supper so that the big function can start on time.

The feature of the dinner tonight will be the address of Edward F. Trefz, national secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. He arrived in La Crosse this morning. He speaks in Milwaukee tomorrow morning, and Atlantic City Wednesday. Mr. Trefz has a nation-wide reputation as a speaker, and is in addition a recognized authority on commercial organization work.

N. J. Whelan, head of the industrial department of the Wisconsin-Minnesota Light and Power company, with headquarters at Eau Claire, is the other out of town guest. Mr. Whelan is an industrial expert, and is doing a great work in locating industries in cities served by his company.

Frank Hixon, chairman of the "Forward La Crosse" committee, will be chairman of the meeting. He will introduce the toastmaster, A. L. Goetzmann of the campaign committee. The local speakers on the program are Mayor Bentley, William Wolfe and J. J. Felber.

KLING AND DUBRAKS TO HEAD NEW COMPANY AND SCHLABACH CALLS MEET

John F. Kling, champion rifle shot of Wisconsin and Minnesota, formerly a member of Company M. W. N. G., and for six years a member of the United States army in both the cavalry and infantry branches, has volunteered his services as instructor of new troops which will be recruited in La Crosse soon.

Two plans for organization of a new La Crosse company were on foot today. A plan of Otto M. Schlach is to form a local military training school. This scheme would not obligate the members to join the army, although it is the plan to fit them for duty if they are needed.

The newest plan is that suggested by Joseph G. Dubraks, for nine years a member of the Iowa National

MEDIATION NOT ACCEPTABLE NOW DIPLOMAT IS TOLD

BY ROBERT J. BENDER

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 26.—Mediation is not acceptable to the United States at this time, Bolivian Minister Calderon was given to understand by Secretary Lansing this afternoon.

The importance from the United States' viewpoint of Carranza's making his intentions clear at once was indicated and the impossibility of accepting mediation offers at this time probably pointed out.

"I have no definite plans of mediation to propose," said Calderon. "My first representation this afternoon will be merely informal and verbal. Should the conference prove successful, I will present a formal, written offer of good services."

Publishes Suggestions
BY CHARLES P. STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
BUENOS AIRES, June 26.—A list of suggestions, designed to prevent war between the United States and Mexico, were published today by La Lacion, the leading newspaper of South America.

Included in the list was a proposal made by Romulo S. Naon, Argentine ambassador to Washington for the establishment of a police zone on both sides of the border open to the troops of each nation to prevent a repetition of bandit raids. The American government must guarantee that the sole purpose of these expeditions was the policing of Mexican territory.

Leaders of House and Senate Foreign Affairs Committees Attend Conference to Decide U. S. Action

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Following an admission by Carranza that his orders were responsible for the massacre of the American troops at Carrizal, President Wilson dispatched an ultimatum to the de facto government of Mexico.

In this ultimatum the president demands that Carranza formally state whether his attitude toward the United States is hostile and that he surrender immediately the seventeen American prisoners taken at Carrizal.

Summons Leaders in Congress

Mr. Wilson then summoned the chairmen and ranking minority members of the senate foreign relations and house foreign affairs committees to meet him at the white house at 8 o'clock last night.

Cooper in Attendance

CAPT. BRADLEY RESTORED TO ACTIVE LIST WILL RECRUIT ROOKIES HERE

CHICAGO, June 26.—No militia command in the central department of the United States army has as yet received its specific orders to entrain for the border, it was announced today, at the department headquarters. These orders may come tomorrow or may be delayed several days.

BY MARK R. BYERS

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., June 26.—Capt. J. M. Bradley, retired, who as chief officer of company B ranked high in the Wisconsin militia, has been restored to the active list and ordered to continue the recruiting at La Crosse. In view of the fact that steps are already moving toward the formation of a new Wisconsin brigade, it is believed here that eventually Captain Bradley will be asked to take a command.

When do we go to the border?
Now that equipment and recruiting are nearly completed, the insistence of this question has increased in every man's mind, and betting on the point is a pastime in camp.

Inside official opinion here is influenced by the belief that President Wilson's great aim is to avoid war and if the military demonstration can succeed at long range the troops will not be moved. That they will not go until "something happens" is the pith of official conviction, but it is admitted that with Carranza in the position most likely to require initiative, opinions are speculative in character. They are not in complete readiness, and how long supplies now lacking will be delayed is a mere guess. Not sooner than the latter part of this week is the current guess and nothing more definite is said on the subject.

It is unofficially stated that the Wisconsin troops may not go at one time, and that the First regiment will be first to entrain. The route as now planned is said to be to La Crosse on the St. Paul system, thence to Kansas City over the Burlington and from there on a line through Oklahoma to Austin, Texas.

To Have New Brigade
Recruiting for the First brigade has progressed far, and while in a special examination yesterday some (Continued on Page 6, Col. 3.)

CAPTAIN MOREY BLAMES MEXICANS FOR FATAL FIGHT

FIELD HEADQUARTERS, MEXICO, June 26.—Captain Lewis S. Morey was brought to General Pershing's headquarters today by automobile and gave the American commander a personal account of the Carrizal fight.

Morey appeared to be in good physical condition considering his wound and the privations he endured before being found by a relief column. His wound was treated by surgeons here.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, June 26.—Captain Lewis S. Morey, commander of Troop K, Tenth cavalry, who sent to General Pershing the first official account of the battle at Carrizal, was found today with four Negro troopers at San Luis ranch, according to a message from Pershing to General Funston.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 26.—Mexican troops fired the first shot on the troopers of the Tenth United States cavalry at Carrizal, but not until the American force, fearing an ambush had advanced in battle formation, according to a letter written on the day of the fight by Captain Lewis Morey, commanding K troop of the Tenth the day of the fight and forwarded to General Pershing by General Pershing Sunday night.

Wrote From Hiding
Captain Morey wrote the letter at 9:15 a. m., June 21, while hiding in a hole about 2,000 yards from the scene of the battle. Captain Morey was wounded through the shoulder and had another wounded man and three unwounded troopers with him. The three unwounded men were picked up by a detachment under Lieutenant Henry A. Meyers, Jr., of the Tenth cavalry and the letter brought to General Pershing Sunday.

Captain Morey was left to die upon the desert from thirst and his wounds. The men abandoned him at his own order. The three unwounded men had carried him according to their stories, to Lieutenant Meyer from the hole where he had hidden (Continued on Page 6, Col. 7.)

EASTERN TROOPS RUSHING SOUTH TODAY ON WOOD'S FOLLOWING BAKER'S PLEA

NEW YORK, June 26.—Before night fall national guardsmen from several eastern states will be speeding westward toward El Paso for service on the Mexican border.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Supplementary orders have been sent to department commanders. Secretary Baker announced today directing that troops shall not delay departure for equipment and training which can be obtained enroute or on the border. Some units that had been awaiting these things will leave today, Baker said.

Editor's Note.—This telegram does not specify any particular departments, but as the Wisconsin department has received no orders to move, the term "supplementary orders" may indicate that these orders do not go to Wisconsin. If they do apply to this state the cause of delay is removed and an early movement for the border may result.

NEW YORK, June 26.—Upwards of 30,000 militiamen of the eastern department have been ordered to entrain as soon as possible for the Mexican border by Major General Leonard Wood. The order was given, following an urgent appeal last night from Secretary of War Baker that troops under his jurisdiction proceed as soon as possible for the border. The order met with instant response from officers and men. By tomorrow at the latest 17,000 militiamen from New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Vermont and Massachusetts will be on trains headed towards the border.

At Camp Beekman, Major General O'Ryan, in command of the New York guardsmen, had communicated the orders to him to commanders of the Seventh, Fourteenth and Seventy-first regiments, the First cavalry and Twenty-second engineers and several detached units.

The First regiment of New Jersey, Batteries C of Trenton and B of Camden, Troops A and C of the First squadron cavalry, the field hospital of Elizabeth and ambulance company of Red Bank, will entrain at 2 o'clock for the Mexican border, according to word from Sea Girt, N. J.

Not since the Spanish-American war days has the department of the east, with headquarters at Governor's Island, been kept open all night as it was Sunday. General Wood was on the job practically twenty-four hours. His job was selecting the units from the various state militia to make up the number of men asked of him by the war department. In addition to the New Yorkers mentioned above, Wood issued orders to the following:

New Jersey—Probably the Fifth Infantry; two cavalry troops; two field artillery batteries; one field hospital; one ambulance company.

Massachusetts—Second, Fifth, Eighth, Ninth, regiments of infantry; one battalion of field artillery; first squadron cavalry; signal corps; one field hospital; one ambulance company.

Connecticut—First and Second Infantry; Yale university field artillery.

ARMYRATIONS SERVED OUT AT CAMP DOUGLAS

Chaplain George R. Longbrake of La Crosse, postmaster, and spiritual guide of the "Shooting Third," celebrated his thirteenth wedding anniversary in camp Saturday.

"It looks like an unlucky one for me," said the chaplain early on the day. "It's the first I ever spent away from Mrs. Longbrake."

But it turned out to be a lucky one for the chaplain, for just before noon he returned to his tent from distributing mail down the regimental street, to find Mrs. Longbrake waiting in his tent. She had come down with Mrs. Fowler, wife of Company M's captain, on a surprise visit.

The regimental band turned out last night after supper and gave the parson and his wife a serenade.

Otto V. Enders, massive corporal of Company M, spent Saturday attending to the muster of his squad into the regular army roll. But he had occasion, now and then, to think of a track-meet being held by the Wisconsin Athletic club in Milwaukee, in which he was expecting to draw down a medal for pole vaulting. Corporal Enders is a letter man of the University of Wisconsin track team.

Enders was also scheduled to attend a meeting of playground physical directors at Milwaukee on Saturday. He had secured one of the best positions on the Milwaukee staff, but was forced to wire his resignation because of the call to the colors.

BY MARK R. RYERS

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., June 26.

The Third regiment took it easier that the others in the brigade Saturday because the examination surgeons of the United States army had selected the "Shooting Third" on which to begin their medical examination of the men. The examination is rigid. Most of the Third companies suffered heavily by rejections. L. company of Sparta, the first to be gone through, lost sixteen men, more than 20 per cent of its enlisted strength. The rejections were for all causes. Teeth accounted for a number of the men who returned home today.

The army requirement is that there shall be four sound teeth that "occlude," or come together. Some of the boys who were shy on the teeth that "hit" offered to go straight to the dentist and have sufficient repairs made to meet the requirement. But the U. S. doctor was inexorable. "Sorry, boys," Dr. Anzer told a brace of long-service men in L. company. "But on this occasion the army can't wait for dentists."

Flat feet accounted for a number more of the Third's men. It is interesting to note that the bespectacled ones stand an equal chance with the rest for passing the examination. The army doesn't care how near-sighted you may be, provided your glasses fit. If your sight is corrected near enough to normal to allow of shooting, you can get by.

Men Want to Stay

A movement toward the creation of a full cavalry regiment for the Iron brigade of 16, was seen in the authorization Saturday of the formation of Troop B to be recruited at once in Milwaukee. As a nucleus of the new troop there are twenty men here in camp—men that joined Troop A in excess of its quota.

Captain Penner of A Troop lined the men up Saturday and told them that they were twenty past war strength. He suggested that all who had any misgivings step forward. Nobody moved. Then the captain suggested that all the married men really ought to go home. He pointed out how vastly superior domestic bliss is to chasing greasers, but still no one was moved to retire. Captain Penner was on the point, later in the day, of drawing lots to see who should stay when general headquarters informed him that the new troop was to be formed.

Second Lieutenant August M. Krech of A Troop has been designated as Captain of the new cavalry command. He received his commission just a year ago, and his rise is believed to be almost unprecedented in Badger guard history. First Sergeant Oliver O. Treadwell and Sergeant P. C. Burrill of A Troop will be respectively first and second lieutenants of the new command. They left for Milwaukee Sunday to begin recruiting.

The proposition of equipment for all the "rookies" was to be solved today. Saturday Quartermaster Major C. R. Williams received word that the supplies requisitioned from the Rock Island arsenal were on the way, and would arrive Monday. Some of it was in Saturday evening—a complete outfit of automatic pistols for the men who carry them being the first installment to arrive. A car of equipment came Saturday.

Company commanders, although anxious to move to the border, are willing to wait a week in camp. Colonel R. A. Richards of the Third said yesterday that he hoped the Iron brigade of 16 would not be moved out for at least a week.

"Some of our companies were slow in starting to recruit," Colonel Richards told The TRIBUNE correspondent, but we've got started now, and if we could send an officer back to take charge we could increase our strength rapidly. I can say confidently that in another week every company in the Third regiment would be up to war strength."

The Superior supply company is above its required active service quota, and a number of its men are to be turned over to Company B of La Crosse, which is short.

Lieutenant Hale of Company M arrived Saturday from La Crosse with nine "rookies" in tow. Among them was one whom the company has already dubbed "Prexy." "Prexy's" name on the company roster is Charles Sherman. He is a barber in the Schwartz shop at 519 Main street.

He got his nick-name two hours after reporting into camp because of his remarkable resemblance to President Woodrow Wilson.

Five members of one household in Sparta are in the Third regiment's camp. The contingent is headed by Major R. B. McCoy, brigade inspector of small arms practice. Malcolm McCoy, 21, Bruce, 19, and Robert, 18, are privates in Company L. Alexander Gibbon, a nephew of Major McCoy, is also a private in Company L.

Major McCoy's three sons were on a walking trip to Yellowstone Park when the president called out the guard. The major sent them a wire to a dozen cities, since he was not acquainted with their whereabouts. At Aberdeen, S. D., the chief of police put the telegram up in the post-office, and the boys found it. They boarded the next train home.

Malcolm, the oldest, a school teacher at Esclavine, Minn., was not a member of the guard, but he enlisted immediately upon his arrival in Sparta.

The percentage of Haugens in Company A, Neillville contingent of the Third, is expected to go higher within the week. The six Haugen brothers, and their dog Hyper, who hold the state family record for aggregate enlistment, said today that they were expecting the arrival of their brother Rangwald, former lieutenant of company A, who has settled on a claim in Circle, Mont. Under the provisions of a federal law, Rangwald is going to serve the rest of his time for his claim in Company A, his brothers believe. There are nine Haugen brothers, and eight of them are present or former members of Company A.

Why Suffer With BACKACHE, KIDNEYS OR RHEUMATISM NOW?

Letter Tells of Long-looked-for Prescription.

Dear Readers—If I can do any good in the world for others, I wish to do it, and I feel that it is my duty to write about the wonderful results I have derived from the use of "Anuric." I was suffering from kidney and bladder troubles, and frequent backache and rheumatism, and my kidneys and bladder were so weak that I could not walk without assistance. Had taken several different kinds of kidney remedies but all failed. I sent for a box of Dr. Pierce's newest discovery, "Anuric," which I received by mail in tablet form. I soon got better and am convinced that this popular new medicine is good. I wish to recommend it to my neighbors and everybody suffering from such troubles.

MRS. M. J. SARGENT.

NOTE: You've all undoubtedly heard of the famous Dr. Pierce and his well-known medicines. Well, this prescription is one that has been successfully used for many years by the physicians and specialists. Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., for kidney complaints, and diseases arising from disorders of the kidneys and bladder, such as backache, weak back, rheumatism, dropsy, congestion of the kidneys, inflammation of the bladder, scalding urine, and urinary troubles.

Up to this time, "Anuric" has not been on sale to the public, but by the persuasion of many patients and the increased demand for this wonderful medicine, Dr. Pierce has decided to put it into the stores, or send 10 cents for large trial package or 50 cents for full treatment.

Simply ask for Doctor Pierce's Anuric Tablets. There can be no imitation. Every pack of "Anuric" is sure to be signed by Dr. Pierce. You will find the signature on the package just as you do on Dr. Pierce's favorite Prescription, the ever-famous "Golden Medical Discovery." Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" is proven by years to be the greatest general tonic and reconstructer for any one, besides being the best blood-making known.

Miss Billie Burke will be at the Majestic for Sunday and Monday only, as there is such a demand for this film that the Kline Film company asked the Majestic management to release the film for one day so the same could be run at Rochester, Minn., for that day, consequently the La Crosse public will only have Miss Billie Burke every Sunday and Monday of each week only.

The Searchlight

THE LONGEST TOW
 The greatest ship towing feat ever undertaken is that of bringing the U. S. collier "Maumee" from Mare's Island, San Francisco, to the New York navy yard where she is to be fitted up with new engines. The towing is being done by another collier, "The Prometheus," which is expected to haul her load into New York harbor early in July. A special towing machine has been devised for the trip. A powerful steam-operated winding drum holds the steel towing cable in even coils, and careful provision has been made for regulating the distance between the two vessels with a minimum strain on the cable.

Overheard in 2000 A. D.
 "Now, this is the skeleton of a man who lived in the twentieth century." "Why is one arm so much longer than the other, professor?" "This is not an unusual case. You will notice that the right arm is several inches longer than the left and is due to the custom quite common in those days of clinging to a strap with the right hand while holding a newspaper in the left hand."

"THIS NIGHT IN HISTORY"

The "Forward La Crosse" dinner tonight seems more than likely to prove a historic banquet. Somehow, we seem to mark the time by "eats"—some good, some bad. In the beginning of the Newer Light there was—and is—the Lord's Supper. The more sumptuous "Feast of Belshazzar" added no luster to history, but history absorbed it as a moral warning. In more modern times there was that famous dinner served by the late object of Harry Thaw's mad vengeance, and one hardly dares mention in the same breath that chaste mystery—the "Gary Dinner".

But we set aside the "Forward La Crosse" dinner as in another class. We have no exclusive title, but in every municipality that has broken bread at this type of banquet, the incident has become the gastronomic monument commemorating the beginning of a great period of progress.

It is bound to be so here. Never has a city, working out such a program, succeeded in enlisting more nearly unanimously the big, forceful figures in its citizenship; never has such a volunteer army engaged in its campaign with a deeper, more earnest purpose to accomplish the object of its endeavors. Never, indeed, have all the working forces of a municipality lined up more solidly and determinedly, never have they entered upon closer co-operation, never have they moved forward under better direction and more favorable auspices.

When the collective intelligence and industry of an American city attempt an achievement the advisability of which is sustained by unanswerable logic, appealing to a level-headed and progressive community, success is as certain as the duration of time. It is so here. Every condition of personnel, program and field is propitious. Plain as a ship in the harbor are the objectives of economy, profit and general business advantage. Not less definite are the promises on the sociological side and in the direction of education, art, entertainment and health—the elements of a livable city.

Surely Monday, June twenty-six, will be a day to which the people of La Crosse will look back as the beginning of a time of steady, sound community development along all the lines that count for stability, expansion and progress.

MAKING VOTES FOR WOODROW WILSON

Is the republican party a great party standing for great principles?

Despite its raising up of false prophets and sometimes deification of the golden calf, we have thought so. Certainly it WAS a great party. Certainly its rank and file represent much of the strength of the country. Certainly it professes great ideals and makes great promises.

Of its lapses from grace it has heretofore never been possible to say that the republican party was petty or that it was unpatriotic. But certain newspapers and prominent men who presume to speak for the republican party in America's present extremities indulge in language both petty and unpatriotic.

Nothing more contemptible has been said in American politics than that President Woodrow Wilson is deliberately engaging in war with Mexico as a political scheme. Never has one man sacrificed so much to keep his country from war as Woodrow Wilson. And dare the men who have daily characterized the policy that has kept the peace as "spineless", now complain of a position assumed with apparent reluctance and in an extremity in which any other course would have deprived the country of prestige and subjected it to insolent attack by an anarchistic horde! Truly, at a terrible sacrifice Woodrow Wilson might have yielded to the temptation not every ruler could have resisted, to become an immortal war president.

With every utterance of this charge the accusers are making votes for Woodrow Wilson. The great American people are fair; they are quick to resent inconsistency and injustice.

We confess to "republican leanings". We confess that in our judgment the republican party never adopted a better platform or nominated a better man, albeit we prefer the democratic solution for the merchant marine problem. But as we read these scurrilous sentiments ascribing criminal motives to the president, our republican affiliations bring us a sense of complicity in treason.

Mr. Hughes can not be elected in a campaign of malignity and scurrility. He can not be elected by methods that show no consideration for the worthy man with whom he and his followers are in honest political disagreement. People—just plain people who talk little and vote regularly—realize that the mistakes of the president were made in a position fraught with such delicacy and difficulty as has seldom confronted a national executive. They will hesitate to entrust the government, during the continuance of that situation, to men whose campaign methods suggest lack of that sense of proportion and justice indispensable to navigating the intricacies of the blind and troubled channel we are pursuing.

We do not expect Mr. Hughes to indulge in vituperation. That his words will be a severe arraignment of certain phases of the Wilson administration, we quite expect, but that they will be calm, just from the standpoint of his views, and full of dignity, we confidently anticipate.

May we suggest that critics of the present administration who desire the return of republican rule, contain themselves until they are given for their guidance the utterances of the man who is to become official spokesman for the republican party?

PUBLIC SERVICE THAT DOESN'T SERVE

A special train of seventeen cars brought seven hundred people into La Crosse last night five minutes after the 11 o'clock cars left the loop. A heavy rain began falling as the depot was reached. Not a single extra car, not a car of any kind, was in sight. The assistant superintendent of the street car company was on the train; he knew of its coming and got a taste of his own service. Later a few cars were hurried out, too late to be of much service, but this was an afterthought probably inspired by the official ducking. Was it neglect, or incompetence? In either case it was inexcusable.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

From Old Erin
 "The Black Watch are fighting so well in France that even the Germans praise them. Wonderful fighters, the Irish!"
 The speaker was W. Bourke Cockran. He continued:
 "When I think of the valor of the Black Watch regiment I recall the story of Pat McCann.
 "Pat came home one night with a black eye, a broken nose and a split lip; a front tooth was gone as well.
 "Shame on ye," Bridget cried. "A big feller like you to be licked by a little drab-drinkin' cockroach like Tim Sullivan! Why, he—"
 "Whist," said Pat from his basin softly. "Don't spake evil of the dead!"

He Tried It First
 A northern man and a southern man were seated in front of a hotel in a South Georgia town, when a farmer drove up with a very large load of watermelons, weighing from fifteen to seventy-five pounds each. The southerner bet the northerner that he would stop the first negro that came along the street and the negro could eat one of the largest melons on the wagon. Pretty soon a little, droll-up negro came along whistling.

"Come here, Sam," said the southerner. "Do you want to make five dollars?"
 "Sho, boss, I does," said the negro.

"All right; if you'll eat that largest melon over there I'll give you five dollars."
 The negro looked at the melon a long time and then said:
 "Give me twenty minutes, boss, and I'll come right on back and let you know."

At the appointed time the negro returned.
 "All right, boss, I can eat it now." The melon was brought, and the little negro soon cleaned it up, to the utter astonishment of the northern gentleman. As he paid the money, the southern gentleman asked him to explain why he wanted the twenty minutes to decide.
 "I tell you de truf, boss," said the negro. "I went round de corner and ate one just like it and I knowed I could eat dat one."

Turning the Tables
 Handicapped but undaunted, the actors in the touring "drammer" were doing their best; but their efforts were spoiled by the rude comments of a small boy at the back of the hall.
 At last, after some of his best "scenes" had been spoiled, the hero hissed melodramatically.
 "Ladies and gentlemen, five years ago I lost a monkey. Tonight it has turned up again at the rear of the hall!"
 The applause and laughter which greeted this brilliant sally had hardly died away when the voice of the insulter was heard to ask blandly:
 "What did you do with the orange?"

(By Nikkah)

CONCORD

Concord is one American city that almost every American has seen or planned to see. The old Massachusetts town is known to every youngster who has plowed his way through the first four readers or the first "steps in the history of our country," and it is the things they tell us about when we are very young that we go to see when we attain to the dignity of years and vacations.

Concord is a spot of varied attractions. It can furnish something to meet the taste of almost anybody except the man who craves the bright lights and the speedy existence, and its shortcomings in this respect are its strongest recommendation in the eyes of most of its devotees.
 Are you interested in history? Do you thrill when you set your foot on the very spot where Charlemagne ate dinner, or where the tears of Alexander fell when the extras told of Philip's latest victories? Then Concord can show you its revolutionary battleground, and if the "rude bridge that arched the flood" in the poem no longer does so in reality, you can at least gaze on a concrete bridge from the same spot where the farmers stood and fired the shot heard round the world.

If your taste turns to literature rather than dead facts, here are literary shrines in plenty where the visitor may burn his incense. Here is the house of Emerson, where that ascetic philosopher coined his epigrams. Here Thoreau was born, and hither he came to visit and to register his protest against the payment of taxes. Here Hawthorne lived and wrote in the Old Manse, and that the roster of Concord's literary figures might strike a note in the hearts of all ages, here Miss Alcott created the families dear to juvenile bibliophiles.
 Concord has claims to respect quite aside from the things that have happened and the men who have lived there. It is a beautiful, quiet dignified old town, and the leaves of its old elms seem to whisper that nature books nor battles, but only nature matters after all.

JOHN THE FOOL

An American Romance
 Copyright 1915—The Robbs-Merrill Company

"Kicked this pistol box to pieces. I just had a curiosity. The old chap was too played out after his fight to notice much, and this mornin' he was too sorrowful. He just quit a minute too soon, but I expaict his old eyes couldn't see what I saw, anyway. All the time he talked I watched that old shiny gun-box. I wouldn't give a cent for a barrel of 'em as guns, but I noticed. There were two compartments in that case—one under this velvet bottom. I saw it was so when I lifted the guns. And it was locked, but soon as you and the old boy went out, I broke it. There, rolled up, as though they'd been slapped in there in a mighty hurry were these papers—Laure's grants—right from the king o' Spain. I sure read enough fo' that! Why the looks of it's enough to scare me!"

"Yes?" I queried, for I had not thought as fast as he.
 "I waited till you all got out," he continued.
 "Yes," I repeated, "not a soul of them knows—not a soul in all the world, except you and me, Virgil!"
 His troubled smile was on me. "I could burn 'em, here on the cabin floor. I could tear 'em across and drop 'em ove' and in an hour they'd look like a drowned water-lily. Sho!" And if she has 'em there's no two guesses at it. The Prairie Meadows Company—and you and me, and every one in it—is busted. There'd be no fight in it—we couldn't go back on these grants—you see I know. The cou't'd reverse the case in fo'ty minutes when they saw these first records."

"I see." The slow and growing brightness of his eye did not deceive me. And I went on evenly in what must have been a taunt to him, there with his wreck—fortune, his pledged word, his reputation among men—the fruit of his eight years' fight for himself and all the others: "The biggest fighters are the biggest losers—you have it right, Virgil!"

"What would you do, Doctor Dick?"
 "I'm not saying. I won't be wholly ruined if the land company blew up tomorrow. Not altogether. But there are at least twenty widows and poor folks in the Isle Bonne lands through me. Old friends and neighbors, that I got in—somehow, because you said—"

"Don't—" he said. "I got as many mo'! I ain't worryin' about those New York fel-lows. The speculators and financiers; it's the little ones who—well, they been pretty patient with me—let me vote their stock so's I could fight the big fel-lows who wanted to pull out all the time. Yes, seh—they stood by me—trustin'—and now—"

He looked out at the blue quiver of heat against the cypress isle—the timber alone of it would fight off disaster if all else quit him.

"Well," he muttered briefly, "I wonder why God made me find it? It wouldn't have been so hard on you—Doctor Dick—or Clell—or anybody. But me—" he looked out and up the dazzling wharf to the high silent house: "And she—she's asleep in the—the and knows she's lost—yes, seh—and me—I'm walkin' around with this stuff in my pockets. Yes, seh—and she won't compromise—she'll go away a beggar with that old fool. Yes—seh! I deviled him fo' fou' years—but now he's a better man than I am! It's how a man loses that counts! Anybody can be a man and win!"

Then he stood up and put the papers in his pocket. I followed him out and under the awnings of his own boat—the gay little white cruiser with her brasses and mahogany cabin that he had bought in his first exultance of victory to have for journeys "out front" to the city in the busy years of the exploitation of his lands. I think, when we had gone down in that cozy cabin, and the first stir of the afternoon breeze which foretells the August squalls had touched the silken curtains, that it was the ironic luxuriousness of the Seabird after the dirt and grime of his work all these years, which first drove the steel of failure to his soul.

He laughed mirthlessly as we sat across the table and touched the ice-water to our lips. The yellow boy was under the fore-awning rubbing lazily at the brass-work. And the gaunt Texan looked out to the others on the shade of the gallery.

"The big losers, Doctor Dick! Shucks, the old boy is right! Tomorrow, I'll stand on my feet, on the corner of Canal and Royal streets—and I'll owe the Prairie Meadows Land company two hundred and twenty-five thousand dollehs—and I won't have the price of a shave, when I pay the boy here."

I had to watch him now—and I had kept my face averted. He was laughing again strangely, like a man the heat had touched. Then he got up and struck the table.

"Doctor Dick, will you go down here? I can't go face 'em all. I wouldn't know how to talk. And the baron—the old boy—I can't face him, somehow. But Laure—the grants are hers—I expaict I must pay 'em right into her hands. And tell her we quit—to-morry I'll jerk the dredges out of the ditch, wire the New York fel-lows to get a new manager to pull what he can out of the wreck—and then I'll find a steamship fo' British Honduras. I know a fel-lo minin' down the'! You just watch me some-a-time!" Then the patient smile lit his worn eyes: "I can fight—but I know when to be licked. The baron—I expaict he's been just livin on fo'ty years after his proper time to tell me that. And a dog-gone proper knight he is!"

"Tut—you!" I stuttered at him, for the tears kept to my eyes. "I'm telling you the same—you beggar!"

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

Baby Marie Osborn (Little Mary Sunshine).

She's a native of Denver, Colo., and her parents are both professionals. As "Babe" St. Clair her mother is known to many people of the stage. Leon T. Osborn is the father.

Special scenarios are being prepared for Little Mary Sunshine of the Balboa-Pathe company. Little Miss Sunshine acknowledges four summers and the same number of winters. In fact, she isn't a whit ashamed of her age and boldly admits it to all who inquire. Will M. Ritchey and D. F. Whitcomb are the two writers engaged to furnish Baby Sunshine with suitable vehicles.

When H. M. Horkheimer, president of the Balboa studios, realized the popularity of Mary Sunshine, after the release of the five-reel feature in which she carried the whole story on her baby shoulders, he immediately ordered his scenario staff to prepare photoplays to feature her. Ten are being written, the best six to be selected from the output. The personality of the little lady is the theme around which the writers are to work. Considering the versatility of the child, this gives the scenario writers a wider range than one can believe possible.

Florence La Badie, Thanhouser-Mutual star, is her own chauffeur, having just bought a new car, which she is thinking seriously of entering in the Sheephead Bay amateur races on the fourth of July.

Mary Miles Minter was welcomed with a speech from the mayor of Santa Barbara when she arrived there recently for a season's work with the American Film company, Inc.

It's her island—how the mischief could we keep it?"

"Easy. Just a match to these documents." And again his sad humor lit him. "Easy—and that's what makes it so plumb hard!"

And when I went out and up the hot wharf to Papa Prosper's house, I could still hear him muttering in his little white cabin:
 "Easy—and that's what makes it hard!"

I found them all idling about Prosper's chairs and hammocks. It was mid-noon now, August in Louisiana, without the gulf breeze; and that is something bad—when the sea breeze falls.

The tidal lakes northward were blue burnished copper again, with a little patch of feathery bloom miles away where one incipient wind had wandered. And out of Isle Bonne's jungle, the stinging sun found way. Mary hardly stirred her weary head from the hammock. "I wonder what is next?" she murmured. "Clell, won't you fan me again—please?"

His Addition Was Right
 "I got one hundred this morning." "That's lovely, Sammy!" exclaimed his proud mother. "What was it in?"

"Fifty in reading, and fifty in 'rithmetic," was Sammy's prompt reply.

Ever Notice It?
 If you stop to think, you can doubtless name a number of people who talk too much—including yourself.

VERSE and REVERSE

Friendship

A ruddy drop of manly blood
 The surging sea outweighs:
 The world, uncertain, comes and goes.

The lover rooted stays.
 I fancied he was fled—
 And after many a year
 Glowed unexpected kindness.
 Like daily sunrise there,
 My careful heart was free again.
 "O friend," my bosom said,
 "Through thee the rose is red;
 All things through thee take nobler form
 And look beyond the earth;
 The mill-round of our fate appears
 A sun-path in thy worth.
 Me, too, thy nobleness has taught
 To master my despair;
 The fountains of my hidden life
 Are through thy friendship fair."
 —Emerson.

OPERATION SUCCESSFUL

Miss Margaret Peck, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Peck, 702 South Seventh street, was taken to the La Crosse hospital early yesterday afternoon and underwent an operation for appendicitis, following a sudden attack. Dr. J. A. Rowles, who performed the operation, reports that the child is resting easily today.

Mr. Bryan encounters Armageddon right there at home in Nebraska.

Militia Tabloids

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Battery C, Chicago's "millionaire battery," was short an officers' mess kit. "Go ahead—order one and send the bill to me," said Lawrence H. Armour, in case the company wants horses, Armour said he would supply these.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—A "left behind me" club is being organized by the girls, mothers and sisters of the militiamen ordered to the border.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—M. R. Collins, enlisted with the Third regiment, M. N. G., as a substitute for his brother, R. B. Collins, so the latter might work to finish his education.

NEW YORK.—"It's their duty and they ought to go," says Mrs. Zenas Burns, mother of "the Burnses of the Sixty-ninth." Of her six sons, four have answered the call to arms. The other two are too young.

NEW YORK.—The "war bride" battalion continues to grow. Six national guardsmen have been married here in the last twenty-four hours. Of these, the marriage of Michael Miller was an international affair, for his mother is German, his mother-in-law French. He expects to go to Mexico.

NEW YORK.—"I wouldn't let the baby go, not if you put a million dollars right in my hand," said Mrs. Michael Coston, when it was suggested she would have to give up her six months old child because the father has mobilized with his troops and she is penniless.

A Fine Aid For Mother-to-be

We are all greatly indebted to those who tell their experiences. And among the many things which we read about and are of immediate importance to the expectant mother, is a splendid external remedy called "Mother's Friend." This is applied over the muscles of the stomach. It is deeply penetrating in its influence. Mothers everywhere tell of its soothing effect, how it allays pains incident to stretching of cords, ligaments and muscles. They tell of restful comfort, of calm, peaceful nights, an absence of those distresses peculiar to the period of expectancy, relief from morning sickness, no more of that apprehension with which so many young women's minds become burdened. It is a splendid help. Get a bottle of "Mother's Friend" from your nearest druggist. Ask your husband to get it for you. Then write to Bradfield Regulator Co., 408 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for a very handsome and instructive book. It is filled with suggestive ideas of great help to all women interested in the subject of maternity. And best of all are some letters from mothers that are real inspirations. Write today.

SAYS HOT WATER
WASHES POISONS
FROM THE LIVER

Everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it, before breakfast.

To feel as fine as the proverbial fiddle, we must keep the liver washed clean, almost every morning, to prevent its sponge-like pores from clogging with indigestible material, sour bile and poisonous toxins, says a noted physician.

If you get headaches, it's your liver. If you catch cold easily, it's your liver. If you wake up with a bad taste, furred tongue, nasty breath or stomach becomes rancid, it's your liver. Sallow skin, muddy complexion, watery eyes all denote liver uncleanness. Your liver is the most important, also the most abused and neglected organ of the body.
Few know its function or how to release the dammed-up body waste, bile and toxins. Most folks resort to violent cathartics, which is a dangerous, salivating chemical which can only be used occasionally because it accumulates in the tissues, also attacks the bones.

Every man and woman, sick or well, should drink each morning before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, to wash from the liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, the poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Limestone phosphate does not restrict the diet like calomel, because it can not salivate, for it is harmless and you can eat anything afterwards.
It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, and any pharmacist will sell you a quarter pound, which is sufficient for a demonstration of how hot water and limestone phosphate cleans, stimulates and freshens the liver, keeping you feeling fit day in and day out.

U. S. MANIFESTO
WELL RECEIVED IN MEXICAN CAPITAL

MEXICO CITY, June 26.—Secretary Lansing's statement to the Latin-American diplomats has caused an excellent impression here. It is now believed in official circles that the prospects for a peaceable solution of the present difficulties between the United States and Mexico are promising.

Secretary Lansing informed the South American diplomats that "this government (in the event of hostilities) would have for its object not intervention in Mexican affairs with all the regrettable consequences which might result from such a policy, but the defense of American territory from invasion of bands of armed Mexicans."

Officials said that this was similar to the attitude of the Carranza-ista government which would not wage war but would content itself with resisting invasion.

GRIP AND NEURASTHENIA

There is a form of neurasthenia that follows the grip. Doctors call it "postgrip" neurasthenia. One of the foremost medical authorities of New York city in a lecture in the international clinics, said:

"Broadly speaking, every victim of the grip will suffer from post-grip neurasthenia also. Lowering of nervous tone with increased irritability is the most striking effect of the disease, languor of mind and body, disturbed, fitful sleep and vague pains in the head and elsewhere. The treatment calls for rest and a tonic."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a non-alcoholic tonic, are particularly suited for building up the blood and strengthening the nerves after an attack of the grip. The rich red blood expels the lingering germs from the system and transforms despondent grip victims into cheerful, healthy, happy men and women.

If you have had the grip get a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now from the nearest drug store and begin the treatment at once.

On request we will send you a free pamphlet, "Building Up the Blood," which contains a chapter on the grip.

ENGLAND EXPECTS MORE STRIKES OF MUNITIONS MAKERS

Labor Defections Settled Only Temporarily in Opinion of Great Pacifist

BY ED L. KEEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
LONDON, June 12.—(By mail.)—
The labor troubles on the Clyde are over—for the moment.

That there will be further strikes in this big munitions making district is not only feared, it is expected.

Opinion in England is divided as to the real reason why some 3,000 workmen, at the most critical period of the war, downed tools in defiance of the government and despite the patriotic appeals of their own labor union; but there are few who will dispute the assertion that the situation was sadly mishandled by the authorities.

In the first place the fact that a strike was on was concealed until the last possible moment.

Then, instead of acting with vigor under the acts of parliament which forbid strikes in munitions factories on any ground whatever, and promptly arresting the offenders, the government compromised by merely deporting the ring-leaders to another district.

That these men were not given a public trial is resented as much by workmen generally as by their associates.

Such a trial would doubtless have brought out the underlying causes of the strike. The charge has been freely made that German influences, including German money, were responsible.
This is hotly denied, not only by the men involved but by labor leaders generally.

Denounce Strikers
It is much to the credit of organized labor in this country, however, that the strikers have been roundly denounced by the responsible heads of the labor movement.

Even those labor leaders who are avowed pacifists, like George Lans-bury, have condemned them.

"We pacifists," says Lansbury,
"dare not interfere with the essential supplies needed by the army and navy until the nation gives the word to 'stop the war'. It is simply murder to send men out unarmed and improperly equipped. It is our own flesh and blood in the trenches and at whatever cost, we who remain at home must do nothing to hinder them."

Lansbury ascribes the troubles on the Clyde chiefly to lack of sympathy between employers and workmen, similar to that prevailing in the South Wales coal fields.

One of the most radical, as well as most troublesome, labor leaders—before the war—was Ben Tillett, of the Transport Workers' union, who in the last few months has been going up and down the country preaching patriotism and loyalty among his fellow workers, and urging them to join the army.

Other Side Few men have been more bitter in their denunciation of the action of the Clyde strikers, but even Tillett has been able to see "the other side" of the question.

"From the point of view of the men in the trenches," said Tillett today, "this strike was a crime little less, perhaps more, terrible than murder. Viewed from the standpoint of the nation, no worse calamity could befall us, not even a German defeat. But we should not be led too far on the path of condemnation."

"It should be remembered that these men had been for twenty months working at full pitch day in and day out. Long hours and overtime have been the rule and not the exception. Body and brain alike have been fatigued."

"Weariness due to physical strain, temper due to the grays and monotony of their lives made them fit subjects for the promptings of revolt.
At all the works there has been the natural friction due to stricter discipline and more rigid forms or organization."

"Between the managerial departments of the works and the military and naval officials there has been further friction, and this was reacted on the men."

"Really a revolution has been taking place in this industry, and the managers as well as the authorities have failed to recognize it. Old established industrial conditions have

WAR SUPPLIES HAVE RIGHT-OF-WAY ON AMERICAN RAILROADS

WASHINGTON, June 26.—War department supplies and troop trains have the right of way on all American railroads. Through the American Railway association, the department, it was learned today, has at its disposal all the rolling stock it desires. that Carranza upholds the attitude of hostility which resulted in the Carrizal massacre and otherwise continues to defy the United States in its policy of maintaining the army in Mexico for the purpose of safeguarding the border. The foremost features of the discussion were the question of congress declaring war on Mexico, in the event of further defiance by Carranza, and the suggestion that the president appear at a joint session of both houses to submit a statement of the ominous situation. Carranza Admits Blame for Attack. It transpires that the president's demands upon Carranza, which are being denominated an ultimatum, although they do not fix a time limit on a reply, were precipitated by a formal communication to the American government Saturday. In this note Carranza virtually pleads guilty to making war on the United States.

He assumes responsibility for the orders to Gen. Trevino to prevent the American troops from executing any movement except in withdrawal from Mexico and seeks to justify the massacre of Capt. Boyd's command on the ground that the American force disregarded the Trevino mandate.

No Longer Wait Needed by U. S. Carranza's attitude toward the United States in its policy of maintaining the army in Mexico for the purpose of safeguarding the border. The foremost features of the discussion were the question of congress declaring war on Mexico, in the event of further defiance by Carranza, and the suggestion that the president appear at a joint session of both houses to submit a statement of the ominous situation. Carranza Admits Blame for Attack. It transpires that the president's demands upon Carranza, which are being denominated an ultimatum, although they do not fix a time limit on a reply, were precipitated by a formal communication to the American government Saturday. In this note Carranza virtually pleads guilty to making war on the United States.

No Longer Wait Needed by U. S. This admission by Carranza, in the opinion of the president, settles the question of responsibility for the attack on the Boyd command and absolves the Americans of any blame for the tragedy. Mr. Wilson decided that it would not be necessary to wait longer the complete report of the circumstances of the tragic affair by Gen. Pershing.

Reaches Mexico City The demand upon Carranza is now in Mexico City. Consul Rodgers reported he was making efforts last night to deliver it but probably would have to defer delivery until today. Rodgers indicated he had no line on Carranza's attitude toward the last two notes.

GREAT DRIVE OF ALLIES BELIEVED TO HAVE STARTED

ITALIAN FORCES TURN

Rome Claims Recapture of Many Positions Lost in the Recent Austrian Offensive

BY ED L. KEEN

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) LONDON, June 26.—Every surface indication today pointed to the beginning of the long expected super-offensive of the allies.

Breaking out with a terrific smash against the Austrian front, the Italians drove the Austrians back yesterday on a front of more than fifteen miles. They recaptured seven positions taken by the Austrian crown prince in his recent drive in the Trentino.

At practically the same hour that the Italian rush began, British artillery broke loose with a battering attack against German trenches from the La Basse canal southward to the Somme. Both the British and German official statements comment on the violence of this attack. Thus far no word has reached London of the beginning of the expected British infantry attack.

Russ Brings Up Reserves

Dispatches from Berlin today reported that the Russians, instead of being disheartened by their temporary check in Volhynia, are bringing immense numbers of reserves into action and have renewed their vigorous attempts to reach Kovel.

Break Through

Russian troops have broken through the Carpathian mountains into Transylvania in an advance from Bukovina, according to a wireless dispatch from Rome today.

Reports that Rumania is displaying military activity, coming from German sources today coincide with other dispatches that the pro-

Private advices stating that General Pershing's main command on the retirement toward El Valle was attacked are not taken seriously. This movement north conforms with Carranza's orders to General Trevino to oppose any advance south, east or west.

COLD FACTS MUST PROVE INNOCENCE

COURTROOM, WAUKEGAN, Ill., June 26.—Will Orpet took the stand today in his trial for the murder of Marian Lambert.

COURT ROOM, WAUKEGAN, Wis., June 26.—Declaring that "this is a court room and not a theatrical production or an experimental school in sociology," James H. Wilkerson, chief counsel for Orpet, announced in his opening statement for the defense that he would count on cold facts to prove Orpet innocent of Marian Lambert's murder.

The defense, Wilkerson declared, will rely on mathematical evidence, the testimony of alienists and the story of the defendant himself to establish the fact that Marian killed herself.

Alienists, Wilkerson said, will show that Marian's frame of mind was the frame of mind that almost invariably leads to suicide.

tery battery; signal corps; ambulance company. Vermont—One regiment of infantry.

Orders to make ready for instant orders to move were sent to the militia commandants in Florida, District of Columbia, Virginia, Georgia, New Hampshire, Kentucky, Maine, Rhode Island, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama and Tennessee. Entraining orders for these forces await only formal report from state adjutants general that the men are ready and fully mobilized.

The bulk of the 100,000 militiamen ordered out will probably be either on the line or en route before the end of the week. Everything possible is being done to hasten the departure of the entire force. These preparations coupled with war department activity reflected the view of the army men that trouble is in the offing, though they admitted diplomacy may still have a chance.

The campaign is planned. It contemplates taking sufficient time to avoid unnecessary casualties through lack of preparation. It proposes sweeping into Mexico from strategic border points, lacking in the northern Mexican forces, seizing Torreón and Saltillo to control railroads and pushing through to Mexico City.

As matters now stand these moves will require stripping the border patrol of regulars. At some points this must be delayed pending the arrival of militia.

Can't Avoid Call

In order that there may be sufficient men, a call for volunteers will be one of the first steps if President Wilson decides war cannot be avoided. Two hundred and fifty thousand are the figures estimated for the first call and six months the time for raising them. It war comes it will be long, the experts say. The spectacular battles probably will occur within a few months, but the work of controlling guerrilla bands and rehabilitating the country might take from two to five years.

Sidetrack Ordinary Travel

Regimental commanders in the states where immediate movement was ordered worked the greater part of the night communicating with railroad heads and arranging transportation. Since the government has power to commandeer transportation facilities, it is believed that the call will be made without delay.

GALESVILLE AUTO DRIVERS ARE HELD FOR INVESTIGATION

Condition of Aged Man in Collision with Their Machine Is Said Today to Be Very Serious

FAILED TO GIVE AID

In Compliance with State Law Compelling Auto Drivers to Assist Persons Injured By Them

Leonard O. Johnson and Sievert Aulht, Galesville, were held by the police today pending an investigation by District Attorney Otto M. Schlabach into facts surrounding a collision between their machine and Nels Nelson, 608 South Fourth street, at the approach to the Mississippi wagon bridge Saturday night. Nelson was probably fatally injured. The men may be charged with refusal to give aid to Nelson, in disobedience to a state law.

Nelson, a brother of A. O. Nelson, traveling solicitor for The TRIBUNE, and is 55 years old. He was riding his bicycle down the wagon bridge approach. Johnson and Aulht are said to have been driving their machine south on Front street. Opinion of eye witnesses as to whether Nelson struck the automobile, or the machine struck him, differ.

In Serious Condition

Nelson's skull was fractured, his nose and jaw were broken, several teeth were knocked out and he is believed to have been internally injured. He was taken to St. Francis hospital where it came from Onalaska. The police auto was dispatched to both towns. Police later learned that the sought for car was at the Canuteson home. When notified of this by Chief Webber Mr. Canuteson questioned the men. They admitted having collided with Nelson and were driven to the station.

They then made a statement, declaring that they were not to blame. District Attorney Schlabach today pointed to the state law which requires automobile drivers to stop their machine and give aid to persons injured by their machine. That Johnson and Aulht failed to stop longer than to briefly examine Nelson, is believed by Chief Webber to be an established fact. This may form the basis for a charge against the men.

NO ASSURANCE OF PEACE CONTAINED IN OFFICIAL WORD

Wilson May Find It Necessary to Appear Before Congress with Situation Before the Week Ends

Order to Trevino to Prevent American Movements Traced to Carranza in Latest Wilson Note

BY CARL D. GROAT

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, June 26.—A double responsibility for the Carrizal battle appeared partly established today. It did not, however, place such a burden on the American forces as to assure peace. On the contrary, developments so shaped themselves that it seems likely President Wilson may find it necessary to appear before congress before the week ends.

Only a complete right about face by Carranza can save the situation. The report of Captain Morey as he lay supposedly dying on the Carrizal desert, indicated to officials that the action of the American force before Carrizal might have been provocative.

Morey wrote that Captain Boyd was under the impression that the Mexicans would run when the Americans fired. "He formed for attack," said Morey's report.

On the other hand, the publication of the American demands for the release of seventeen American prisoners from Chihuahua showed that Carranza had issued the order for the second brigade is contained in the new army bill which goes into effect July 1. By this Wisconsin is allowed 10,500 troops. The organization of this second brigade probably would not have been started in 1916 had it not been for the call to the colors.

Camp Douglas re-echoed with firing this morning, all the rookies being out on the range for their first experience of the service rifle's kick. They were put through their first assault on the targets in groups of six. Practice was limited to five rounds per man.

Arms All Arrive

Arms and ordinance equipment up to full war strength came this morning from the Rock Island arsenal. It was shipped last Friday but held up in a freight jam at Belvidere, Ill. By tonight all the rookies will be armed. Uniforms ordered from St. Louis have not been heard from.

Vaccination of the men with anti-typhoid serum began today. For the medical service connected with changing the guard into regular army men Major J. E. Seaman, head of the Wisconsin Medical service, has been given a captain's commission. Colonel James N. Kennedy, United States army surgeon, arrived yesterday to take charge of medical examinations.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

FRAILITY, OR FIDELITY

BY ELSIE SEE

Abigail Thomas was seated in the visitors' gallery of the state senate one morning, and in her smartly tailored black silk suit and a flowered hat her fair beauty was even more pronounced than usual. The senate was discussing a bill for the control of public utilities by city governments, and Abigail's father had just concluded a speech in its favor. Representatives of corporations, public-spirited citizens and lovers of oratory filled the visitors' section. The discussion became more heated with each speaker's contribution.

While the interest was at its height, the heavy swinging doors of the senate chamber opened slowly and there entered a pale, sad-faced young woman who looked at the strange scene about her in a confused way. In her plain, dark blue suit and that she would have attracted little attention had it not been for the searching look in her half-frightened, half-determined eyes.

As the woman slowly approached the brass rail which formed a semicircle dividing the senatorial desks from the seat section for visitors, Abigail Thomas recognized her as Mamie Morton, who, as Mamie Ellis, had been her classmate in grammar school, but who was now the tired and patient little dressmaker of Thomasville. Only a day or two before, Senator Thomas had spoken of the efforts Mamie was making to have her husband pardoned from state prison, and when Abigail saw her standing there looking so timid, yet so determined, she felt a desire to help her.

Perhaps the desire was made stronger because Abigail was beginning to feel remorseful about a quarrel she had had with Stanley Worth the night before. Stanley Worth was governor of the state and a suitor for Abigail's hand. After proposing to her four times in three months and being given a different reason each time for her refusal, he had told her that although he honestly loved her he would no longer furnish her opportunities for indulging her capriciousness.

Abigail's estimation of him went up many points upon this show of spirit, but a moment later it was consumed in the heat of her wrath, as he gave a semi-tragic quotation of "Frailty, thy name is woman." So the quarrel continued until Abigail said to herself that she would make him suffer for that contemptuous slander of her sex and until Stanley Worth said to himself that if he ever married any woman it would be because she did the proposing and inveigled him into acceptance before he knew what he was doing.

From her seat in the visitors' gallery, Abigail went over toward the woman standing beside the brass rail. A roll call having been demanded, the secretary was calling the names of the senators, whose ayes and noes were being given in voices ranging from high-pitched nasal wheezes to guttural growls. Mamie Morton approached the sergeant-at-arms and told him she must speak to Senator Thomas. The big officer shook his head doubtfully and reluctantly approached the senator, who left his seat and went at once to the woman. "I cannot promise that the governor has taken any action," said Senator Thomas in answer to her eager question. "Many matters of state claim his attention at this time, and he may not have had time to look into this."

"I believe he is innocent," said the senator, "in spite of the circumstantial evidence indicating that he took the money from Jabe Ewing's cash drawer. I hope the governor will come to see it as I do, but his decision may seem slow to you. Come with me, though, and we will see what has been done."

"And let me go, too, won't you, dad?" asked Abigail, who surprised her father by joining them and greeting Mamie cordially.

"Why, certainly, daughter, but I thought—you know, we're going down to the governor's office."

"Yes, I know, but I want to go, and perhaps I can be of some comfort to her while she is waiting." Her father knew better than to question Abigail's whims.

When they reached the governor's suite of offices, Senator Thomas gave his card to a smiling secretary, who took it at once into the governor's private office and returned a moment later bidding the senator enter the gubernatorial presence. As they sat waiting, Mamie told Abigail how everything pointed to Henry's innocence, including an affidavit voluntarily sent her the week before by Dave Gibson, now living out west, but at the time of the Ewing robbery a citizen of Thomasville. In his statement he told that owing to his dislike Henry Morton, who had been his rival for Mamie's hand, he had kept quiet when he had evidence that the money from Jabe Ewing's cash drawer had been taken by two tramps who buried part of it in Henry Morton's garden merely to throw suspicion from themselves and point it toward Henry, who was employed in Ewing's store.

CASEMENT ANSWERS "NOT GUILTY" TO TREASON CHARGE

Noble Who Led Futile Irish Revolt Appears Before Magistrate in Air of Confidence

BY WILBUR S. FORREST
 (United Press Staff Correspondent.)
 LONDON, June 26.—In a firm voice, Sir Roger Casement today pleaded not guilty to the charge of high treason, at the opening of his trial before Lord Chief Justice Reading and Associate Justices Avey and Harbridge. A jury was obtained from a special panel of 150 talesmen in less than an hour.

Casement was today scarcely the same man who appeared at the preliminary arraignment in Bow street police court. Then, his beard sadly needed trimming, his hair was tawny and he wore an ill-fitting sack suit. When he was brought over this morning from Brixton prison to the tower of London, he wore a carefully brushed morning coat and immaculate linen. His beard and hair were carefully trimmed.

The prisoner listened calmly while the clerk read the lengthy charge, reciting his activities in connection with the Irish rebellion and his attempts to induce Irish soldiers, prisoners in Germany, to desert from the British army. He watched his counsel, Michael Doyle, of Philadelphia, closely.

GARRANZA TROOPS JEER AMERICAN MOTOR DRIVERS

COLUMBUS, N. M., June 26.—Carranza troops, who appeared in Ascension, jeered an American motor truck train which natives stoned but no shots were fired and the train passed through the village safely. The situation along the expedition's communication lines today is reported as tense.

WAR SUPPLIES HAVE RIGHT-OF-WAY ON AMERICAN RAILROADS

WASHINGTON, June 26.—War department supplies and troop trains have the right of way on all American railroads. Through the American Railway association, the department, it was learned today, has at its disposal all the rolling stock it desires. Cars containing war department material bear a special placard and this is recognized, by every dispatcher and train crew as giving it the right of way. Much of the war department freight moves even faster than express trains. In one case during the past week, a railroad side-tracked one of its fast limited passenger trains to make way for war supplies—the only time it ever gave any train precedence over its crack special.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN WALKS INTO WATER AND ENDS LIFE

An unidentified man committed suicide this afternoon by walking into the Mississippi at the foot of Fremont street and drowning himself. He was seen to enter the water by Mrs. Henry Platz, 2404 Fremont street. Thinking the man had reason for entering the water, shallow near the bank of the stream, she paid little attention to him until she saw him enter the deeper part of the stream. Then she saw his head sink.

FIRST CHIEF ASKED FOR A STATEMENT

 ers discussed principally the procedure that will be followed in the event that Carranza upholds the attitude of hostility which resulted in the Carrizal massacre and otherwise continues to defy the United States in its policy of maintaining the army in Mexico for the purpose of safeguarding the border.

The foremost features of the discussion were the question of congress declaring war on Mexico, in the event of further defiance by Carranza, and the suggestion that the president appear at a joint session of both houses to submit a statement of the ominous situation. Carranza Admits Blame for Attack

It transpires that the president's demands upon Carranza, which are being denominated an ultimatum, although they do not fix a time limit on a reply, were precipitated by a formal communication to the American government Saturday. In this note Carranza virtually pleads guilty to making war on the United States.

He assumes responsibility for the orders to Gen. Trevino to prevent the American troops from executing any movement except in withdrawal from Mexico and seeks to justify the massacre of Capt. Boyd's command on the ground that the American force disregarded the Trevino mandate.

No Longer Wait Needed by U. S. This admission by Carranza, in the opinion of the president, settles the question of responsibility for the attack on the Boyd command and absolves the Americans of any blame for the tragedy. Mr. Wilson decided that it would not be necessary to await longer the complete report of the circumstances of the tragic affair by Gen. Pershing.

Reaches Mexico City

The demand upon Carranza is now in Mexico City. Consul Rodgers reported he was making efforts last night to deliver it but probably would have to defer delivery until today. Rodgers indicated he had no line on Carranza's attitude toward the last two notes.

VESSEL PUT OUT UNDER SEALED ORDERS

GLOUCESTER, Mass., June 26.—At 6 a. m., United States steamer Baltimore the mine layer Lebanon, supply ship Dubuque and four seagoing tugs sailed from Gloucester harbor under sealed orders, presumably for some Mexican gulf port.

CAPTAIN MOREY BLAMES MEXICANS

and made their way nearly two miles from the battlefield. They were forced to stop and Captain Morey, believing himself hopelessly wounded, ordered them to leave him. They also thought him about to die from loss of blood and thirst, and obeyed.

The letter was addressed to Morey's immediate superior, the commanding officer at Ojo Federico. It is believed Lieutenant Meyer sent it to Ojo Federico, from where it was forwarded to Pershing.

A wireless addressed to Morey's wife in Austin, Texas, received last night read: "Am back on line and all well." It was signed "Sidney" and sent from "somewhere in Mexico."

General Funston has received no word early today of Morey's rescue. Of the 84 officers and men comprising Troops C and K, one officer and 43 men have returned to the American lines.

The prisoners held at Chihuahua City are said to number seventeen. This leaves twenty-three men to be accounted for. Practically all of those latter are believed to have been killed.

POLICE LOOK FOR RECKLESS DRIVER

Police are today searching for the driver of an automobile which last night leaped the curb at Sixth and Main streets and ran into the iron railing around St. Joseph's cathedral boulevard. Indications are, police say, that the car was damaged.

SITUATION GRAVE

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 26.—Army officials at Fort Sam Houston characterized present situation as "the gravest in history" of the two countries. They expressed their opinion that it would be only two or three days before "the big stuff starts."

Feverish preparations for a movement of considerable proportions are being made.

Funston has wired General Wood and other department commanders directions as to the destinations for the National Guard, but refused to make them public.

Hurry to Border
 SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—Seven companies of the coast artillery corps, United States army, today left Fort Scott, Baker, and Miley guarding the Golden Gate and hurried for the Mexican border, in response to rush orders from Washington.

PASS $3,000,000 INCREASE TO BUY GUNS AND HORSES

WASHINGTON, June 26.—A $3,000,000 increase to the provision in the army bill for purchase of artillery and cavalry horses, passed the house today. The item now reads $3,800,000 for horses. The war department is purchasing 65,000 immediately for regulars and militia. Chairman Hay, House military committee, said today additions to the $157,000,000 army bill already passed may total $25,000,000, due to the Mexican trouble. Cost of mobilizing the army up to June 30 will approximate $6,000,000. Another addition today was $2,000,000 instead of $1,000,000 for sanitary, medical and hospital departments.

GREAT DRIVE OF ALLIES BELIEVED TO HAVE STARTED

Italians Drive Austrians Back, Russ Cross Carpathians and British Launch Great Artillery Fire

ITALIAN FORCES TURN

Rome Claims Recapture of Many Positions Lost in the Recent Austrian Offensive

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
 LONDON, June 26.—Every surface indication today pointed to the beginning of the long expected super-offensive of the allies.

Breaking out with a terrific smash against the Austrian front, the Italians drove the Austrians back yesterday on a front of more than fifteen miles. They recaptured seven positions taken by the Austrian crown prince in his recent drive in the Trentino.

At practically the same hour that the Italian rush began, British artillery broke loose with a battering attack against German trenches from the La Basse canal southward to the Somme. Both the British and German official statements comment on the violence of this attack. Thus far no word has reached London of the beginning of the expected British infantry attack.

Russ Brings Up Reserves
 Dispatches from Berlin today reported that the Russians, instead of being disheartened by their temporary check in Volhynia, are bringing immense numbers of reserves into action and have renewed their vigorous attempts to reach Kovel.

Break Through
 Russian troops have broken through the Carpathian mountains into Transylvania in an advance from Bukovina, according to a wireless dispatch from Rome today.

Reports that Rumania is displaying military activity, coming from German sources today coincide with other dispatches that the pro-ally party at Bucharest is urging Rumania's entrance into the war.

General Retreat

Rome, June 26.—Austrian troops have begun a general retreat on the Trentino front under a smashing Italian offensive, it was officially announced today. The Italians have captured positions at Castelgomberto, Meletto, Mont Loughara, Gallio, Asiago, Cesuna and Monte Cengio.

The Italian gains are the most important made by General Cadorna's armies in a single attack since the first few weeks following the outbreak of the Austro-Italian war. The Italians taking advantage of the withdrawal of Austrian troops to meet the Russian offensive.

The hardest blow was struck against the Austrian center which invaded Italy in the recent Italian offensive.

French Carry Trenches
 PARIS, June 26.—French troops carried a few elements of German trenches between Fumin and Chenois woods on the northeastern front of Verdun last night, the war office announced today. A German attack west of Thiaucourt was completely checked by French green fire.

Artillery duels occurred around Dead Man's hill on the northwestern front of Verdun.

BERLIN, June 26.—In most stubborn fighting west of Sokul, the Germans have inflicted new defeats on the Russians, the war office announced this afternoon. In the fighting since June 16, the Germans have taken sixty-one Russian officers, 11,987 men, two cannon and fifty-four machine guns.

ADVANCED BASE IS MOVED TO EL VALLE

EL PASO, Texas, June 26.—The border today awaited the last diplomatic moves before war. Convinced that war is inevitable, immediate interest centered in the withdrawal of the American expedition advanced base from Namiquipa to El Valle and in Carranza's reply to President Wilson's latest demands.

Private advices stating that General Pershing's main command on the retreat toward El Valle was attacked are not taken seriously. This movement north conforms with Carranza's orders to General Trevino to oppose any advance south, east or west.

GOLD FACTS MUST PROVE INNOCENCE

COURT ROOM, WAUKEGAN, Wis., June 26.—Declaring that "this is a court room and not a theatrical production or an experimental school in sociology," James H. Wilkerson, chief counsel for Orpet, announced in his opening statement for the defense that he would count on cold facts to prove Orpet innocent of the Marian Lambert murder.

The defense, Wilkerson declared, will rely on mathematical evidence, the testimony of alienists and the story of the defendant himself to establish the fact that Marian killed herself. Alienists, Wilkerson said, will show that Marian's frame of mind was the frame of mind that almost invariably leads to suicide.

EASTERN TROOPS RUSHED SOUTHWARD

lery battery; signal corps; ambulance company. Vermont—One regiment of infantry.

Orders to make ready for instant orders to move were sent to the militia commanders in Florida, District of Columbia, Virginia, Georgia, New Hampshire, Kentucky, Maine, Rhode Island, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama and Tennessee. Entraining orders for these forces await only formal report from state adjutants general that the men are ready and fully mobilized.

The bulk of the 100,000 militiamen ordered out will probably be either on the line or en route before the end of the week. Everything possible is being done to hasten the departure of the entire force. These preparations coupled with war department activity reflected the view of the army men that trouble is in the offing, though they admitted diplomatically may still have a chance.

The campaign is planned, it contemplates taking sufficient time to avoid unnecessary casualties through lack of preparation. It proposes sweeping into Mexico from strategic border points, lacking in the northern Mexican forces, seizing Torreón and Saltillo to control railroads and pushing through to Mexico City.

As matters now stand these moves will require stripping the border patrol of regulars. At some points this must be delayed pending the arrival of militia.

Can't Avoid Call

In order that there may be sufficient men, a call for volunteers will be one of the first steps if President Wilson decides war cannot be avoided. Two hundred and fifty thousand are the figures estimated for the first call and six months the time for raising them. If war comes it will be long, the experts say. The spectacular battles probably will occur within a few months, but the work of controlling guerrilla bands and rehabilitating the country might take from two to five years.

Sidetrack Ordinary Travel

Regimental commanders in the states where immediate movement was ordered worked the greater part of the night communicating with railroad heads and arranging transportation. Since the government has power to commandeer transportation facilities, it was admitted today that ordinary travel would be side-tracked for the next few days to permit rapid handling of the militia men.

One thing that may hold up actual departure of New York militiamen is desire to await arrival of special supply trains from the Schuylkill depot, Philadelphia, carrying equipment. But state commanders without exception reported their belief they would be able to begin troop movement this afternoon. The supply trains were expected some time today.

Waive Examinations

So urgent was the demand for the militia that medical examination will be waived. Regiments which brought their standing up to full war strength during the last few days, and will take their "green" men along anticipating time to train them upon arrival in Texas.

At 8 o'clock this morning General Wood, having reported to the war department that 17,000 militiamen were ready to go was awaiting orders designating the exact localities to which the men are to be assigned. These were expected momentarily.

Separated from her brother, Charles Hoffman, in childhood, Mrs. Emma Woodward, a resident of La Crosse, met him at Blue Earth, Minn., Saturday for the first time in fifty-two years.

Hoffman is blind and the meeting was pathetic. He was adopted by a German family when a small boy and he always believed that he was of German descent. Mrs. Woodward told him he came of an American family.

al guards, and for three years first lieutenant. He has sent out a call to secure the names of sixty-five La Crosse men who will be asked to sign their names to a petition to Adjutant General Orlando B. Holway for a new La Crosse company of militia. Kling is willing to head either or both organizations, it is said.

Dubraks and the former army man conferred with General Holway yesterday at his headquarters at Camp Douglas. General Holway there gave out the information that three new regiments would be formed in Wisconsin. He gave his full sanction to the La Crosse men to go ahead with the plan, which he asked them to submit in writing.

Mr. Schlachach and Walter S. Woods, who is co-operating with him in the plan for a local military training school, have issued a call for a meeting Wednesday night. They are negotiating for the use of Company M's armory, in the Yeomen building Fifth and King streets. Many, it is understood, have signified their intention of joining.

The "Mexicans" lost to the "United States" at the Bridge Switch picnic grounds yesterday afternoon, in a baseball game which featured a picnic of the Aloysious society of St. Joseph's cathedral. The score was seven to two.

DOUBLE RESPONSIBILITY FOR CARRIZAL FIGHT MIRRORED IN REPORT

Condition of Aged Man in Collision with Their Machine Is Said Today to Be Very Serious

FAILED TO GIVE AID

In Compliance with State Law Compelling Auto Drivers to Assist Persons Injured By Them

Leonard O. Johnson and Sievert Aulth, Galesville, were held by the police today pending an investigation by District Attorney Otto M. Schlachach into facts surrounding a collision between their machine and Nels Nelson, 608 South Fourth street, at the approach to the Mississippi wagon bridge Saturday night. Nelson was probably fatally injured. The men may be charged with refusal to give aid to Nelson, in disobedience to a state law.

Nelson is a brother of A. O. Nelson, traveling solicitor for THE TRIBUNE, and is 55 years old. He was riding his bicycle down the wagon bridge approach. Johnson and Aulth are said to have been driving their machine south on Front street. Opinion of eye witnesses as to whether Nelson struck the automobile, or the machine struck him, differ.

In Serious Condition

Nelson's skull was fractured, his nose and jaw were broken, several teeth were knocked out and he is believed to have been internally injured. He was taken to St. Francis hospital by Dr. G. J. Egan, who said today that there was a bare chance of the man's recovering.

Johnson and Aulth are believed to have telephoned police headquarters immediately after the accident, although they jumped into their machine shortly afterwards and were not located by the police until 11:55 Saturday night. They were placed under arrest by Chief of Police John B. Webber.

According to Martin Rybold, automobile garage owner, who saw the accident, the Galesville men stopped their car after they had gone twenty feet, got out, and turned Nelson over. His head then lay in a pool of blood. They are said by Rybold to have then driven away. Rybold secured the license number of the car.

H. W. Smith, La Crescent, who also claims he saw the accident, maintains that Nelson rode into the side of the Galesville machine. Smith says that the car was not speeding, and puts the blame on Nelson.

Police in Long Chase

Johnson and Aulth are relatives of D. E. Canuteson, Fifth and Division streets, to whose home they went after the accident. Police were notified that the car they sought belonged to someone in La Crescent. Another wrong lead they were given was that it came from Onalaska. The police auto was dispatched to both towns. Police later learned that the sought for car was at the Canuteson home. When notified of this by Chief Webber Mr. Canuteson questioned the men. They admitted having collided with Nelson and were driven to the station.

They then made a statement, declaring that they were not to blame. District Attorney Schlachach today pointed to the state law which requires automobile drivers to stop their machine and give aid to persons injured by their machine. That Johnson and Aulth failed to stop longer than to briefly examine Nelson, is believed by Chief Webber to be an established fact. This may form the basis for a charge against the men.

AEROPLANE IS FIT FOR SCOUTING DUTY

COLUMBUS, N. M., June 26.—For the first time since April 22, an aeroplane is at General Pershing's headquarters, fit for scouting duty. A military aeroplane driven by Lieutenant Christy and Rice and carrying an observer made the flight from Columbus to field headquarters early today. Its safe arrival was reported by wireless.

Huge quantities of military supplies were being unloaded at the local base today and sent out for the expeditionary forces.

NO ASSURANCE OF PEACE CONTAINED IN OFFICIAL WORD

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
 WASHINGTON, June 26.—A double responsibility for the Carrizal battle appeared partly established today. It did not, however, place such a burden on the American forces as to assure peace. On the contrary, developments so shaped themselves that it seems likely President Wilson may find it necessary to appear before congress before the week ends.

Only a complete right about face by Carranza can save the situation. The report of Captain Morey as he lay supposedly dying on the Carrizal desert, indicated to officials that the action of the American force before Carrizal might have been provocative. Morey wrote that Captain Boyd was under the impression that the Mexicans would run when the Americans fired. "He formed for attack," said Morey's report.

On the other hand, the publication of the American demands for the release of seventeen American prisoners from Chihuahua showed that Carranza had issued the order for Trevino not to permit the Americans to move south, east or west.

This would place upon Carranza the responsibility for the Mexicans firing and perhaps prove necessity for Boyd's offensive.

Persons in touch with President Wilson's views said he would delay going before congress on a war mission until Carranza had had time to answer the American ultimatum.

The charge in this message that Carranza had acted with hostility in issuing the order to General Trevino gave evidence that the administration believed war is the only answer if Carranza does not free the Americans taken at Carrizal, disavow that incident and promise safety for the American forces hereafter.

Troop trains are ready to take American militia to the border.

CAPTAIN BRADLEY GETS COMMISSION

200 men were dropped, it is said the deficiency soon will be made up. Recruiting, however, is to go on as briskly as ever at the home stations. A new brigade is to be formed as rapidly as possible and the men who now enlist will be part of this second contingent. Authorization of the second brigade is contained in the new army bill which goes into effect July 1. By this Wisconsin is allowed 10,500 troops. The organization of this second brigade probably would not have been started in 1915 had it not been for the call to the colors.

Camp Douglas re-echoed with firing this morning, all the rookies being out on the range for their first experience of the service rifle's kicks. They were put through their first assault on the targets in groups of six. Practice was limited to five rounds per man.

Arms All Arrive
 Arms and ordnance equipment up to full war strength came this morning from the Rock Island arsenal. It was shipped last Friday but held up in a freight jam at Eadsblende, Ill. By tonight all the rookies will be armed. Uniforms ordered from St. Louis have not been heard from.

Vaccination of the men with antityphoid serum began today. For the medical service connected with changing the guard into regular army men Major J. E. Seaman, head of the Wisconsin medical service, has been given a captain's commission. Colonel James N. Kennedy, United States army surgeon, arrived yesterday to take charge of medical examinations. Major Williams and Colonel John G. Salzman have also been given regular army commissions of their militia rank and will remain in their duties of brigade quartermaster and adjutant, respectively. Lieutenant R. B. Rowley, Milwaukee, has been assigned to the Third regiment hospital corps as surgeon.

Mules for Supply Co.
 Sixty mules from Viroqua arrived today at camp, secured by Lieutenant C. E. Butters, adjutant of the first battalion of the Third regiment.

FRAILITY, OR FIDELITY

BY ELSIE SEE

Abigail Thomas was seated in the visitors' gallery of the state senate one morning, and in her smartly tailored black silk suit and a flowered hat her fair beauty was even more pronounced than usual. The senate was discussing a bill for the control of public utilities by city governments, and Abigail's father had just concluded a speech in its favor. Representatives of corporations, public-spirited citizens and lovers of oratory filled the visitors' section. The discussion became more heated with each speaker's contribution.

While the interest was at its height, the heavy swinging doors of the senate chamber opened slowly and there entered a pale, sad-faced young woman who looked at the strange scene about her in a confused way. In her plain, dark blue suit and hat she would have attracted little attention had it not been for the searching look in her half-frightened, half-determined eyes. As the woman slowly approached the brass rail which formed a semi-circle dividing the senatorial desks from the seat section for visitors, Abigail Thomas recognized her as Mamie Morton, who, as Mamie Ellis, had been her classmate in grammar school, but who was now the tired and patient little dressmaker of Thomasville. Only a day or two before, Senator Morton had spoken of the efforts Mamie was making to have her husband pardoned from state prison, and when Abigail saw her standing there looking so timid, yet so determined, she felt a desire to help her.

Perhaps the desire was made stronger because Abigail was beginning to feel remorseful about a quarrel she had had with Stanley Worth the night before. Stanley Worth was governor of the state and a suitor for Abigail's hand. After proposing to her four times in three months and being given a different reason each time for her refusal, he had told her that although he honestly loved her he would no longer furnish her opportunities for indulging her capriciousness.

Abigail's estimation of him went up many points upon this show of spirit, but a moment later it was consumed in the heat of her wrath, as he gave a semi-tragic quotation of "Frailty, thy name is woman." So the quarrel continued until Abigail said to herself that she would make him suffer for that contemptuous slander of her sex and until Stanley Worth said to himself that if he ever married any woman it would be because she did the proposing and he would give her the opportunity for indulging him into acceptance before he knew what he was doing.

From her seat in the visitors' gallery, Abigail went over toward the woman standing beside the brass rail. A roll call having been demanded, the secretary was calling the names of the senators, whose ayes and noes were being given in voices ranging from high-pitched nasal wheezes to guttural growls. Mamie Morton approached the sergeant-at-arms and told him she must speak to Senator Thomas. The big officer shook his head doubtfully and reluctantly approached the senator who left his seat and went at once to the woman.

"I cannot promise that the governor has taken any action," said Senator Thomas in answer to her eager question. "Many matters of state claim his attention at this time, and he may not have had time to look into this."

"I believe he is innocent," said the senator, "in spite of the circumstantial evidence indicating that he took the money from Jabe Ewing's cash drawer. I hope the governor will come to see it as I do, but his decision may seem slow to you. Come with me, though, and we will see what has been done."

"And let me go, too, won't you, dad?" asked Abigail, who surprised her father by joining them and greeting Mamie cordially.

"Why, certainly, daughter, but I thought—you know, we're going down to the governor's office."

"Yes, I know, but I want to go, and perhaps I can be of some comfort to her while she is waiting." Her father knew better than to question Abigail's whims.

When they reached the governor's suite of offices, Senator Thomas gave his card to a smiling secretary, who took it at once into the governor's private office and returned a moment later bidding the senator enter the gubernatorial presence. As they sat waiting, Mamie told Abigail how everything pointed to Henry's innocence, including an affidavit voluntarily sent her the week before by Dave Gibson, now living out west, but at the time of the Ewing robbery a citizen of Thomasville. In his statement he told that owing to his dislike Henry Morton, who had been his rival for Mamie's hand, he had kept quiet when he had evidence that the money from Jabe Ewing's cash drawer had been taken by two tramps who buried part of it in Henry Morton's garden merely to throw suspicion from themselves and point it toward Henry, who was employed in Ewing's store.

opened. Mamie stopped talking and started from her seat at Senator Thomas entered, followed by the governor. Her eyes searched pitifully for some sign that the pardon was forthcoming. As the governor recognized Abigail, who had quickly risen and was standing looking out of the window so that her face could not be seen, he stopped short for an instant, but quickly recovered his composure and brought his right hand from behind him and handed Mamie Morton a long folded paper bearing the state seal.

"I am happy to give you this paper, Mrs. Morton," he said kindly. "When you present it to the warden of the prison he will give freedom to your husband."

Mamie to the door and out through the long corridors to the entrance of the building, talking quietly to her all the way, as if to stem the fearful current of her gratitude.

In the governor's office, Abigail turned and walked up to Stanley Worth in a way that made him wonder whether his good fortune was a dream. The smiling secretary had discreetly withdrawn to another room.

"Stanley, I came here partly to help that poor woman by being with her in distress and partly to be present when you have to recognize that the name of one woman, at least, was not frailty. But do you know why I have remained?" Her face changed from pink to white and from white to pink again before Stanley Worth managed to murmur a response.

"No, I do not," he said, and his voice sounded queer and unnatural.

"I've remained to say that the fidelity shown by that woman has made me ashamed of what you called my frailty, and to say—"

Abigail paused, and her lovely head went higher and her clear blue eyes looked fearlessly into Stanley Worth's gray ones, "that if you're determin-

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backachy or have Bladder trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush out the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

ed not to propose to me again, then I'll take advantage of leap year and propose to you."

The blissful expression brought to the governor's face by this startling confession was partially dimmed the next instant by the shadow of Senator Thomas re-entering the doorway, but he managed to whisper a reply, and the senator wondered what on earth it could be that Abigail had been asking of the governor which brought from him an impassioned assurance that an official confirmation of his decision would be given her at the earliest possible opportunity. But Abigail's whims were always more or less of a puzzle to her father.

BID DOESN'T REACH JORDAN

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., June 26.—"The invitation to serve on a committee to seek adjustment of the differences between this country and Mexico has not yet reached me," David Starr Jordan said Saturday. "But judging from the United Press report of the proposal, I feel that I would accept."

How It Happened.
"How did you happen to vote for prohibition?" "I did it 'cause I got the general state of grouch," replied Broncho Bob. "Everybody in Crimston Gulch got sort o' huffy with everybody else an' we seem to get some kind o' satisfaction out o' standin' around an' seein' one another suffer."

THOUSANDS OF SICK WOMEN

Helped Every Year by Common Sense Suggestions Given Free by The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co.

For forty years women suffering from all kinds of female ills have been writing the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. of Lynn, Mass., for advice.

Thus they receive common sense suggestions drawn from a vast volume of experience, and thousands of sick women have been saved from untold suffering, as letters like the following clearly show:—

Newark, Ohio.—“Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me a well woman. Your Sanative Wash is just the thing to overcome female weakness. I have told young mothers as well as older ones about your remedies, and what they have done for me. I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved my life, as my health was very bad when I wrote you, but now I can do my own work and have not had a sick day since I began taking your remedies. I keep the Compound and Liver Pills on hand all the time.”—Mrs. Geo. Thompson, 24 Sherwood Court, Newark, Ohio.

Why don't you write for free advice? Address Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.

EXPORTS EMBARGO PUT INTO EFFECT

EL PASO, Texas, June 26.—An embargo on exports to Mexico, particularly arms, ammunition and food stuffs, is in force along the border. Information received by army officers indicates that the Carranzistas plan to evacuate practically all border points in case of war. Occupation of Juarez is considered certain to follow open hostilities.

FATE OF MEN UNKNOWN

EL PASO, Texas, June 26.—The fate of sixty men reported to have escaped from the scene of the Carranzista ambush at Carrizal was still unknown here early Saturday. Whether they were pursued by the Mexican cavalry and cut down on the desert or perished from lack of water was unascertainable.

The Exact Status. “I understand your neighbor keeps chickens?” “Not exactly. He owns chickens, but my garden furnishes their keep.”

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a 50-cent bottle of “Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound” at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

PRUSSIANISM MUST GO BEFORE PEACE CAN BE EFFECTED

Minister Declares German Peace Overtures Signs of Weakness

Mailed First Must Go for Individual Rights; Wants Better Relations With U. S.

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS (United Press Staff Correspondent.) (Copyright, 1916, by United Press.) (Copyrighted in Great Britain.)

PETROGRAD, June 26.—Peace must come only when allied soil is swept clean of the enemy and Prussian militarism forever crushed, S. D. Sazonoff, Russian minister of foreign affairs, sometimes called “the pillar of the triple entente,” told the United Press, in an exclusive interview.

Minister Sazonoff had just returned from the Russian front. In a private audience he outlined Russia's attitude toward the peace talk current in neutral countries, especially in America.

“Germany,” said the foreign minister, “set upon us without warning. Now, having signally failed to beat Europe into submission and finding her intended victims getting the upper hand, she covers her face with the mask of pety and endeavors to throw upon the allies the blame for continuing the war. Such a procedure is an open avowal of her own weakness and an attempt to hide her own unenviable situation—a fact which I believe the world will soon realize, if it doesn't already.

“Peace talk now is doubly futile. Germany, assuredly, has not won the war. Hence she is not in a position to say anything. We cannot say yet that we are the victors, so peace suggestions are unfriendly to us.

“Germany's Power Waning.” “Germany's power is clearly waning. The strength of the allies is increasing as is indicated by the daily events in the fighting at Verdun and in the advance on the Russian front, as well as by successes of the class of the Skagerak naval battle and of the victories in Asia Minor.

“The war can end but one way. That is when allied soil is swept clean of the enemy and our every demand is admitted. To accept peace earlier would be to shirk our duty. For civilization has reached the crossroads; one way means the mailed fist and the will of the strongest; the other means the right to enjoy individual culture. Prussia set out to impose one destiny. It was willed that the allies should defend the other. Peace must be permanent, which means that Prussian militarism must go. After all, it is this militarism we are combating rather than Germany.”

Minister Sazonoff was asked about commercial relations between Russia and the United States.

“I see no real obstacle in the way of the closest commercial relations between Russia and America,” he replied. “The idea has my hearty support. I quite share your able ambassador's expressed views on the subject. To like each other better we need only to get better acquainted.”

Praises U. S. Work in Poland. Discussing the Polish situation, the foreign minister said that he greatly appreciated America's generous steps to feed the unfortunate people of invaded Poland.

“The population there is sadly treated by the enemy,” he added. “They continue to remove all available provisions, thus increasing the hunger and suffering. Russia already has shown her appreciation of endeavors to relieve Poland by permitting food to enter the country despite the fact that Germany might take advantage of the situation to divert part of the supplies to her own use. I regret deeply that Germany has refused to agree not to remove foodstuffs already in Poland, as this renders it difficult to admit new American supplies.”

“The spirit of the army is excel-

A "Quality" Piano Sale

Including the highest standard makes, such as the Steinway, Chickering, Weber, Emerson, Steck, Sohmer, Estey, Julius Bauer, Vose & Sons, and other leading makes taken in exchange on high grade Player Pianos and Grand Pianos.

First and Foremost We Emphasize the FINE CONDITION of these Exchanged Pianos. Before you consider prices, judge the pianos themselves—judge them as you would judge new pianos, by the tone, the action, the exterior finish, the reputation of the maker.

The more you know about pianos, the surer we shall be of your judgment. The Special Piano Sales at Leithold's are in a totally different class from the many Sales with which the public are familiar. The pianos that come to us in exchange are of so high a character as to have been a constant subject of amazement among old-time piano men.

It is the High Grade Player Piano alone that could tempt people to part with valuable uprights and grands.

All that we ask is that you personally inspect these exchanged pianos and let them speak for themselves. Come as musicians, as piano experts or as skeptics, if you will—you will go away with a new idea of Leithold's importance as a piano center and of the exceptional character of the bargains to be obtained here.

TREMPEALEAU PLANS A BIG CELEBRATION

TREMPEALEAU, Wis., June 26.—(Special.)—One of the biggest celebrations that the village has experienced for years is planned for July 4. From the salute at sunrise to the conclusion of the dancing in the evening, not a single dull moment has been left in the program which is replete with sports and various other sorts of amusement. Besides the regular athletic program and oratory, there will be drills by the teams of the M. W. A., and R. N. A., a ball game between Onalaska and the Trainers of North La Crosse, and trap shooting which will take place early in the morning. The Military band of La Crosse will furnish the music for the occasion.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

Yesterday's Hero
Hans Wagner, the grand old man of base ball, whose hitting started a Pirate batting rally in the twelfth and ended in a rout of the Cubs, Pittsburgh scoring five runs.
Hinchman led the swatting for the Pirates. He garnered four hits off Cub pitchers, one a homer.
Two more joined the Cub hospital staff. McCarthy was disabled in the first round by the spikes of Max Sarey. Jimmy Archer returned in the eighth when a foul tip ripped off a finger of his throwing hand.
The Cardinals can be pushed just so far. They turned on the Reds in a double bill, taking both games. Steele of the Cardinals let the Reds down with three hits in the initial game.
The White Sox bested the Indians in a game in which fists and spikes were used freely. Zeb Terry, the Hose short stop, left the game in the fifth when Ray Chapman's spikes cut a gash in his hand.
Thirteen hits were made off Coombs of the Indians, by the White Sox.

FAMOUS AVIATOR DIES FROM HURTS IN OSHKOSH FALL

The Great Niles Falls to Ground in Burning Machine and Is Picked Up Unconscious

Charles F. Niles, known as "Loop-the-loop" Niles, famous aviator, who died at Oshkosh this morning from injuries sustained when his aeroplane fell yesterday, was to have flown in La Crosse during the racing meet July 18 and 19. Niles flew at the Inter-State fair here two years ago. Officers of the La Crosse Trotting association today stated that terms were being made with another well known flyer to exhibit here.

OSHKOSH, Wis., June 26.—The great Charley Niles, aviator of world reputation, died at 6:15 this morning from injuries sustained by falling.

Thousands of horror stricken spectators on Sunday saw Niles shoot to the ground in a burning aeroplane.

What was to have been an exhibition in aviation was turned into a tragedy. Niles was picked up in an unconscious condition, his face badly lacerated.

Machine in Flames
Niles was 3,000 feet in the air volplaning after having staged several spectacular loops, when smoke was seen coming from one of the wings of his machine. He was just about to take an upward flight, when the aeroplane caught fire. Niles immediately headed toward a landing spot in the center of the crowd.

About 400 feet from earth he succeeded in bringing the plane to an upright position, and while in great distress, luckily landed the machine on its side. The machine was completely demolished.

Tied to Aeroplane
Spectators rushed to the wreckage and cut loose the straps that fastened Niles to the aeroplane. He was unconscious when he landed.

CRIPPLED NELSONS LOSE TO CASHTON

With but three of their regulars in the lineup, the Nelsons base ballers lost yesterday to Cashton at Cashton, 3 to 1.

Orval Woll, first baseman, and Sickles, star hurler, are at Camp Douglas with the militia.
Houston plays the Nelsons Sunday at League park.

Nelson Co. Co. . . . 001000000—1 4 1
Cashton 010020000—3 4 0

FOURTH OF JULY RACES TO BE HELD IN THE FORENOON

Announcement is made by Admiral Edward H. Van Patten that the racing program of the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association regatta at St. Paul on the Fourth of July will be held in the morning instead of in the afternoon, as previously announced. The racing will start at 9:30. This change is made to permit Twin City visitors who so desire, to attend the automobile races at the Speedway in the afternoon of the Fourth. The boat racing on July 5th and 6th, will be held in the afternoon, beginning at 1:30.

The annual convention of the association, previously announced for the morning of Wednesday, July 5th., has been postponed by Admiral Van Patten to 9:30 o'clock the morning of Thursday, July 6th. The convention will be held in the convention hall of the Saint Paul hotel, which is the official headquarters of the association during race week.

The most famous boat race in America are beginning to arrive in St. Paul by express. The boats occupy a car and facilities have been provided by the St. Paul Boat club to unload them with a large crane direct into the Mississippi river.

The lucky man usually misses the boat on the sea of matrimony.

FOOD LABELS TELL A STORY---DO YOU READ THE LABELS

Quality, Weight, Ingredients and Preservatives
Some of Things Told
by Labels

Note—This is the second of five special articles on the business management of the home. The series was written by Laura B. Breese of the Department of Farmers' Institutes of the University of Wisconsin, who is well known to many of the readers of this paper.

THE national food law has accomplished much considering the conditions at the time of its enactment as compared with present conditions. Though the law has sometimes been used to protect manufacturers in attempted fraud, the aim of its authors is that of securing pure and wholesome products for the consumer. It is to be hoped that satisfactory amendments to the law enacted June 30, 1906, will eventually accomplish the original aim of the authors of the law. The pure food law has been an agent working to "clean up" and keep cleaned up, the production, storing, handling and distribution of foods.

The matter of food is one of the biggest questions before the public. Improper nourishment is responsible for much of the population in our institutions for the feeble minded, the penitentiary, and of over 80 per cent of the physical ailments, humanity is suffering from today. The pure food law has taken out of the market a lot of stuff unfit for the human stomach.

The "food label" has a very interesting history. Until the passage of the "pure food law" the label upon a food product was, in many instances, a pretty and attractive covering to a package containing unfit food for the human being. It literally covered "a multitude of sins" beneath it, which were perpetrated upon the unsuspecting public. Such evil practices as the use of injurious preservatives, filthy adulterations of foods, harmful coloring matter, short weights, etc., were followed by food manufacturers and covered up by an attractive looking label.

The passing of the pure food laws of 1906 was a great step toward reform in the production of foods and though our federal laws are still believed to be weak, time and the progressive housewife will strengthen them, as needed. The label stands as the housewife's interpreter of food products today, and the wise housewife will read its message. The law has shut out most of the chemical and harmful preservatives and the best food manufacturers no longer use them. The few that are allowed, and are used, must be stated upon the label so the purchaser may reject these if she reads the labels and wishes to. All states have such laws. For example, food laws and food departments now prohibit formaldehyde in milk; borax, boracic or sulfurous acid from meat; salicylic acid from catsup; salicylic, benzoic or sulfurous acid from cider; coal tar dyes from jams and jellies; borax, boracic acid, saccharine, salicylic and sulfurous acids from all canned fruits and vegetables, and so on. Since war sent benzoates up from 18 cents to $2.00 a pound, we are protected in a measure from its use.

The label also tells the housewife that there are different grades of goods. Jobbing houses grade their goods for the retailers by means of different labels. The housewife should visit her grocer and ask him to explain to her the grades of goods he carries, then she may make her purchases intelligently. Prices of course are determined by the grade. Difference in grade does not necessarily mean undesirable or unwholesome goods; it usually just means that there are differences in selection and packing of materials, the more carefully selected and packed bringing the higher prices.

When a housewife learns all she can about grades of foods, her grocer will see that she understands and will not try to palm off a low grade at a high price.

These are some of the things a label upon food products will tell the housewife:

(1) The quality or grade of food; (2) the manufacturer's or jobber's name and address; (3) the net weight, or measure; (4) the materials in the composition; (5) statements of preservatives used, if any.

Read your labels, housewives, and help in the great campaign afoot for the protective standards for food products. Learn to know the superior from the inferior brands of goods. In the majority of cases, the grocer has the standard articles upon his shelves and is willing to give the housewife what she asks for. Carelessness upon the housekeeper's part may bring her undesirable goods. When she asks for a bottle of vanilla extract, it should be sent, not an imitation vanilla substitute flavor. Let the practice of such ordering as, "Send me up some

WARS HAVE TURNED U. S. ATTENTION FROM YELLOW PERIL

Writer Thinks European and Mexican Situations Make America Indifferent to Japanese Threats

JAPAN IS ANTI-AMERICAN

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 26.—Has the European war, along with the guerrilla fighting in Mexico, served to turn American attention from the issue most vital to American well-being—vital, even, to American safety? Have we become so absorbed in the European drama that we stand all unconscious while in the Orient a stage is set for a drama where we may no longer be spectators, but leading players with a life-and-death interest in the issue of the plot?

That such is the case is the sober opinion of some of the keenest and most experienced students of the Far Eastern situation. Their reiterated assertions as to the dangerous state of our affairs in the East is causing Americans to turn their eyes inquiringly across the Pacific, in spite of many assurances from other authorities, who ridicule any talk of serious trouble as a hybrid creature of the jingo and the yellow press.

Knowledge Essential
If we are faced by the necessity of action, to avert a situation where we shall have to choose between war and surrendering certain of our rights, then such action will have to be motivated primarily by the attitude of the American people. It follows that a knowledge of the actual state of affairs is essential to every citizen; but for a variety of reasons that knowledge is one of the hardest things in the world to get.

It is hardly possible for any European country long to keep secret the state of its public opinion toward the United States. Take the case of Germany for instance, when from time to time there arises the question of strained relations over points of international law. A score of correspondents keep us posted on every new shade of feeling in the German national mind. We know how the German people receive our suggestions and offers almost as soon as we know how the American nation as a whole regards them. It would be impossible for Germany, or any other European nation to adopt a national attitude that would take us by surprise. With Japan the case is fundamentally and fatally different.

Japan is a nation that speaks a language so totally different from ours that it is an immense task for an American to learn it, and one that comparatively few undertake. Japan's written word is built on a system basically opposed to our script; it is even harder for an alien to master than the language. As a result Americans who speak Japanese are few and far between, Americans who read it fewer and farther. Add to this the fact that Japan has today the strictest and most effective of press censorship, and two facts become evident.

First, that behind the wall of an alien tongue reinforced by the censorship, almost anything might be going on in Japan without our knowledge, and second, that whatever does get published in Japan, even in the "yellowest" section of the press, has a certain smack of the authoritative that a similar utterance in this country would lack, because every Japanese paper has been passed by the official censor.

Time for Thinking
The significance of this state of affairs as applied to the United States lies in the fact that it obliges us to give a different reception to news from Japan, which at first glance seems almost incredible, than we would give to similar news from any other country. If we were told that public opinion in Germany or Russia had shifted in a few years from a friendly attitude to one violently hostile, that this change was being deliberately encouraged by at least a section of the government, and with sinister purpose, we would be justified in laughing. When the same charges are made by men of high standing, as they are made, against Japan—then it is time for us to do some serious thinking.

It is charged, and backed up by numerous quotations from Japanese vernacular and English papers, that there is a deliberate campaign going forward in Japan to arouse anti-American sentiment throughout the nation. It is no news to Americans that there has been an increasing lack of cordiality in Japanese-American relations, but that affairs have come to the point where the United States is conceived in the popular mind as Japan's active opponent and logical enemy does come as news, and news of a somewhat startling character.

Side by side with this campaign to plant hostility against America in Japan, it is charged that a parallel campaign is being conducted in America—a campaign whose object is to spread abroad in the United States the idea that Japan cherishes only the friendliest intentions toward us, a campaign in other words, to lull our suspicions, to discourage any tendency Americans may have toward making preparations for a possible emergency. Thus should the clash come and neither side give ground, a fiercely inimical and heavily armed little empire would have to deal with a big, unready republic, whose national attitude toward her antagonist could best have been described as one of complete indifference. The issue of such a possible conflict is not pleasant to consider.

U. S. Indifferent
It is a fact that except along the Pacific coast and certain tracts of the Rocky mountain region, American feeling toward Japan has vacillated between a rather sentimental sympathy, an honest admiration, and a great indifference. On the other hand, Japan has never regarded us with indifference. We have, from the beginning of her modern era, filled a much larger place in her national outlook than she has occupied in ours. Americans were concerned primarily with domestic affairs and then with concerns touching other nations on the American continent, and European powers, Asiatic world-politics trailed along a poor third. In Japan's scheme of things, the United States often occupied first place, and never sank below a rank of high importance. At the same time, the merciless logic of conflict, ing necessities several times forced us across the path of the island empire, and made us appear to her people in the light of a barrier between them and their destiny.

Even now, the United States remains in two stands diametrically opposed to the wishes and policy of Japan. The solution of each of these deadlocks it has been significantly and explicitly stated, is merely postponed. The present status in each case has been definitely qualified as temporary—once by Japan, and once by the United States. The former case is that of negotiation on the anti-alien land bills, where Japan dropped the matter with the stipulation of resuming it later; the second case is that of Japan's remarkable and unprecedented demands upon China. The United States, in a note of May 16, 1915, informed both governments that this government could not recognize any agreement to which they might come as binding, under the circumstances, if it infringed American rights (as several features of the new concessions forced from China do.) And there the two matters rest. Each must be settled somehow in the future.

In neither of these cases can the United States well recede from her stand. The citizens of this country can not give up their right to say who shall not enter their territory. Neither can the government well consent to the closing of the "open door" in China—a violation of a

"LITTLE BILLY" IN BIJOU FILM

Buying an expensive automobile on his fifth birthday, with money that he has earned, and paying a chauffeur out of his own salary, has just been accomplished by "Little Billy" Jacobs, the celebrated child actor appearing in the support of Marie Doro in "The Heart of Nora Flynn," which will be seen at the Bijou again tonight and Tuesday. "Little Billy" just a few months over five years old, is one of the best paid actors in the photo-dramatic profession. He drives to work from his home to the studio every morning in an automobile which he purchased with the money he has made in the last three years, and pays the wages of his chauffeur out of his weekly salary. Of course he is always accompanied by his mother, but "Little Billy" foots the bill. Mr. Cecil B. DeMille, director general of the Lasky company, saw one of the pictures in which Billy was a star and promptly engaged him to support Marie Doro. In speaking of "Little Billy" Mr. DeMille said recently: "If many of the more prominent, more popular and more expensive actors were as easy to direct as 'Little Billy,' the life of a director would be a 'bed of roses.'"

FIRE THREATENS MINNESOTA TOWN

SPRING GROVE, Minn., June 26.—(Special).—A fire originating in the local power plant threatened to destroy the entire village of Spring Grove Friday night. Fortunately the trouble occurred early in the evening, enabling the fire fighters to get the flames under control before much damage was done. The Root River Light and Power company had shut off the current going to Mable. In the evening the switch in the Spring Grove building was thrown on to furnish the neighboring village with light. The current of 1,200 volts proved too much for the small switch and an arc was formed in an instant. The extent of the damage is not known.

The bailiff, after listening at the keyhole several times, shook his head with a discouraged air.

"We have agreed upon twelve verdicts, your honor," she told him, in her flutellike voice.
"You are discharged," roared the judge.

FOWLER WANTS TWENTY-FIVE GUARDSMEN NOW

Company M Commander Makes Appeal in City for More Recruits to Bring Company Up to Full War Strength

Among scores of gifts sent to the La Crosse troops at Camp Douglas is a barrel of pickles, sent by the Onalaska Pickle and Canning company. Quartermaster Thompson shipped the present today.

Captain F. H. Fowler, commander of Company M, is in La Crosse with an appeal for twenty-five more volunteers for his company. Examinations are still in progress at Camp Douglas and although few are rejected, the ranks of the company are far from being filled and it is the captain's firm desire to leave for the front with the full quota of men, should the call come.

Captain Fowler is here settling up

Return Reluctantly
Captain Fowler pointed out today that any former militiamen, members of any company, who are in the city are here under orders and through no desire to leave on their part. "Some must be rejected," said the captain, "and are forced to come home reluctantly. Their desire to serve their country is just as sincere and deep as that of men who leave and they should be looked upon in no other than a most praiseworthy manner."

Company M was forced to secure a new quartermaster when the results of the first examinations were secured. Quartermaster Claude Thompson, who has had complete charge of the equipment at home and was completely familiar with the work, could not be accepted. Two of his fingers are missing and his ankle had at one time been broken, making him unfit for the strenuous work which is bound to be encountered by the men if they reach Mexico. Alvah Hill, student at the normal school for the past year, was selected to fill the position vacated by Mr. Thompson. The former quartermaster

FIFTEEN THOUSAND IN CAMP DOUGLAS JAM

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., June 26.

Poured into the military reservation by regular and special trains and automobiles, fifteen thousand visitors streamed into the military encampment to enjoy experiences never before equalled in magnitude and interest on a Wisconsin parade ground.

In addition to its regular trains, which all came loaded with visitors, the Milwaukee system ran five packed specials into Camp Douglas: one from La Crosse, one from points east of Portage, one from Wausau, one from Beaver Dam and Ripon and one from Tomah. The Northwestern line carried two special trains, one from the north and one from Baraboo.

At 1 o'clock fifteen hundred automobiles were parked in Camp Douglas and along the roadway leading to and encircling the reservation. In places they were four deep, and late arrivals were obliged to park a distance of more than a mile from the entrance.

The La Crosse special leaving at 9:15 sold nearly 800 tickets, and the fourteen coaches which left here were filled to their standing capacity at West Salem, Bangor, Sparta and Tunnel City, so that although four coaches were added at Sparta it was necessary to make up a second special of five coaches at Tomah.

The La Crosse crowds arrived in camp just as the regiments were going into mess. The visitors were generally provided with lunch baskets, and many were entertained at the various mess tents.

While the visitors wandered about the grounds and to headquarters, getting a general idea of the camps, the various contingents spent much of their time in their own company streets, visiting with the home boys. With the parents and relatives came hundreds of sweethearts of the soldier boys, and romance never flourished under more encouraging conditions.

A Great Spectacle
There was "big league" stuff in progress. At 4 o'clock Company A of the First Infantry held guardmount. Followed dress parade by the Second and Third Infantry, a most imposing spectacle in which the La Crosse companies were among those loudly cheered as they passed General Holway and staff at the reviewing stand. The impressive "Retreat" was the final ceremony, in which fifteen thousand spectators watched three thousand soldiers drawn up on the parade ground at attention. The great gun was fired, the flag was hauled down and as the Third regiment band struck up "The Star Spangled Banner," hats came off and a great cheer swept over the mass of citizens.

Longbrake Honored
For the first time since the civil war brigade religious services were held Sunday night, and Rev. George R. Longbrake of La Crosse, had the honor of presiding. His talk, hardly a sermon, lasted but a few moments. The Third regiment chaplain made an excellent impression in his address.

See La Crosse Officers
La Crosse people were able to see something of their old friend and neighbor, General Holway, and of Captains Fowler and Rupp, and other company officers. Captain Rupp, new in the company command, is making a distinct "hit". He is an outstanding athlete to whom the military bearing is a natural posture. He looks carefully after his men, advising with the commissary about their eats and having their welfare constantly in mind. A regimental officer mentioned this in a tone of pleased approval.

Rain at Night
The La Crosse special got away on the return at 8:55, and made good time, but did not arrive before the beginning of last night's heavy rain which gave hundreds of people a cool bath at "the end of a perfect day."

master spent the day at the company's armory on King street taking an inventory of the men's possessions. Equipment in the way of clothing remains at the armory to equip a large number of men. The goods, however, are cotton and as nothing but wool is being worn by the militiamen the suits are of little use at this time.

No equipment has arrived at the camp for the recruits and it is not known whether any will be sent by the government for some time, according to Captain Fowler. The officers are getting along in the best possible manner, however, and surplus supplies are being collected for the new men.

Local men at the camp have been the recipients of welcome gifts from home. The latest to be sent up was a barrel of pickles from the Onalaska Pickle company which Quartermaster Thompson was planning to get off today.

THE ULTIMATUM SENT CARRANZA

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 26.—

The text of the note to the Mexican de facto government, transmitted to James Inn Rodgers, special representative of the American government in Mexico City, says:

Mr. Arrendondo on Saturday delivered to this government the following communication:

"I am directed by my government to inform your excellency, with reference to the Carrizal incident, that the chief executive, through the Mexican war department, gave orders to General Jacinto B. Trevino not to permit American forces from General Pershing's column to advance further south, nor to move either east or west from the points where they are located, and to oppose new incursions of American soldiers into Mexican territory.

"These orders were brought by General Trevino to the attention of General Pershing, who acknowledged the receipt of the communication relative thereto. On the 22d instant, as your excellency knows, an American force moved eastward quite far from its base, notwithstanding the above orders, and was engaged by Mexican troops at Carrizal, State of Chihuahua. As a result of the encounter several men on both sides were killed and wounded and seventeen American soldiers were made prisoners."

You are hereby instructed to hand to the minister of foreign relations

of the de facto government the following:

"The government of the United States can put no other construction upon the communication handed to the secretary of the United States on June 24, by Mr. Arrendondo, under instruction of your government, than that it is intended as a formal avowal of deliberately hostile action against the forces of the United States now in Mexico, and of the purpose to attack them without provocation whenever they move from their present position in pursuance of the objects for which they were sent there, notwithstanding the fact that those objects not only involve no unfriendly intention towards the government and the people of Mexico, but are, on the contrary, intended only to assist that government in protecting itself and the territory and people of the United States against irresponsible and insurgent bands of rebel marauders.

"I am instructed, therefore, by my government, to demand the immediate release of the prisoners taken in the encounter at Carrizal, together with any property of the United States taken with them, and to inform you that the government of the United States expects an early statement from your government as to the course of action it wishes the government of the United States to understand it has determined upon, and that it also expects that this statement be made through the usual diplomatic channels and not through subordinate military commanders."

COLONEL DECLINES AND COMES OUT IN BEHALF OF HUGHES

Roosevelt Declares All Progressives Should Forget Party Lines and Pull for Ex-Justice to Defeat Wilson

NO HARM TO THE PARTY

Colonel Declares Progressives Have Been Greatly Aided by Enactment of Many of the Party's Principles

CHICAGO, June 26.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt today definitely refused nomination of the progressives for president and in a letter to the bull moose national committee urged their support of Charles Evans Hughes, the republican nominee.

In his letter, a lengthy denunciation of the democratic administration, Colonel Roosevelt declared he would actively support Hughes and gave detailed reasons, based largely on the necessity for patriotic Americans.

Roosevelt expressed his gratitude for the nomination, but added that a majority of the telegrams he had received from the convention expressed the desire that he should not run. The colonel lauded the 1912 progressive platform and declared events, including the world war, have shown the necessity for its application, as well as of the necessity for universal military training.

"Sooner or later," Roosevelt wrote, "the national principles championed by the progressives of 1912 must in their general effect be embodied in the structure of our national existence. With all my heart I shall continue to work for these great ideals shoulder to shoulder with the men and women who in 1912 championed them."

"The progressive movement has been given an incalculable impetus by what the progressive party has done. Our strongest party antagonists have accepted and enacted into law, or embodied in their party platforms, very many of our most important principles."

"In my judgment," he went on, "the nomination of Mr. Hughes meets the conditions set forth in the statement of the progressive national committee issued last January and in my own statements. Under existing conditions, the nomination of a third ticket would, in my judgment, be merely a move in the interest of the election of Mr. Wilson. I regard Mr. Hughes as a man whose public record is a guarantee that he will not merely stand for a program of clean cut, straight out Americanism before election, but will resolutely and in good faith put it through if elected. He is beyond all comparison better fitted to be president than Mr. Wilson. I shall, therefore, strongly support Mr. Hughes. Such being the case, it is unnecessary to say that I cannot accept the nomination on a third ticket. I do not believe that there should be a third ticket. It is my deep conviction that at this moment we can serve our common country only by supporting Mr. Hughes."

"It is urged against Mr. Hughes that he was supported by various so-called German-American alliances. I believe that the attitude of these professional German-Americans was due, not in the least to any liking for Mr. Hughes, but solely to their antagonism to me."

"The world is passing through a great crisis and no man can tell what trial and jeopardy will have to be faced by this nation during the years immediately ahead. We can decide only whether during these possible vital years this country shall be entrusted to the leadership of Mr. Hughes or Mr. Wilson."

"Mr. Wilson has been tried and found wanting. The democrats have brought us to impotence abroad and

MAYOR LED PEOPLE TO LEGATION AND TORE DOWN SHIELD

EAGLE PASS, Tex., June 26.—

Destruction of the American consulate in Torreon on June 18 by General Carranza's soldiers and civilians, led by the mayor was described today by American refugees arriving here.

Members of the party say they saw the mayor of Torreon, with troops and a military band, followed by 3,000 citizens, march to the consulate, shouting "Death to the gringos."

They tore the American shield from the front of the building, then demolished the structure and its contents.

A mass meeting was held in the plaza later. The mayor and other Mexican officials counseled the mob to violence against all Americans. The refugees, numbering sixteen, were aided in their escape by the British consul. They were furnished a special train by the Carranza military authorities. They were unimpressed enroute.

Army officers accompanying the train, commanded by General Francisco Murguía, told the refugees that a Carranza force is mobilizing at Salinas, seventy-five miles south of Eagle Pass, and will make its first stand against American invasion there. It was estimated that 8,000 troops are concentrated there.

"Any news from that bandit today?" "Yes. He has given orders that if anybody comes to capture him we are to say he is not at home."

to division and weakness at home. They have taught us that peace—the peace of cowardice and dishonor and indifference to the welfare of others—is to be above righteousness. Yet in Mexico they have failed even to secure the peace which they thus sought; and they have failed in spite of the most ample opportunity and most ample warning, to prepare in any real fashion to meet the crisis which their own policy invited. They have taught us to put safety first, safety before duty and honor.

"Mr. Hughes has shown in his career the instinct of efficiency which will guarantee that, under him, the government will once more work with vigor and force. We have the alternative of continuing in office an administration which has proved a lamentable failure, or of putting into office an administration which we have every reason to believe will function with efficiency to the interest and honor of all our people. I earnestly bespeak from my fellow progressives their ungrudging support of Mr. Hughes."

Parker Bolts on Secret Session
John M. Parker of Louisiana, progressive nominee for vice president, and national committee member from six states, bolted the meeting of the national committee this afternoon after Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's letter supporting Charles E. Hughes was read.

Parker left the committee room followed by Henry F. Cochems of Wisconsin; A. T. Moon of Utah; J. M. Ingersoll of Idaho; Judge H. D. Norton of St. Louis, who held a North Carolina proxy, Burton Vance of Kentucky, and Bainbridge Colby of New York.

They refused, they said, to become participants to a secret session of the committee. They had been voted down, by a large majority, on a resolution to make the meeting an open one.

The secrecy was imposed, it was rumored, when George W. Perkins intimated he had a confidential message from Hughes to the progressives.

Parker and his adherents were said to be ready to return to the meeting at any time it was made an open one.

REED HAS WARNING AGAINST "WAR IN A FEW HOURS"

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Possibility of "war within a few hours," was warning given the senate by Reed of Missouri today in urging all haste in aiding militiamen and their families.

Reed made his solemn warning during a bitter debate on the action of the measure in the house militia draft, which would grant payment of $50 a month to families of militiamen.

Hitchcock, Nebraska, seconded the fight by Reed on the clause substituted by the committee exempting married men from service and providing payment to dependents of militiamen. Once during an eloquent appeal by Reed, Senator James, who was presiding, threatened to clear the galleries if there was any more applause.

"It is as much the duty of a married man as others," said Hitchcock, to serve his country."

Hitchcock was loudly applauded when he declared heatedly: "These men are the first to serve. And yet the people and taxpayers safe at home hesitate to care for their families."

He said to exempt all married men would demoralize our forces by eliminating trained men to be replaced with untrained men.

"If we have to call out 500,000 volunteers," interrupted Overman, North Carolina, "would you want also to pay their dependents?"

"That's a bridge to be crossed when reached," retorted Hitchcock.

Works of California, declared the system all wrong. The guardsmen "contemplated no such service when they enlisted," he said. He argued for a general draft.

"This is no time for caviling over terms," said Reed. "War may be declared within a few hours. We must protect the border. The duty is on all, not merely on the guardsmen. Merely because the guardsmen prepare themselves to fight, shall we pile all the burdens of war on them?"

"Many have torn their arms of wives and children from their neck to leave for the front, yet here we haggle, haggle over their families. I put it on the conscience of all of you. Shall one class make all the sacrifices and we make none?"

Rufe Hoskins says his ancestors were so poor that all he inherited from his father was his politics.

"ALL TOGETHER FOR LA CROSSE."

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MOVEMENT

A GENERAL STATEMENT OF THE PLANS AND PURPOSES OF LA CROSSE'S NEW COMMUNITY— BUILDING ORGANIZATION

The movement for a centralization of the civic and commercial forces of the city into a modern type of Chamber of Commerce, aggressive in character, representative in membership, and efficient in finances and management, is an expression of a general demand on the part of the business and professional men for an organization commensurate with the wealth and population of La Crosse and its needs as a commercial, industrial and agricultural center.

Its primary purpose will be to accomplish the greatest good for the greatest number of people through organized endeavor in every line of activity embraced in city building.

Its governing principle will be that there is nothing too great for it to undertake and nothing too small for it to do if it is for the best interests of La Crosse. It will be non-partisan, non-sectarian, and non-sectarian.

It will be given the elements of stability, permanence and financial strength.

All commercial, civic, industrial and agricultural interests will receive continuous and intelligent attention in order that the city may be developed to its fullest possibilities and be made a desirable place in which to live.

THE FUTURE OF LA CROSSE

The future of this city is going to depend to a large extent upon the vision and organized activity of its commercial forces. La Crosse has every essential for greatness, but it is in competition with powerful cities on all sides, and each is using the agency of united endeavor to build itself up at the expense of the others. The future welfare of the city demands the efficient methods of the modern Chamber of Commerce. It demands the maximum of co-operation, personal service and financial support.

In order to build a commercial organization of the most advanced type, the committees in charge will look to the following essentials:

Representative Membership—A membership made up of the representatives of every interest, of every trade, of every industry, and of every profession, so that it may truthfully be said that when the Chamber of Commerce speaks or acts, it is speaking or acting for all the interests of La Crosse.

Adequate Working Capital—Funds to carry out constructive projects calculated to promote the welfare of the city and surrounding country, to employ a trained and competent managing secretary, and to maintain adequate and dignified headquarters, and meeting rooms.

Active Moral Support—A type of working machinery to draw and insure the personal service, support, and interest of the membership.

Definite Working Plans—Plans which will commit the organization to constructive work along specific lines, and the adoption of definite policies.

MEMBERSHIP DUES

In our investigations we have found that the experience of all cities and towns has proved the impracticability of trying to finance a Chamber of Commerce in the way we have been doing with our organizations in the past. The plan providing for annual dues of $25 per year has been universally adopted in the most progressive commercial organizations throughout the United States.

By making the dues $25, the interest of the member will be better secured and a sufficient fund of money raised so that it will not be necessary to "pass the hat" from time to time for civic and commercial organization purposes.

ONE FUND FOR ALL NEEDS

The Chamber of Commerce proposes to raise one fund at one time to meet all the civic and commercial organization needs of the city, and in soliciting memberships in this campaign, individuals and firms will be asked to invest (not donate) in the Chamber of Commerce a sufficient amount to cover their share in all such activities with the distinct understanding that the Chamber of Commerce will not ask for further funds during the life of the membership, unless an exigency would permit same upon a majority vote of the entire membership.

In other words, it is proposed to raise one fund sufficient to meet the needs of the community in civic and commercial organization lines and to appropriate these funds to the different activities in a conservative way and only where the activity is for the welfare of La Crosse. Under this plan every member of the Chamber can feel assured that each dollar he invests in commercial organization work will go further in aiding La Crosse than in the past.

The most modern methods of safeguarding the funds of the Chamber of Commerce will be adopted. The Board of Directors each year will appoint a finance committee, whose duty it will be to formulate a budget for the expenditures of the Chamber of Commerce and its several bureaus. No bureau, however, will receive a lump sum for expenses except upon a detailed representation and statement of the amounts needed. Each such appropriation will be passed upon first by the finance committee and then by the Board of Directors.

To insure permanency to this Chamber of Commerce, memberships will be taken only on a three-year basis but payable annually. This will enable the organization to plan its work for more than one year in advance and will give it the necessary permanency to insure its success. In adopting the three-year plan the committee has taken the advice of all leading authorities.

MEMBERSHIP ON EQUALIZATION BASIS

The plan further provides for "plural memberships," which means that individuals and firms will be asked to invest in the Chamber of Commerce in proportion to their material interest in the community and to the benefits they may expect to derive from its work.

PLAN OF ORGANIZATION

The Chamber of Commerce will be organized on the Bureau plan, a feature that has been adopted by several hundred commercial bodies in recent years. This plan is modeled on the departmental organization of the modern business concern, and brings about concentration along a number of different lines by groups of men directly interested in those various lines.

The following bureaus will be organized immediately after the membership campaign:

Merchants' Bureau.
Manufacturers' and Jobbers' Bureau.
Conventions and Publicity Bureau.
Agricultural Bureau.
Civic Bureau.

Additional bureaus may also be created to meet the needs of the organization and the community. Even the city's charity work may be advantageously handled by a bureau of this organization. In fact the scheme of organization is so broad and comprehensive that any phase of public activity may be properly and economically handled under the Chamber of Commerce and in addition gain immeasurable prestige.

MEMBERS WILL CHOOSE THEIR BUREAUS

At the conclusion of the membership campaign this week an "information blank" will be mailed to each member to ascertain the lines of activity in which he is most interested. He will then be assigned to the bureau or bureaus which include these activities. If the member is a manufacturer, he will naturally choose the Manufacturers' and Jobbers' Bureau. If he is a merchant, he will naturally prefer the Merchants' Bureau. It will be permissible, however, for members to elect to be in more than one bureau. This plan brings together men who are thinking in like lines and talking in like terms and the maximum of results can naturally be expected.

A PLATFORM OF ACTIVITIES

A survey of the city is now being made by trained organization men with the view of formulating a definite program of activities not only of the Chamber of Commerce, but of the several bureaus. In making this survey the views of the leading men of the community, in all lines of trade, industry and profession, will be obtained. This platform of constructive work will be submitted to the membership at its initial meeting, and it will be the duty of the officers and directors to do their utmost to see that the entire program is carried out by the bureaus and the Chamber.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce will be composed of an equal number of directors from each of the bureaus and from the Membership Council, a department which will be explained farther on. This plan of electing directors insures a well-balanced directorate interested in every phase of civic and commercial organization work and will guarantee the support of the entire membership in all lines of general interest.

ACTIVITIES OF THE BUREAUS

In the by-laws to be adopted the functions and activities of each bureau will be definitely outlined. It is not the intention here to specify the activities of the bureau, but simply to make a general statement concerning the work of each. Each bureau will have the power of initiating measures for the good of the community and the activities of each will only be limited by the industry of the members, the general secretary and the officers.

THE MERCHANTS' BUREAU

The Merchants' Bureau will carry on all activities looking to trade extension and trade protection.

BIG FIELD FOR CONSTRUCTIVE WORK

There is a big field for constructive work for the Merchants' Bureau along the lines of trade extension and the Chamber of Commerce will give this bureau strong support in promoting fall and spring style shows, suburban days, dollar days, shoppers' trading excursions, picnics of farmers and other methods for bringing about increased trade.

Along protective lines the bureau will safeguard the members from promiscuous solicitors, fly-by-night merchants, and hostile legislation.

The Merchants' Bureau will also have the heartiest co-operation of the entire Chamber of Commerce in campaigns to educate the people of this city and county to do their trading at home. It will also work to bring about a more general co-operation among the retail, wholesale and manufacturing interests of La Crosse.

AGRICULTURAL BUREAU

It has become axiomatic that the growth of a city is largely in direct proportion to the growth in population and resources in the territory contributory to it. La Crosse is in the midst of a rich farming territory which has vast possibilities for development.

This is not going to be a bureau to tell the farmer how to farm, but a bureau where both the farmer and the business man can work out problems that will be for the material welfare of each. That this is practical has been demonstrated in many progressive commercial organizations and investigation of such methods will be one of the first activities of this bureau.

The business of marketing the surplus products of the farms is in many cases still in its infancy and this bureau will work to the end of making La Crosse a market clearing house for this section of the country and of providing better facilities for marketing home-grown products.

MANUFACTURERS & JOBBERS BUREAU

This bureau will continue and increase the activities of the present Manufacturers' and Jobbers' Club and work for industrial and wholesale trade expansion.

Promotion of the industrial growth of a community is one of the general activities of a Chamber of Commerce that yields large direct returns. Every existing industry enlarged and every new industry secured means increased pay rolls, more homes and families, and consequently an additional circulation of money throughout the community. In the comprehensive plans for the Chamber of Commerce it is designed to give much attention to fostering established industries and to securing new industries.

CAMPAIGN OF EDUCATION TO SUPPORT HOME INDUSTRY

The Chamber of Commerce will conduct a systematic campaign of education to show the value of supporting local factories, and local business houses of every other character.

In order that the industrial bureau may proceed with the best results, the Chamber of Commerce will direct this bureau to make an industrial survey of the city so that the advantages of La Crosse as a manufacturing location can be widely advertised.

CIVIC BUREAU

There is a great field of work to be done by an aggressive Civic Bureau in making this community a more desirable place in which to live. Statistics of commercial organizations throughout the country show that fully fifty per cent of their activities are along civic lines. In every field of civic work organized citizenship is needed. Civic work does not mean the expenditure of money in costly improvements. It simply means a non-partisan co-operation to bring about governmental efficiency and the maximum results for money spent in public work. It means community cleanliness, health, recreation, beauty and welfare.

OUR CITY SHOULD LOOK FAR AHEAD

La Crosse will do well to look not only to the civic needs of today, but to those of the city when it will have a population of 50,000, 75,000, or even 100,000 people. Chicago is today planning its public improvements on the basis of a population of 20,000,000 people. New York is looking ahead even as far as fifty years in planning its public work. Los Angeles in all its civic work visualizes the city of 1,000,000 people. La Crosse can profit by using such foresight and vision.

PUBLICITY AND CONVENTION BUREAU

Publicity is today one of the strongest constructive features in the world of human endeavor. Without it business wanes and men sink into oblivion. What applies to individuals and business applies also to cities. The publicity department is essential to all phases of Chamber of Commerce work.

The experience of the past has shown that La Crosse can be made a recognized convention city and that thousands of dollars of new capital can be brought to the city annually through convention delegates. In this bureau there will be a group of men specializing on the work of securing conventions along the most modern methods.

THE MEMBERSHIP COUNCIL

A careful analysis of commercial organization work in La Crosse in recent years reveals a lack of co-operation on the part of many citizens in giving their personal service. To remedy this and to have an organization where the membership will be interested and active continuously, the bureau plan was adopted, and to further strengthen the organization in this respect there will be a Membership Council.

This is an initiative and referendum body of about fifty representatives from the various lines of trade, industry, and profession represented in the membership. Each group, such as lawyers, clothiers, doctors, grocers, etc., will be represented in the Membership Council by a delegate. The council will meet regularly once a week or twice a month. All members of the Chamber of Commerce may attend the meetings, but only delegates may vote. The functions of the Membership Council shall be to originate and recommend to the Chamber and to the bureaus all matters of community effort.

MANAGING SECRETARY

The working capital of the Chamber of Commerce will be sufficient to employ an able, trained, and experienced Managing Secretary. Organizations here in the past have been handicapped by the lack of trained men whose entire time was given to organization work. The campaign committee is now securing the applications of capable men, and making an investigation of their merits, and the data will be turned over to the board of directors following their election.

CONCLUSION

The citizens of La Crosse are called upon to rally to this forward movement. To raise a sufficient fund to carry on this comprehensive plan of work, individuals, firms, and corporations must take memberships in proportion to the return they will get from a community building organization of this type.

Let every citizen with an investment in the future of La Crosse endorse this forward movement by becoming members of the Chamber of Commerce; to work with one purpose and thus develop a community spirit that will make it the pride of every man, woman and child to say to the world, "I am a citizen of La Crosse."

ULTIMATUM DISPATCHED TO CARRANZA

GREAT "FORWARD LA CROSSE" DINNER OVERFLOWS DINING ROOMS INTO HOTEL LOBBY

The preparatory state of the "Forward La Crosse" movement will reach its climax tonight at the Stoddard hotel dinner where the largest audience that has ever attended an affair for the community welfare in western Wisconsin will assemble. In order to take care of the guests the hotel will use both dining rooms, while fully fifty people will be accommodated in the lobby adjoining the dining room. It is the most remarkable response ever made locally to a subscription dinner, as not a single ticket was disposed of by canvassing.

Tonight hundreds of business and professional men assembled will hear about the building of cities through organized effort. Tomorrow and for the three days following they will be called upon to show their faith in the new organization and in the future of La Crosse by taking memberships in the Chamber of Commerce. The canvass will be conducted by 100 of the leading men of the city, in all lines of business and professions. Twenty-five committees of from three to five men have been organized and they will report at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at the council chamber of the city hall, where final instructions will be given, and they will then start out on the most systematic canvass in the history of the city.

Advance reports as to what many of the leading concerns of the city are going to do in the way of memberships indicate that at the close of the campaign La Crosse will have one of the strongest commercial organizations in the country for a city of under 40,000.

The dinner tonight is set to start at 7 o'clock. The hotel management has arranged to use the "ordinary" to take care of the regular guests of the hotel at supper so that the big function can start on time.

The feature of the dinner tonight will be the address of Edward F. Trefz, national secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. He arrived in La Crosse this morning. He speaks in Milwaukee tomorrow morning, and Atlantic City Wednesday. Mr. Trefz has a nation-wide reputation as a speaker, and is in addition a recognized authority on commercial organization work.

N. J. Whelan, head of the industrial department of the Wisconsin-Minnesota Light and Power company, with headquarters at Eau Claire, is the other out of town guest. Mr. Whelan is an industrial expert, and is doing a great work in locating industries in cities served by his company.

Frank Hixon, chairman of the "Forward La Crosse" committee, will be chairman of the meeting. He will introduce the toastmaster, A. L. Goetzmann of the campaign committee. The local speakers on the program are Mayor Bentley, William Wolfe and J. J. Felber.

EASTERN TROOPS RUSHING SOUTH TODAY ON WOOD'S FOLLOWING BAKER'S PLEA

NEW YORK, June 26.—Before night fall national guardsmen from several eastern states will be speeding westward toward El Paso for service on the Mexican border.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Supplementary orders have been sent to department commanders. Secretary Baker announced today directing that troops shall not delay departure for equipment and training which can be obtained enroute or on the border. Some units that had been awaiting these things will leave today, Baker said.

Editor's Note.—This telegram does not specify any particular departments, but as the Wisconsin department has received no orders to move, the term "supplementary orders" may indicate that these orders do not go to Wisconsin. If they do apply to this state the cause of delay is removed and an early movement for the border may result.

NEW YORK, June 26.—Upwards of 30,000 militiamen of the eastern department have been ordered to entrain as soon as possible for the Mexican border by Major General Leonard Wood. The order was given, following an urgent appeal last night from Secretary of War Baker that troops under his jurisdiction proceed as soon as possible for the border. The order met with instant response from officers and men. By tomorrow at the latest 17,000 militiamen from New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Vermont and Massachusetts will be on trains headed towards the border.

At Camp Beckman, Major General O'Ryan, in command of the New York guardsmen, had communicated the orders to him to commanders of the Seventh, Fourteenth and Seventy-first regiments, the First cavalry and Twenty-second engineers and several detached units.

The First regiment of New Jersey, Batteries C of Trenton and B of Camden, Troops A and C of the First squadron cavalry, the field hospital of Elizabeth and ambulance company of Red Bank, will entrain at 2 o'clock for the Mexican border, according to word from Sea Girt, N. J.

Not since the Spanish-American war days has the department of the east, with headquarters at Governor's Island, been kept open all night as it was Sunday. General Wood was on the job practically twenty-four hours. His job was selecting the units from the various state militia to make up the number of men asked of him by the war department. In addition to the New Yorkers mentioned above, Wood issued orders to the following:

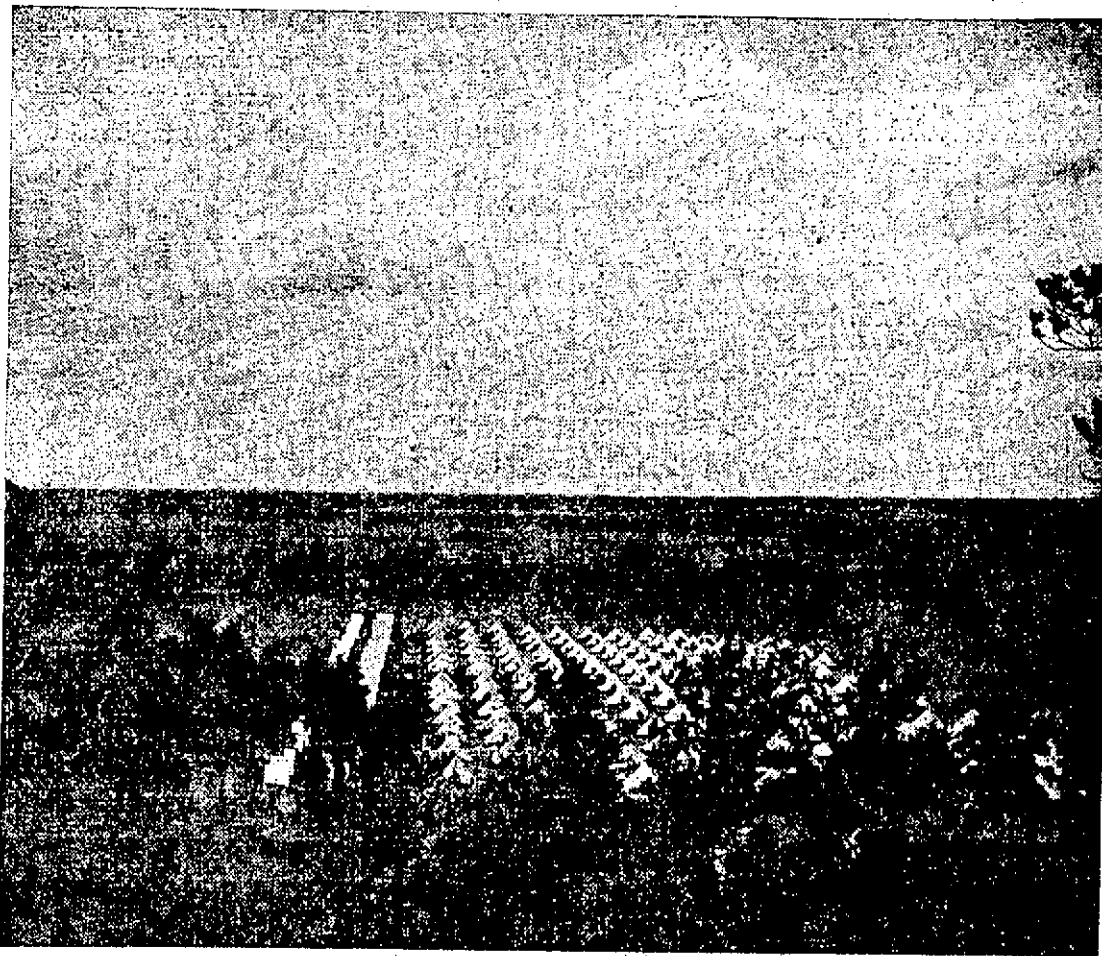

New Jersey—Probably the Fifth infantry; two cavalry troops; two field artillery batteries; one field hospital; one ambulance company.

Massachusetts—Second, Fifth, Eighth, Ninth, regiments of infantry; one battalion of field artillery; first squadron cavalry; signal corps; one field hospital; one ambulance company.

Connecticut—First and Second infantry; Yale university field art.

John F. Kling, champion rifle shot of Wisconsin and Minnesota, formerly a member of Company M. W. N. MEDIATION NOT ACCEPTABLE NOW DIPLOMAT IS TOLD

BY ROBERT J. BENDER

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 26.—Mediation is not acceptable to the United States at this time, Bolivian Minister Calderon was given to understand by Secretary Lansing this afternoon.

The importance from the United States viewpoint of Carranza's making his intentions clear at once was indicated and the impossibility of accepting mediation offers at this time probably pointed out.

"I have no definite plans of mediation to propose," said Calderon. "My first representation this afternoon will be merely informal and verbal. Should the conference prove successful, I will present a formal written offer of good services."

Publishes Suggestions
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
BUENOS AIRES, June 26.—A list of suggestions designed to prevent war between the United States and Mexico, were published today by La Lacion, the leading newspaper of South America.

Included in the list was a proposal made by Romulo S. Naon, Argentine ambassador to Washington for the establishment of a police zone on both sides of the border open to the troops of each nation to prevent a repetition of bandit raids. The American government must guarantee that the sole purpose of these expeditions was the policing of Mexican territory.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Following an admission by Carranza that his orders were responsible for the massacre of the American troops at Carrizal, President Wilson dispatched an ultimatum to the de facto government of Mexico.

In this ultimatum the president demands that Carranza formally state whether his attitude toward the United States is hostile and that he surrender immediately the seventeen American prisoners taken at Carrizal.

Mr. Wilson then summoned the chairmen and ranking minority members of the senate foreign relations and house foreign affairs committees to meet him at the white house at 8 o'clock last night.

The leaders in attendance were Chairman Stone and Flood of the respective senate and house committees and Senator Lodge and Representative Cooper of Wisconsin.

CAPT. BRADLEY RESTORED TO ACTIVE LIST WILL RECRUIT ROOKIES HERE

CHICAGO, June 26.—No militia command in the central department of the United States army has as yet received its specific orders to entrain for the border, it was announced today, at the department headquarters. These orders may come tomorrow or may be delayed several days.

BY MARK R. BYERS
CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., June 26.—Capt. J. M. Bradley, retired, who as chief officer of company B ranked high in the Wisconsin militia, has been restored to the active list and ordered to continue the recruiting at La Crosse. In view of the fact that steps are already moving toward the formation of a new Wisconsin brigade, it is believed here that eventually Captain Bradley will be asked to take a command.

When do we go to the border?
Now that equipment and recruiting are nearly completed, the insistence of this question has increased in every man's mind, and betting on the point is a pastime in camp.

Inside official opinion here is influenced by the belief that President Wilson's great aim is to avoid war and if the military demonstration can succeed at long range the troops will not be moved. That they will not go until "something happens" is the pith of official conviction, but it is admitted that with Carranza in the position most likely to require initiative, opinions are speculative in character. They are not in complete readiness, and how long supplies now lacking will be delayed is a mere guess. Not sooner than the latter part of this week is the current guess and nothing more definite is said on the subject.

It is unofficially stated that the Wisconsin troops may not go at one time, and that the First regiment will be first to entrain. The route as now planned is said to be to La Crosse on the St. Paul system, thence to Kansas City over the Burlington and from there on a line through Oklahoma to Austin, Texas.

CAPTAIN MOREY BLAMES MEXICANS FOR FATAL FIGHT

FIELD HEADQUARTERS, MEXICO, June 26.—Captain Lewis S. Morey was brought to General Pershing's headquarters today by automobile and gave the American commander a personal account of the Carrizal fight.

Morey appeared to be in good physical condition considering his wound and the privations he endured before being found by a relief column. His wound was treated by surgeons here.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, June 26.—Captain Lewis S. Morey, commander of Troop K, Tenth cavalry, who sent to General Pershing the first official account of the battle at Carrizal, was found today with four Negro troopers at San Luis ranch, according to a message from Pershing to General Funston.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 26.—Mexican troops fired the first shot on the troops of the Tenth United States cavalry at Carrizal, but not until the American force, fearing an ambush had advanced in battle formation, according to a letter written on the day of the fight by Captain Lewis Morey, commanding K troop of the Tenth the day of the fight and forwarded to General Pershing by General Pershing Sunday night.

Wrote From Hiding
Captain Morey wrote the letter at 3:15 a. m., June 21, while hiding in a hole about 2,000 yards from the scene of the battle. Captain Morey was wounded through the shoulder and had another wounded man and three un wounded troopers with him. The three un wounded men were picked up by a detachment under Lieutenant Henry A. Meyers, Jr., of the Tenth cavalry and the letter brought to General Pershing Sunday.

Captain Morey was left to die upon the desert from thirst and his wounds. The men abandoned him at his own order. The three un wounded men had carried him according to their stories, to Lieutenant Meyer from the hole where he had hidden.

ARMYRATIONS SERVED OUT AT CAMP DOUGLAS

Chaplain George R. Longbrake of La Crosse, postmaster, and spiritual guide of the "Shooting Third," celebrated his thirtieth wedding anniversary in camp Saturday.

"It looks like an unlucky one for me," said the chaplain early on the day. "It's the first I ever spent away from Mrs. Longbrake."

But it turned out to be a lucky one for the captain, for just before noon he returned to his tent from distributing mail down the regimental street, to find Mrs. Longbrake waiting in his tent. She had come down with Mrs. Fowler, wife of Company M's captain, on a surprise visit.

The regimental band turned out last night after supper and gave the parson and his wife a serenade.

Otto V. Enders, massive corporal of Company M, spent Saturday attending to the muster of his squad into the regular army roll. But he had occasion, now and then, to think of a track-meet being held by the Wisconsin Athletic club in Milwaukee, in which he was expecting to draw down a medal for pole vaulting. Corporal Enders is a letter man of the University of Wisconsin track team.

Enders was also scheduled to attend a meeting of playground physical directors at Milwaukee on Saturday. He had secured one of the best positions on the Milwaukee staff, but was forced to wire his resignation because of the call to the colors.

BY MARK R. RYERS

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., June 26.—The Third regiment took it easier that the others in the brigade Saturday because the examination surgeons of the United States army had selected the "Shooting Third" on which to begin their medical examination of the men. The examination is rigid. Most of the Third companies suffered heavily by rejections. L company of Sparta, the first to be gone through, lost sixteen men, more than 20 per cent of its enlisted strength. The rejections were for all causes. Teeth accounted for a number of the men who returned home today.

The army requirement is that there shall be four sound teeth that "occlude" or come together. Some of the boys who were say on the teeth that "chit" offered to go straight to the dentist and have sufficient repairs made to meet the requirement. But the U. S. doctor was inexorable. "Sorry, boys," Dr. Anzer told a brace of long-service men in L company. "But on this occasion the army can't wait for dentists."

Flat feet accounted for a number more of the Third's men. It is interesting to note that the bespectacled ones stand an equal chance with the rest for passing the examination. The army doesn't care how near-sighted you may be, provided your glasses fit. If your sight is corrected near enough to normal to allow of shooting, you can get by.

A movement toward the creation of a full cavalry regiment for the Iron brigade of '16, was seen in the authorization Saturday of the formation of Troop B to be recruited at once in Milwaukee. As a nucleus of the new troop there are twenty men here in camp—men that joined Troop A in excess of its quota.

Captain Penner of A Troop lined the men up Saturday and told them that they were twenty past war strength. He suggested that all who had any misgivings step forward. Nobody moved. Then the captain suggested that all the married men really ought to go home. He pointed out how vastly superior domestic bliss is to chasing greasers, but still no one was moved to retire. Captain Penner was on the point, later in the day, of drawing lots to see who should stay when general headquarters informed him that the new troop was to be formed.

Second Lieutenant August M. Krech of A Troop has been designated as Captain of the new cavalry command. He received his commission just a year ago, and his rise is believed to be almost unprecedented in Badger guard history. First Sergeant Oliver D. Treadwell and Sergeant P. C. Burrill of A Troop will be respectively first and second lieutenants of the new command. They left for Milwaukee Sunday to begin recruiting.

The proposition of equipment for all the "rookies" was to be solved today. Saturday Quartermaster Major C. R. Williams received word that the supplies requisitioned from the Rock Island arsenal were on the way, and would arrive Monday. Some of it was in Saturday evening—a complete outfit of automatic pistols for the men who carry them being the first installment to arrive. A car of equipment came Saturday.

Need a Week
Company commanders, although anxious to move to the border, are willing to wait a week in camp. Colonel R. A. Richards of the Third said yesterday that he hoped the Iron brigade of '16 would not be moved out for at least a week.

"Some of our companies were slow in starting to recruit," Colonel Richards told THE TRIBUNE correspondent, but we've got started now, and if we could send an officer back to take charge we could increase our strength rapidly. I can say confidently that in another week every company in the Third regiment would be up to war strength."

The Superior supply company is above its required active service quota, and a number of its men are to be turned over to Company B of La Crosse, which is short.

Lieutenant Hale of Company M arrived Saturday from La Crosse with nine "rookies" in tow. Among them was one whom the company has already dubbed "Prexy." "Prexy's" name on the company roster is Charles Sherman. He is a barber in the Schwartz shop at 519 Main street.

He got his nick-name two hours after reporting into camp because of his remarkable resemblance to President Woodrow Wilson.

Five members of one household in Sparta are in the Third regiment's camp. The contingent is headed by Major R. B. McCoy, brigade inspector of small arms practice. Malcolm McCoy, 21, Bruce, 19, and Robert, 18, are privates in Company L. Alexander Gibbon, a nephew of Major McCoy, is also a private in Company L.

Major McCoy's three sons were on a walking trip to Yellowstone Park when the president called out the guard. The major sent them a wire to a dozen cities, since he was not acquainted with their whereabouts. At Aberdeen, S. D., the chief of police put the telegram up in the post office, and the boys found it. They boarded the next train home.

Malcolm, the oldest, a school teacher at Esclavine, Minn., was not a member of the guard, but he enlisted immediately upon his arrival in Sparta.

The percentage of Haugens in Company A, Neillville contingent of the Third, is expected to go higher within the week. The six Haugen brothers, and their dog Hyper, who hold the state family record for aggregate enlistment, said today that they were expecting the arrival of their brother Rangwald, former lieutenant of company A, who has settled on a claim in Circle, Mont. Under the provisions of a federal law, Rangwald is going to serve the rest of his time for his claim in Company A, his brothers believe. There are nine Haugen brothers, and eight of them are present or former members of Company A.

WHY SUFFER WITH BACKACHE, KIDNEYS OR RHEUMATISM NOW?

Letter Tells of Long-looked-for Prescription.
Dear Readers—If I can do any good in the world for others, I wish to do it, and I feel that it is my duty to write about the wonderful results I have had from the use of "Anurie." I was suffering from kidney and bladder troubles, scalding urine, backache and rheumatism, and feel that "Anurie" saved me at times I could not work without assistance. Had taken several different kinds of kidney remedies but all failed. I sent for a box of Dr. Pierce's newest discovery, "Anurie," which I received by mail in tablet form. I soon got better and am convinced that this popular new medicine is good. I wish to recommend it to my neighbors and everybody suffering from such troubles.
Mrs. M. J. SARGENT.

NOTE: You've all undoubtedly heard of the famous Dr. Pierce and his well-known medicines. Well, this prescription is one that has been successfully used for many years by the physicians and specialists. Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., for kidney complaints, and diseases arising from disorders of the kidneys and bladder, such as backache, weak back, rheumatism, dropsy, congestion of the kidneys, inflammation of the bladder, scalding urine, and urinary troubles.

Up to this time, "Anurie" has not been on sale to the public, but by the persuasion of many patients and the increased demand for this wonderful healing tablet, Doctor Pierce has finally decided to put it into the stores, or send it to you by mail for 50 cents per package or 50 cents for full treatment. Simply ask for Doctor Pierce's Anurie Tablets. There can be no imitation. Every package of "Anurie" is sure to be Dr. Pierce's. The signature of Dr. Pierce is on the package and you do on Dr. Pierce's favorite prescription, the ever-famous friend to ailing women, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, proven by "ear" to be the greatest general tonic and reconstructer for any one besides being the best blood-maker known.

The show at the Majestic for today is one of the best that has been put together for some time.

Norma Talmadge and little George Stone scored a big hit. Miss Talmadge in "Going Straight" has a big part, in which she sounds the very depths of emotion, both as a wife and mother, and in which she is certain to add greatly to her already notable popularity among the followers of the film.

The Searchlight

THE LONGEST TOW
The greatest ship towing feat ever undertaken is that of bringing the U. S. collier "Maumee" from Mate's Island, San Francisco, to the New York navy yard where she is to be fitted up with new engines.

The towing is being done by another collier, "The Prometheus," which is expected to haul her load into New York harbor early in July. A special towing machine has been devised for the trip. A powerful steam-operated winding drum holds the steel towing cable in even coils, and careful provision has been made for regulating the distance between the two vessels with a minimum strain on the cable.

Overheard in 2000 A. D.
"Now, this is the skeleton of a man who lived in the twentieth century."

"Why is one arm so much longer than the other, professor?" "This is not an unusual case. You will notice that the right arm is several inches longer than the left and is due to the custom quite common in those days of clinging to a strap with the right hand while holding a newspaper in the left hand."

"THIS NIGHT IN HISTORY"

The "Forward La Crosse" dinner tonight seems more than likely to prove a historic banquet. Somehow, we seem to mark the time by "cats"—some good, some bad. In the beginning of the Newer Light there was—and is—the Lord's-Supper. The more sumptuous "feast of Belshazzar" added no luster to history, but history absorbed it as a moral warning. In more modern times there was that famous dinner served by the late object of Harry Thaw's mad vengeance, and one hardly dares mention in the same breath that chaste mystery—the "Gary Dinner".

But we set aside the "Forward La Crosse" dinner as in another class. We have no exclusive title, but in every municipality that has broken bread at this type of banquet, the incident has become the gastronomic monument commemorating the beginning of a great period of progress.

It is bound to be so here. Never has a city, working out such a program, succeeded in enlisting more nearly unanimously the big, forceful figures in its citizenship; never has such a volunteer army engaged in its campaign with a deeper, more earnest purpose to accomplish the object of its endeavors. Never, indeed, have all the working forces of a municipality lined up more solidly and determinedly, never have they entered upon closer co-operation, never have they moved forward under better direction and more favorable auspices.

When the collective intelligence and industry of an American city attempt an achievement the advisability of which is sustained by unanswerable logic, appealing to a level-headed and progressive community, success is as certain as the duration of time. It is so here. Every condition of personnel, program and field is propitious. Plain as a ship in the harbor are the objectives of economy, profit and general business advantage. Not less definite are the promises on the sociological side and in the direction of education, art, entertainment and health—the elements of a livable city.

Surely Monday, June twenty-six, will be a day to which the people of La Crosse will look back as the beginning of a time of steady, sound community development along all the lines that count for stability, expansion and progress.

MAKING VOTES FOR WOODROW WILSON

Is the republican party a great party standing for great principles?

Despite its raising up of false prophets and sometimes deification of the golden calf, we have thought so. Certainly it WAS a great party. Certainly its rank and file represent much of the strength of the country. Certainly it professes great ideals and makes great promises.

Of its lapses from grace it has heretofore never been possible to say that the republican party was petty or that it was unpatriotic. But certain newspapers and prominent men who presume to speak for the republican party in America's present extremities indulge in language both petty and unpatriotic.

Nothing more contemptible has been said in American politics than that President Woodrow Wilson is deliberately engaging in war with Mexico as a political scheme. Never has one man sacrificed so much to keep his country from war as Woodrow Wilson. And dare the men who have daily characterized the policy that has kept the peace as "spineless," now complain of a position assumed with apparent reluctance and in an extremity in which any other course would have deprived the country of prestige and subjected it to insolent attack by an anarchistic horde! Truly, at a terrible sacrifice Woodrow Wilson might have yielded to the temptation not every ruler could have resisted, to become an immortal war president.

With every utterance of this charge the accusers are making votes for Woodrow Wilson. The great American people are fair; they are quick to resent inconsistency and injustice.

We confess to "republican leanings". We confess that in our judgment the republican party never adopted a better platform or nominated a better man, albeit we prefer the democratic solution for the merchant marine problem. But as we read these scurrilous sentiments ascribing criminal motives to the president, our republican affiliations bring us a sense of complicity in treason.

Mr. Hughes can not be elected in a campaign of malignity and scurrility. He can not be elected by methods that show no consideration for the worthy man with whom he and his followers are in honest political disagreement. People—just plain people who talk little and vote regularly—realize that the mistakes of the president were made in a position fraught with such delicacy and difficulty as has seldom confronted a national executive. They will hesitate to entrust the government, during the continuance of that situation, to men whose campaign methods suggest lack of that sense of proportion and justice indispensable to navigating the intricacies of the blind and troubled channel we are pursuing.

We do not expect Mr. Hughes to indulge in vituperation. That his words will be a severe arraignment of certain phases of the Wilson administration, we quite expect, but that they will be calm, just from the standpoint of his views, and full of dignity, we confidently anticipate.

May we suggest that critics of the present administration who desire the return of republican rule, contain themselves until they are given for their guidance the utterances of the man who is to become official spokesman for the republican party?

PUBLIC SERVICE THAT DOESN'T SERVE

A special train of seventeen cars brought seven hundred people into La Crosse last night five minutes after the 11 o'clock cars left the loop. A heavy rain began falling as the depot was reached. Not a single extra car, not a car of any kind, was in sight. The assistant superintendent of the street car company was on the train; he knew of its coming and got a taste of his own service. Later a few cars were hurried out, too late to be of much service, but this was an afterthought probably inspired by the official ducking. Was it neglect, or incompetence? In either case it was inexcusable.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

From Old Erin
"The Black Watch are fighting so well in France that even the Germans praise them. Wonderful fighters, the Irish!"

The speaker was W. Bourke Cockran. He continued:
"When I think of the valor of the Black Watch regiment I recall the story of Pat McCann."

"Pat came home one night with a black eye, a broken nose and a split lip; a front tooth was gone as well."

"Shame on you," Bridget cried. "A big feller like you to be licked by a little hard-drinkin' cockroach like Tim Sullivan! Why, he—"

"Whist," said Pat from his basin softly. "Don't sphake evil of the dead."

He Tried it First
A northern man and a southern man were seated in front of a hotel in a South Georgia town, when a farmer drove up with a very large load of watermelons, weighing from fifteen to twenty-five pounds each.

The southerner bet the northerner that he would stop the first negro that came along the street and the negro could eat one of the largest melons on the wagon. Pretty soon a little, dried-up negro came along, whistling.

"Come here, Sam," said the southerner. "Do you want to make five dollars?"

"Sho, boss, I does," said the negro.

"All right; if you'll eat that largest melon over there I'll give you five dollars."

The negro looked at the melon a long time and then said:
"Give me twenty minutes, boss, and I'll come right on back and let you know."

At the appointed time the negro returned.

"All right, boss, I can eat it now." The melon was brought, and the little negro soon cleaned it up, to the utter astonishment of the northern gentleman. As he paid the money, the southern gentleman asked him to explain why he wanted the twenty minutes to decide.

"I tell you de truth, boss," said the negro. "I went round de corner and ate one just like it and I knowed I could eat dat one."

Turning the Tables
Handicapped but undaunted, the actors in the touring "drammer" were doing their best; but their efforts were spoiled by the rude comments of a small boy at the back of the hall.

At last, after some of his best "scenes" had been spoiled, the hero hissed melodramatically:

The applause and laughter which greeted this brilliant sally had hardly died away when the voice of the insulter was heard to ask blandly:
"What did you do with the organ?"

(By Niksch)

CONCORD
Concord is one American city that almost every American has seen or planned to see. The old Massachusetts town is known to every youngster who has plowed his way through the first four readers or the first "steps in the history of our country."

And it is the things they tell us about when we are very young that we go to see when we attain to the dignity of years and vacations.

Concord is a spot of varied attractions. It can furnish something to meet the taste of almost anybody except the man who craves the bright lights and the speedy existence, and its shortcomings in this respect are its strongest recommendation in the eyes of most of its devotees.

Are you interested in history? Do you thrill when you set your foot on the very spot where Charlemagne ate dinner, or where the tears of Alexander fell when the extras told of Philip's latest victories? Then Concord can show you its revolutionary battleground, and if the "rude bridge that arched the flood" in the poem no longer does so in reality, you can at least gaze on a concrete bridge from the same spot where the farmers stood and fired the shot heard round the world.

If your taste turns to literature rather than dead facts, here are literary shrines in plenty where the visitor may burn his incense. Here is the house of Emerson, where that ascetic philosopher coiled his pigrams. Here Thoreau was born, and bither he came to visit and to register his protest against the payment of taxes. Here Hawthorne lived and wrote in the Old Manse, and that the roster of Concord's literary figures might strike a note in the hearts of all ages, here Miss Alcott created the families dear to juvenile bibliophiles.

Concord has claims to respect quite aside from the things that have happened and the men who have lived there. It is a beautiful, quiet dighified old town, and the leaves of its old elms seem to whisper that neither books nor battles, but only nature matters after all.

An American Romance

"Kicked this pistol box to pieces. I just had a curiosity. The old chap was too played out after his fight to notice much, and this mornin' he was too sorrowful. He just quit a minute too soon, but I expect his old eyes couldn't see what I saw, anyway. All the time he talked I watched that old shiny gun-box. I wouldn't give a cent for a barrel of 'em as guns; but I noticed. There were two compartments in that case—one under this velvet bottom. I saw it was so when I lifted the gun. And it was locked, but soon as you and the old boy went out, I broke it. There, rolled up, as though they'd been slapped in there in a mighty hurry were these papers—Laure's grants—right from the king of Spain. I sure read enough to that! Why the looks of it's enough to scare me!"

"Yes?" I queried, for I had not thought as fast as he.

"I waited till you all got out," he continued.

His troubled smile was on me. "I could burn 'em here on the cabin floor. I could tear 'em across and drop 'em over and in an hour they'd look like a drowned water-lily. Sho! And if she has 'em there's no two guesses at it. The Prairie Meadows Company—and you and me, and every one in it—is busted. There'd be no fight in it—we couldn't go back on these grants—you see I know. The cou't'd reverse the case in forty minutes when they saw these first records."

"I see." The slow and growing brightness of his eye did not deceive me. And I went on evenly in what must have been a taunt to him, there with his wreck—fortune, his pledged word, his reputation among men—the fruit of his eight years' fight for himself and all the others: "The biggest fighters are the biggest losers—you have it right, Virgil."

"What would you do, Doctor Dick?"

"I'm not saying. I won't be wholly ruined if the land company blew up tomorrow. Not altogether. But there are at least twenty widows and poor folks in the Isle Bonne lands through me. Old friends and neighbors, that I got in—somehow, because you said—"

"Don't," he said. "I got as many mo'! I ain't worryin' about those New York fel-lows. The speculators and financiers; it's the little ones who—who—well, they been pretty patient with me—let me vote their stock so's I could fight the big fellows who wanted to pull out all the time. Yes, seh—they stood by me—trustin'—and now—"

He looked out at the blue gulver of heat against the cypress isle—the timber alone of it would fight off disaster if all else quit him.

"Well," he muttered briefly. "I wonder why God made me find it? It wouldn't have been so hard on you, Doctor Dick—or Clell—or any body. But me—"

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND
BY DAISY DEAN

Baby Marie Osborn (Little Mary Sunshine).
She's a native of Denver, Colo., and her parents are both professionals. As "Babe" St. Clair her mother is known to many people of the stage. Leon T. Osborn is the father.

Special scenarios are being prepared for Little Mary Sunshine of the Balboa-Pathe company. Little Miss Sunshine acknowledges four summers and the same number of winters. In fact, she isn't a whit ashamed of her age and boldly admits it to all who inquire. Will M. Ritchey and D. F. Whitcomb are the two writers engaged to furnish Baby Sunshine with suitable vehicles.

When H. M. Horkheimer, president of the Balboa studios, realized the popularity of Mary Sunshine, after the release of the five-reel feature in which she carried the whole story on her baby shoulders, he immediately ordered his scenario staff to prepare photoplays to feature her. Ten are being written, the best six to be selected from the output.

The personality of the little lady is the theme around which the writers are to work. Considering the versatility of the child, this gives the scenario writers a wider range than one can believe possible.

Florence La Badie, Thanhouser-Mutual star, is her own chauffeur, having just bought a new car, which she is thinking seriously of entering in the Sheephead Bay amateur races on the Fourth of July.

Mary Miles Minter was welcomed with a speech from the mayor of Santa Barbara when she arrived there recently for a season's work with the American Film company, Inc.

It's her island—how the mischief could we keep it?
"Easy. Just a match to these documents." And again his sad humor lit him. "Easy—and that's what makes it so plumb hard!"

And when I went out and up the hot wharf to Papa Prosper's house, I could still hear him muttering in his little white cabin:
"Easy—and that's what makes it hard!"

I found them all idling about Prosper's chairs and hammocks. It was mid-noon now, August in Louisiana, without the gulf breeze; and that is something bad—when the sea breeze falls.

The tidal lakes northward were blue-burnished copper with a little patch of feathery bloom miles away where one incipient wind had wandered. And out of Isle Bonne's jungle, the stinging sun found way.

Mary hardly stirred her weary head from the hammock. "I wonder what is next?" she murmured. "Clell, won't you fan me again—please?"

(To Be Continued)
His Addition Was Right
"I got one hundred this morning." "That's lovely, Sammy!" exclaimed his proud mother. "What was it in?"

"Fifty in reading, and fifty in arithmetic," was Sammy's prompt reply.

Ever Notice It?
If you stop to think, you can doubtless name a number of people who talk too much—including yourself.

Friendship
A ruddy drop of manly blood
The surging sea outweighs:
The world, uncertain, comes and goes.

The lover rooted stays.
I fancied he was fled—
And after many a year
Glowed unexpected kindness.

Like daily sunrise there
My careful heart was free again.
"O friend," my bosom said,
"Through thee the rose is red;

All things through thee take nobler form
And look beyond the earth:
The mill-round of our fate appears
A sun-path in thy worth.

Me, too, thy nobleness has taught
To master my despair;
The fountains of my hidden life
Are through thy friendship fair."

—Emerson.

OPERATION SUCCESSFUL

Miss Margaret Peck, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Peck, 702 South Seventh street, was taken to the La Crosse hospital early yesterday afternoon and underwent an operation for appendicitis, following a sudden attack. Dr. J. A. Rowles, who performed the operation, reports that the child is resting easily today.

Mr. Bryan encounters Armageddon right there at home in Nebraska.

MISS HOFFMAN IS ONALASKA BRIDE

ONALASKA, Wis., June 26.—(Special.)—An interesting society event was the marriage of Miss Alice Hoffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Hoffman of Sparta, to Byron Moore of this city, which took place at the Catholic church in Sparta on Wednesday morning, June 21. Rev. Flock performed the wedding service which was followed immediately by the singing of the nuptial high mass. The bride wore a suit of silk pongee with rose trimmings and leghorn picture hat with black felt crown and colored flowers. Harvey Hoffman, the bride's brother, acted as best man and Miss Thelma Fanning as bridesmaid.

A wedding breakfast was served at the Hoffman home at 10:30 o'clock to one hundred guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore left soon after for Milwaukee. They will make their home at Onalaska.

A LA CROSSE MAN'S EXPERIENCE

Results Tell the Tale.

Can you doubt the evidence of this La Crosse citizen.

You can verify La Crosse endorsement.

Read this:
C. J. Miller, 607 N. Tenth St., La Crosse, says: "A persistent, dull ache through my back made me as weak as a child. My whole body ached and I had rheumatic pains. Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Begun's Drug Store, brought me fine relief, in fact, they gave better results than any other kidney medicine I had ever tried." (Statement given October 9th, 1908).

A Permanent Cure.

Over four years later, Mr. Miller said: "I am glad to say that Doan's Kidney Pills have given me a permanent cure."

Militia Tabloids

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Battery C, Chicago's "millionaire battery," was short an officers' mess kit. "Go ahead—order one and send the bill to me," said Lawrence H. Armour. In case the company wants horses, Armour said he would supply these.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—A "left behind me" club is being organized by the girls, mothers and sisters of the militiamen ordered to the border.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—M. R. Collins, enlisted with the Third regiment, M. N. G., as a substitute for his brother, R. B. Collins, so the latter might work to finish his education.

NEW YORK.—"It's their duty and they ought to go," says Mrs. Zenas Burns, mother of "the Burnses of the Sixty-ninth." Of her six sons, four have answered the call to arms. The other two are too young.

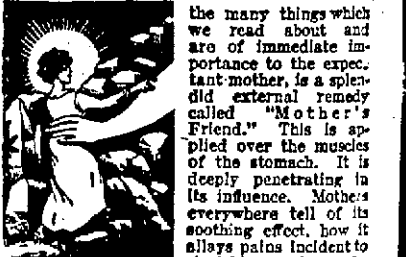

NEW YORK.—The "war bride" battalion continues to grow. Six national guardsmen have been married here in the last twenty-four hours. Of these, the marriage of Michael Miller was an international affair, for his mother is German, his mother-in-law French. He expects to go to Mexico.

NEW YORK.—"I wouldn't let the baby go, not if you put a million dollars right in my hand," said Mrs. Michael Coston, when it was suggested she would have to give up her six months old child because the father has mobilized with his troops and she is penniless.

If you don't want to have anything on your mind, it is a pleasure to listen to some conversations.

A Fine Aid For Mother-to-be

We are all greatly indebted to those who tell their experiences. And among the many things which we read about and are of immediate importance to the expectant mother, is a splendid external remedy called "Mother's Friend." This is applied over the muscles of the stomach. It is deeply penetrating in its influence. Mothers everywhere tell of its soothing effect, how it allays pains incident to stretching of cords, ligaments and muscles. They tell of restful comfort, of calm, peaceful nights, an absence of those distresses peculiar to the period of expectancy, relief from morning sickness, no more of that apprehension with which many young women's minds become burdened. It is a splendid help. Get a bottle of "Mother's Friend" from your nearest druggist. Ask your husband to get it for you. Then write to Bradford Regulator Co., 408 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for a very handsome and instructive book. It is filled with suggestive ideas of great help to all women interested in the subject of maternity. And best of all are some letters from mothers that are real inspirations. Write today.

CASEMENT ANSWERS "NOT GUILTY" TO TREASON CHARGE

Noble Who Led Futile Irish Revolt Appears Before Magistrate in Air of Confidence

BY WILBUR S. FORREST
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
LONDON, June 26.—In a firm voice, Sir Roger Casement today pleaded not guilty to the charge of high treason, at the opening of his trial before Lord Chief Justice
Reading and Associate Justices
Avery and Huddell.

A jury was obtained from a special panel of 150 talesmen in less than an hour.
Casement was today scarcely the same man who appeared at the preliminary arraignment in Bow street police court. Then, his beard sadly needed trimming, his hair was tousled and he wore an ill-fitting sack suit. When he was brought over this morning from Brixton prison to which he had been removed from the tower of London, he wore a carefully brushed morning coat and immaculate linen. His beard and hair were carefully trimmed.
The prisoner listened calmly while the clerk read the lengthy charge, recalling his activities in connection with the Irish rebellion and his attempts to induce Irish soldiers, prisoners in Germany, to desert from the British army. He watched his counsel, Michael Doyle, of Philadelphia, closely.

COLUMBUS, N. M., June 26.—
Carranza troops, who appeared in Ascension, jeered an American motor truck which natives stoned but no shots were fired and the train passed through the village safely.
The situation along the expedition's communication lines today is reported as tense.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—War department supplies and troop trains have the right of way on all American railroads. Through the American Railway association, the department, it was learned today, has at its disposal all the rolling stock it desires.
Cars containing war department material bear a special placard and this is recognized, by every dispatcher and train crew as giving it the right of way. Much of the war department freight moves even faster than express trains. In one case during the past week, a railroad side-tracked one of its fast limited passenger trains to make way for war supplies—the only time it ever gave any train precedence over its crack special.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN WALKS INTO WATER AND ENDS LIFE

An unidentified man committed suicide this afternoon by walking into the Mississippi at the foot of Freemont street and drowning himself.
He was seen to enter the water by Mrs. Henry Platz, 2404 Fremont street. Thinking the man had reason for entering the water, she called the attention to him until she saw him enter the deeper part of the stream.
Then she saw his head sink.
Mrs. Platz telephoned the police.
The police car was rushed to the spot.

FIRST CHIEF ASKED FOR A STATEMENT

ors discussed principally the procedure that will be followed in the event that Carranza upholds the attitude of hostility which resulted in the Carrizal massacre and otherwise continues to defy the United States in its policy of maintaining the army in Mexico for the purpose of safeguarding the border.
The foremost features of the discussion were the question of crossing declaring war on Mexico, in the event of further defiance by Carranza, and the suggestion that the president appear at a joint session of both houses to submit a statement of the ominous situation.
Carranza admits blame for attack it transpires that the president's demands upon Carranza, which are being denominated an ultimatum, although they do not fix a time limit on a reply, were precipitated by a formal communication to the American government Saturday. In this note Carranza virtually pleads guilt to making war on the United States.

He assumes responsibility for the orders to Gen. Trevino to prevent the American troops from executing any movement except in withdrawal from Mexico and seeks to justify the massacre of Capt. Boyd's command on the ground that the American force disregarded the Trevino mandate.

No Longer Wait Needed by U. S.
This admission by Carranza, in the opinion of the president, settles the question of responsibility for the attack on the Boyd command and absolves the Americans of any blame for the tragedy. Mr. Wilson decided that it would not be necessary to await longer the complete report of the circumstances of the tragic affair by Gen. Pershing.
Reaches Mexico City
The demand upon Carranza is now in Mexico City. Consul Rodgers reported he was making efforts last night to deliver it but probably would have to defer delivery until today.
Rodgers indicated he had no line on Carranza's attitude toward the last two notes.

VESSEL PUT OUT UNDER SEALED ORDERS

GLOUCESTER, Mass., June 26.—
At 6 a. m., United States steamer Baltimore the mine layer Lebanon, supply ship Dubuque and four sea-going tugs sailed from Gloucester harbor under sealed orders, presumably for some Mexican gulf port.

and made their way nearly two miles from the battlefield.

They were forced to stop and Captain Morey, believing himself hopelessly wounded, ordered them to leave him. They also thought him about to die from loss of blood and thirst, and obeyed.

The letter was addressed to Morey's immediate superior, the commanding officer at Ojo Fedeirico. It is believed Lieutenant Meyer sent it to Ojo Fedeirico, from where it was forwarded to Pershing.

A wireless addressed to Morey's wife in Austin, Texas, received last night read: "Am back on line and all well." It was signed "Sidney" and sent from "somewhere in Mexico."

General Funston has received no word early today of Morey's rescue.
Of the 84 officers and men comprising Troops C and K, one officer and 43 men have returned to the American lines.

The prisoners held at Chihuahua
City are said to number seventeen.
This leaves twenty-three men to be accounted for. Practically all of those latter are believed to have been killed.

POLICE LOOK FOR RECKLESS DRIVER

Police are today searching for the driver of an automobile which last night leaped the curbings at Sixth and Main streets and ran into the iron railing around St. Joseph's cathedral boulevard. Indications are, police say, that the car was damaged.

SITUATION GRAVE

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 26.— Army officials at Fort Sam Houston characterized present situation as "the gravest in history" of the two countries. They expressed their opinion that it would be only two or three days before "the big stuff starts."

Feverish preparations for a movement of considerable proportions are being made.

Funston has wired General Wood and other department commanders directions as to the destinations for the National Guard, but refused to make them public.

HURRY TO BORDER

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—Seven companies of the coast artillery corps, United States army, today left Fort Scott, Baker, and Miley guarding the Golden Gate and hurried for the Mexican border, in response to rush orders from Washington.

PASS $3,000,000 INCREASE TO BUY GUNS AND HORSES

WASHINGTON, June 26.—A $3,- 000,000 increase to the provision in the army bill for purchase of artillery and cavalry horses, passed the house today. The item now reads $3,300,000 for horses. The war department is purchasing 68,000 immediately for regulars and militia.
Chairman Hay, House military committee, said today additions to the $157,000,000 army bill already passed may total $25,000,000, due to the Mexican trouble. Cost of mobilizing the army up to June 30 will approximate $6,000,000.
Another addition today was $2,- 000,000 instead of $1,000,000 for sanitary, medical and hospital departments.

Italians Drive Austrians Back, Russ Cross Carpathians and British Launch Great Artillery Fire

ITALIAN FORCES TURN

Rome Claims Recapture of Many Positions Lost in the Recent Austrian Offensive

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
LONDON, June 26.—Every surface indication today pointed to the beginning of the long expected super-offensive of the allies.

Breaking out with a terrific smash against the Austrian front, the Italians drove the Austrians back yesterday on a front of more than fifteen miles. They recaptured seven positions taken by the Austrian crown prince in his recent drive in the Trentino.

At practically the same hour that the Italian rush began, British artillery broke loose with a battering attack against German trenches from the La Basse canal southward to the Somme. Both the British and German official statements comment on the violence of this attack. Thus far no word has reached London of the beginning of the expected British infantry attack.

Russ Brings Up Reserves
Dispatches from Berlin today reported that the Russians, instead of being disheartened by their temporary check in Volhynia, are bringing immense numbers of reserves into action and have renewed their vigorous attempts to reach Kovel.

Break Through
Russian troops have broken through the Carpathian mountains into Transylvania in an advance from Bukowina, according to a wireless dispatch from Rome today.

Reports that Rumania is displaying military activity, coming from German sources today coincide with other dispatches that the pro-Ally party at Bucharest is urging Rumania's entrance into the war.

General Retreat

Rome, June 26.—Austrian troops have begun a general retreat on the Trentino front under a smashing Italian offensive. It was officially announced today. The Italians have captured positions at Castelgomberto, Meletio, Mont Lougara, Gallo, Asla-go, Cesuna and Monte Cengio.

The Italian gains are the most important made by General Cadorna's armies in a single attack since the first few weeks following the outbreak of the Austro-Italian war. The Italians taking advantage of the withdrawal of Austrian troops to meet the Russian offensive.

The hardest blow was struck against the Austrian center which invaded Italy in the recent Italian offensive.

French Carry Trenches

PARIS, June 26.—French troops carried a few elements of German trenches between Fumin and Chenois woods on the northeastern front of Verdun last night, the war office announced today. A German attack west of Triaumont was completely checked by French screen fire.

Artillery duels occurred around Dead Man's hill on the northwestern front of Verdun.

BERLIN, June 26.—In most stubborn fighting west of Sokul, the Germans have inflicted new defeats on the Russians, the war office announced this afternoon. In the fighting since June 18, the Germans have taken sixty-one Russian officers, 11,2 097 men, two cannon and fifty-four machine guns.

EL PASO, Texas, June 26.—The border today awaited the last diplomatic moves before war. Convinced that war is inevitable, immediate interest centered in the withdrawal of the American expeditionary advanced base from Namiqipa to El Valle and in Carranza's reply to President Wilson's latest demands.

Private advices stating that General Pershing's main command on the retirement toward El Valle was attacked are not taken seriously. This movement north conforms with Carranza's orders to General Trevino to oppose any advance south, east or west.

COURTROOM, WAUKEGAN, Ill., June 26.—Will Orpet took the stand today in his trial for the murder of Marian Lambert.

COURT ROOM, WAUKEGAN, Wis.
June 26.—Declaring that "this is a court room and not a theatrical production or an experimental school in sociology," James H. Wilkerson, chief counsel for Orpet, announced in his opening statement for the defense that he would count on cold facts to prove Orpet innocent of Marian Lambert's murder.

The defense, Wilkerson declared, will rely on mathematical evidence, the testimony of alienists and the story of the defendant himself to establish the fact that Marian killed herself.

Alienists, Wilkerson said, will show that Marian's frame, of mind was the frame of mind that almost invariably leads to suicide.

lery battery; signal corps; ambulance company.
Vermont—One regiment of infantry.

Orders to make ready for instant orders to move were sent to the militia commanders in Florida, District of Columbia, Virginia, Georgia, New Hampshire, Kentucky, Maine, Rhode Island, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama and Tennessee. Entraining orders for these forces await only formal report from state adjutants general that the men are ready and fully mobilized.

The bulk of the 100,000 militiamen ordered out will probably be either on the line or en route before the end of the week. Everything possible is being done to hasten the departure of the entire force. These preparations coupled with war department activity reflected the view of the army men that trouble is in the offing, though they admitted diplomacy may still have a chance.

The campaign is planned, it contemplates taking sufficient time to avoid unnecessary casualties through lack of preparation. It proposes sweeping into Mexico from strategic border points, lacking in the northern Mexican forces, seizing Torreón and Saltillo to control railroads and pushing through to Mexico City.

As matters now stand these moves will require stripping the border patrol of regulars. At some points this must be delayed pending the arrival of militia.

Can't Avoid Call

In order that there may be sufficient men, a call for volunteers will be one of the first steps if President Wilson decides war cannot be avoided. Two hundred and fifty thousand are the figures estimated for the first call and six months the time for raising them. It war comes it will be long, the experts say. The spectacular battles probably will occur within a few months, but the work of controlling guerrilla bands and rehabilitating the country might take from two to five years.

Sidetrack Ordinary Travel

Regimental commanders in the states where immediate movement was ordered worked the greater part of the night communicating with railroad heads and arranging transportation. Since the government has power to commandeer transportation facilities, it was admitted today that ordinary travel would be side-tracked for the next few days to permit rapid handling of the militia men.

One thing that may hold up actual departure of New York militia men is desire to await arrival of special supply trains from the Schuylkill supply depot, Philadelphia, carrying equipment. But state commanders without exception reported their belief they would be able to begin troop movement this afternoon. The supply trains were expected some time today.

Waive Examinations
So urgent was the demand for the militia that medical examination will be waived. Regiments which brought their standing up to full war strength during the last few days, and will take their "green" men along anticipating time to train them upon arrival in Texas.

At 8 o'clock this morning General Wood, having reported to the war department that 17,000 militia men were ready to go was awaiting orders designating the exact localities to which the men are to be assigned.
These were expected momentarily.

LA CROSSE WOMAN MEETS BROTHER APART 50 YEARS

Separated from her brother,
Charles Hoffman, in childhood, Mrs.
Emma Woodward, a resident of La Crosse, met him at Blue Earth, Minn., Saturday for the first time in fifty-two years.

Hoffman is blind and the meeting was pathetic. He was adopted by a German family when a small boy and he always believed that he was of German descent. Mrs. Woodward told him he came of an American family.

to secure the names of sixty-five La Crosse men who will be asked to sign their names to a petition to Adjutant General Orlando B. Holway for a new La Crosse company of militia. Kling is willing to head either both organizations, it is said.

Dubraks and the former army man conferred with General Holway yesterday at his headquarters at Camp Douglas. General Holway there gave out the information that three new regiments would be formed in Wisconsin. He gave his full sanction to the La Crosse men to go ahead with the plan, which he asked them to submit in writing.

Mr. Schlabach and Walter S.
Woods, who is co-operating with him in the plan for a local military training school, have issued a call for a meeting Wednesday night.
They are negotiating for the use of Company M's armory, in the Yeomen building, Fifth and King streets.
Many, it is understood, have signified their intention of joining.

Condition of Aged Man in Collision with Their Machine Is Said Today to Be Very Serious

FAILED TO GIVE AID

In Compliance with State Law Compelling Auto Drivers to Assist Persons Injured
By Them

Leonard O. Johnson and Sievert Aulth, Galesville, were held by the police today pending an investigation by District Attorney Otto M. Schlabach into facts surrounding a collision between their machine and Nelson, 608 South Fourth street, at the approach to the Mississippi way-on bridge Saturday night. Nelson was probably fatally injured. The men may be charged with refusal to give aid to Nelson, in disobedience to a state law.

Nelson is a brother of A. O. Nelson, traveling solicitor for The TRIBUNE, and is 35 years old. He was riding his bicycle down the wagon bridge approach. Johnson and Aulth are said to have been driving their machine south on Front street. Opinion of eye witnesses as to whether Nelson struck the automobile, or the machine struck him, differs.

In Serious Condition

Nelson's skull was fractured, his nose and jaw were broken, several teeth were knocked out and he is believed to have been internally injured. He was taken to St. Francis hospital by Dr. G. J. Egan, who said today that there was a bare chance of the man's recovering.

Johnson and Aulth are believed to have telephoned police headquarters immediately after the accident, although they jumped into their machine shortly afterwards and were not located by the police until 11:55 Saturday night. They were placed under arrest by Chief of Police John B. Webber.

According to Martin Rybold, automobile garage owner, who saw the accident, the Galesville men stopped their car after they had gone twenty feet, got out, and turned Nelson over. His head then lay in a pool of blood. They are said by Rybold to have then driven away. Rybold secured the license number of the car.

H. W. Smith, La Crescent, who also claims he saw the accident, maintains that Nelson rode into the side of the Galesville machine. Smith says that the car was not speeding, and puts the blame on Nelson.

Police in Long Chase

Johnson and Aulth are relatives of D. E. Canuteson, Fifth and Division streets, to whose home they went after the accident. Police were notified that the car they sought belonged to someone in La Crescent. Another wrong lead they were given was that it came from Onalaska. The police auto was dispatched to both towns. Police later learned that the sought for car was at the Canuteson home. When notified of this by Chief Webber Mr. Canuteson questioned the men. They admitted having collided with Nelson and were driven to the station.

They then made a statement, declaring that they were not to blame.
District Attorney Schlabach today pointed to the state law which requires automobile drivers to stop their machine and give aid to persons injured by their machine. That Johnson and Aulth failed to stop longer than to briefly examine Nelson, is believed by Chief Webber to be an established fact. This may form the basis for a charge against the men.

AEROPLANE IS FIT FOR SCOUTING DUTY

COLUMBUS, N. M., June 26.—
For the first time since April 23, an aeroplane is at General Pershing's headquarters, fit for scouting duty.
A military aeroplane driven by Lieutenant Christy and Rice and carrying an observer made the flight from Columbus to field headquarters early today. Its safe arrival was reported by wireless.

Huge quantities of military supplies were being unloaded at the local base today and sent out for the expeditionary forces.

Mexicans have set prairie fires in the dry grass around American camps in Mexico, presumably to hinder the United States troops.

FOSS REPORTED DRYS' CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENCY

CHICAGO, June 26.—Former Governor Eugene Foss of Massachusetts, who announced here today that he had "bolted from the democratic party," is said to have been selected by the prohibition party leaders as their candidate for president.

JORDAN AT EL PASO

EL PASO, Tex., June 26.—Dr. David Starr Jordan arrived here today, the vanguard of American and Mexican delegates, called upon by the American Union Against Militarism, to avert war between the United States and Mexico.

NO ASSURANCE OF PEACE CONTAINED IN OFFICIAL WORD

Wilson May Find It Necessary to Appear Before Congress with Situation Before the Week Ends

Order to Trevino to Prevent American Movements Traced to Carranza in Latest Wilson Note

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, June 26.—A double responsibility for the Carrizal battle appeared partly established today. It did not, however, place such a burden on the American forces as to assure peace. On the contrary, developments so shaped themselves that it seems likely President Wilson may find it necessary to appear before congress before the week ends.

Only a complete right about face by Carranza can save the situation.
The report of Captain Morey as he lay supposedly dying on the Carrizal desert, indicated to officials that the action of the American force before Carrizal might have been provocative.
Morey wrote that Captain Boyd was under the impression that the Mexicans would run when the Americans fired. "He formed for attack," said Morey's report.

On the other hand, the publication of the American demands for the release of seventeen American prisoners from Chihuahua showed that Carranza had issued the order for Trevino not to permit the Americans to move south, east or west.

This would place upon Carranza, the responsibility for the Mexicans firing and perhaps prove necessity for Boyd's offensive.

Persons in touch with President Wilson's views said he would delay going before congress on a war mission until Carranza had had time to answer the American ultimatum.

The charge in this message that Carranza had acted with hostility in issuing the order to General Trevino gave evidence that the administration believed war is the only answer if Carranza does not free the Americans taken at Carrizal, disavow that incident and promise safety for the American forces hereafter.

Troop trains are ready to take American militia to the border.

200 men were dropped, it is said the deficiency soon will be made up.
Recruiting, however, is to go on as briskly as ever at the home stations.
A new brigade is to be formed as rapidly as possible and the men who now enlist will be part of this second and contingent. Authorization of the second brigade is contained in the new army bill which goes into effect July 1. By this Wisconsin is allowed 10,500 troops. The organization of this second brigade probably would not have been started in 1916 had it not been for the call to the colors.

Camp Douglas re-echoed with firing this morning, all the rookies being out on the range for their first experience of the service rifle's kicks.
They were put through their first assault on the targets in groups of six.
Practice was limited to five rounds per man.

Arms All Arrive

Arms and ordinance equipment up to full war strength came this morning from the Rock Island arsenal. It was shipped last Friday but held up in a freight jam at Belvidere, Ill. By tonight all the rookies will be armed.
Uniforms ordered from St. Louis have not been heard from.

Vaccination of the men with anti-typhoid serum began today. For the medical service connected with changing the guard into regular army men Major J. E. Seaman, head of the Wisconsin Medical service, has been given a captain's commission. Colonel James N. Kennedy, United States army surgeon, arrived yesterday to take charge of medical examinations.
Major Williams and Colonel John G.
Salzman have also been given regular army commissions of their militia rank and will remain in their duties of brigade quartermaster and adjutant, respectively. Lieutenant R. F.
Rowley, Milwaukee, has been assigned to the Third regiment hospital corps as surgeon.

Mules for Supply Co.
Sixty mules from Viroqua arrived today at camp, secured by Lieutenant C. E. Butters, adjutant of the first battalion of the Third regiment.

FRAILTY, OR FIDELITY

BY ELSTIE SEE

Abigail Thomas was seated in the visitors' gallery of the state senate one morning, and in her smartly tailored black silk suit and a flowered hat her fair beauty was even more pronounced than usual. The senate was discussing a bill for the control of public utilities by city governments, and Abigail's father had just concluded a speech in its favor. Representatives of corporations, public-spirited citizens and lovers of oratory filled the visitors' section. The discussion became more heated with each speaker's contribution.

While the interest was at its height, the heavy swinging doors of the senate chamber opened slowly and there entered a pale, sad-faced young woman who looked at the strange scene about her in a confused way. In her plain, dark blue suit and hat she would have attracted little attention had it not been for the searching look in her half-fringed, half-determined eyes.

As the woman slowly approached the brass rail which formed a semicircle dividing the senatorial desks from the seat section for visitors, Abigail Thomas recognized her as Mamie Morton, who, as Mamie Ellis, had been her classmate in grammar school, but who was now the tired and patient little dressmaker of Thomasville. Only a day or two before, Senator Thomas had spoken of the efforts Mamie was making to have her husband pardoned from state prison, and when Abigail saw her standing there looking so timid, yet so determined, she felt a desire to help her.

Perhaps the desire was made stronger because Abigail was beginning to feel remorseful about a quarrel she had had with Stanley Worth the night before. Stanley Worth was governor of the state and a suitor for Abigail's hand. After proposing to her four times in three months and being given a different reason each time for her refusal, he had told her that although he honestly loved her he would no longer furnish her opportunities for indulging her capriciousness.

Abigail's estimation of him went up many points upon this show of spirit, but a moment later it was consumed in the heat of her wrath, as he gave a semi-tragic quotation of "Frailty, thy name is woman." So the quarrel continued until Abigail said to herself that she would make him suffer for that contemptuous slander of her sex and until Stanley Worth said to himself that if he ever married any woman it would be because she did the proposing and inveigled him into acceptance before he knew what he was doing.

From her seat in the visitors' gallery, Abigail went over toward the woman standing beside the brass rail. A roll call having been demanded, the secretary was calling the names of the senators, whose eyes and nose were being given in voices ranging from high-pitched nasal wheezes to guttural growls. Mamie Morton approached the sergeant-at-arms and told him she must speak to Senator Thomas. The big officer shook his head doubtfully and reluctantly approached the senator, who left his seat and went at once to the woman.

"I cannot promise that the governor has taken any action," said Senator Thomas in answer to her eager question. "Many matters of state claim his attention at this time, and he may not have had time to look into this."

"I believe he is innocent," said the senator, "in spite of the circumstantial evidence indicating that he took the money from Jabe Ewing's cash drawer. I hope the governor will come to see it as I do, but his decision may seem slow to you. Come with me, though, and we will see what has been done."

"And let me go, too, won't you, daddy?" asked Abigail, who surprised her father by joining them and greeting Mamie cordially.

"Why, certainly, daughter, but I thought—you know, we're going down to the governor's office."

"Yes, I know, but I want to go, and perhaps I can be of some comfort to her while she is waiting." Her father knew better than to question Abigail's whims.

When they reached the governor's suite of offices, Senator Thomas gave his card to a smiling secretary, who took it at once into the governor's private office and returned a moment later bidding the senator enter the gubernatorial presence. As they sat waiting, Mamie told Abigail how everything pointed to Henry's innocence, including an affidavit voluntarily sent her the week before by Dave Gibson, now living out west, but at the time of the Ewing robbery a citizen of Thomasville. In his statement he told that owing to his dislike for Henry Morton, who had been his rival for Mamie's hand, he had kept quiet when he had evidence that the money from Jabe Ewing's cash drawer had been taken by two tramps who buried part of it in Henry Morton's garden merely to throw suspicion from themselves and point it toward Henry, who was employed in Ewing's store.

THOUSANDS OF SICK WOMEN

Helped Every Year by Common Sense Suggestions Given Free by The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co.

For forty years women suffering from all kinds of female ills have been writing the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. of Lynn, Mass., for advice.

Thus they receive common sense suggestions drawn from a vast volume of experience, and thousands of sick women have been saved from untold suffering, as letters like the following clearly show:

Newark, Ohio.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me a well woman. Your Sauative Wash is just the thing to overcome female weakness. I have told young mothers as well as older ones about your remedies, and what they have done for me. I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved my life, as my health was very bad when I wrote you, but now I can do my own work and have not had a sick day since I began taking your remedies. I keep the Compound and Liver Pills on hand all the time."—Mrs. Geo. Thompson, 24 Sherwood Court, Newark, Ohio.

Why don't you write for free advice? Address Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.

EXPORTS EMBARGO PUT INTO EFFECT

EL PASO, Texas, June 26.—An embargo on exports to Mexico, particularly arms, ammunition and food stuffs, is in force along the border. Information received by army officers indicates that the Carranzistas plan to evacuate practically all border points in case of war. Occupation of Juarez is considered certain to follow open hostilities.

FATE OF MEN UNKNOWN

EL PASO, Texas, June 26.—The fate of sixty men reported to have escaped from the scene of the Carranzista ambush at Carrizal was still unknown here early Saturday. Whether they were pursued by the Mexican cavalry and cut down on the desert or perished from lack of water was unascertainable.

The Exact Status.

"I understand your neighbor keeps chickens." "Not exactly. He owns chickens, but my garden furnishes their keep."

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

PRUSSIANISM MUST GO BEFORE PEACE CAN BE EFFECTED

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS (United Press Staff Correspondent.) (Copyright, 1916, by United Press.) (Copyrighted in Great Britain.)

PETROGRAD, June 26.—Peace must come only when allied soil is swept clean of the enemy and Prussian militarism forever crushed. S. D. Sazonoff, Russian minister of foreign affairs, sometimes called "the pillar of the triple entente," told the United Press, in an exclusive interview.

Minister Sazonoff had just returned from the Russian front. In a private audience he outlined Russia's attitude toward the peace talk current in neutral countries, especially in America.

"Germany," said the foreign minister, "set upon us without warning. Now, having signally failed to beat Europe into submission and finding her intended victims getting the upper hand, she covers her face with the mask of piety and endeavors to throw upon the allies the blame for continuing the war. Such a procedure is an open avowal of her own weakness and an attempt to hide her own unenviable situation—a fact which I believe the world will soon realize, if it doesn't already."

"Peace talk now is doubly futile. Germany, assuredly, has not won the war. Hence she is not in a position to say anything. We cannot say yet that we are the victors, so peace suggestions are unfriendly to us."

"Germany's Power Waning"

"Germany's power is clearly waning. The strength of the allies is increasing as is indicated by the daily events in the fighting at Verdun and in the advance on the Russian front, as well as by the success of the class of the Skagerrak naval battle and of the victories in Asia Minor."

"The war can end but one way. That is when allied soil is swept clean of the enemy and our every demand is admitted. To accept peace earlier would be to shirk our duty, for civilization has reached the crossroads; one way means the mailed fist and the will of the strongest; the other means the right to enjoy individual culture. Prussia set out to impose one destiny. It was willed that the allies should defend the other. Peace must be permanent, which means that Prussian militarism must go. After all, it is this militarism we are combating rather than Germany."

Minister Sazonoff was asked about commercial relations between Russia and the United States.

"I see no real obstacle in the way of the closest commercial relations between Russia and America," he replied. "The idea has my hearty support. I quite share your able ambassador's expressed views on the subject. To like each other better we need only to get better acquainted."

Praises U. S. War in Poland. Discussing the Polish situation, the foreign minister said that he greatly appreciated America's generous steps to feed the unfortunate people of invaded Poland.

"The population there is sadly treated by the enemy," he added. "They continue to remove all available provisions, thus increasing the hunger and suffering. Russia already has shown her appreciation of endeavors to relieve Poland by permitting food to enter the country despite the fact that Germany might take advantage of the situation to divert part of the supplies to her own use."

I regret deeply that Germany has refused to agree not to remove foodstuffs already in Poland, as this renders it difficult to admit new American supplies."

"Your excellency has just returned from the front; what are your impressions?" he was asked.

"The spirit of the army is excellent," he replied. "Officers and men are thoroughly confident of their success. I return immensely pleased."

CLUB TRAINS AVIATORS

NEW YORK, June 26.—The Aero Club of America on Saturday sent to the war department a list of forty national guard officers of different states who have had training at various aviation schools at the club's expense. This was the first work of the organization in aiding the government "mobilizing" the aviation corps.

It Stirred His Bile, Though. "I've just left Walker. He's laid up in bed." "Bilious attack?" "Automobilious. He was knocked down and very badly bruised."

FREAKS BARRED AT MINNESOTA FAIR

Rubber Neck Pete, Double-Jointed Ann, Bosco, the Snake Eater, and others of their kind, are not to be invited to attend the Minnesota State Fair this year. Not only that but they have been barred from the fair for all time.

"Any objectionable show or unsafe riding device, any human freak or immoral exhibit, and any wheels or other games of chance are strictly prohibited by the Minnesota State Fair management from appearing at the State Fair, Sept. 4 to 3."

Such is the clause which has been written into the contract of the combined C. A. Wortham Shows of San Antonio, Texas, which are to occupy the Midway on the fair grounds during the entire fair. It has been made a part of the agreement in order to insure the appearance of a clean show at the state fair, and set a proper example for other state fairs of the country to follow.

Twelve shows and three riding devices constitute the Wortham shows, which are generally conceded to be the best aggregation of shows on the road. The artificial lake at the extreme eastern part of the Lagoon is to be filled this summer to provide these shows and other shows in the future with better accommodations.

A "Quality" Piano Sale

Including the highest standard makes, such as the Steinway, Chickering, Weber, Emerson, Steck, Sohmer, Estey, Julius Bauer, Vose & Sons, and other leading makes taken in exchange on high grade Player Pianos and Grand Pianos.

First and Foremost We Emphasize the FINE CONDITION of these Exchanged Pianos.

Before you consider prices, judge the pianos themselves—judge them as you would judge new pianos, by the tone, the action, the exterior finish, the reputation of the maker.

The more you know about pianos, the surer we shall be of your judgment.

The Special Piano Sales at Leithold's are in a totally different class from the many Sales with which the public are familiar. The pianos that come to us in exchange are of so high a character as to have been a constant subject of amazement among old-time piano men.

It is the High Grade Player Piano alone that could tempt people to part with valuable uprights and grands.

All that we ask is that you personally inspect these exchanged pianos and let them speak for themselves. Come as musicians, as piano experts or as skeptics, if you will—you will go away with a new idea of Leithold's importance as a piano center and of the exceptional character of the bargains to be obtained here.

TREMPEALEAU PLANS A BIG CELEBRATION

TREMPEALEAU, Wis., June 26.—(Special.)—One of the biggest celebrations that the village has experienced for years is planned for July 4. From the salute at sunrise to the conclusion of the dancing in the evening, not a single dull moment has been left in the program which is replete with sports and various other sorts of amusement. Besides the regular athletic program and oratory, there will be drills by the teams of the M. W. A. and R. N. A., a ball game between Onalaska and the Trainers of North La Crosse, and trap shooting, which will take place early in the morning. The Military band of La Crosse will furnish the music for the occasion.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

Yesterday's Hero
Hans Wagner, the grand old man of base ball, whose hitting started a Pirate batting rally in the twelfth and ended in a rout of the Cubs, Pittsburgh scoring five runs.

Hinchman led the swatting for the Pirates. He garnered four hits off Cub pitchers, one a homer.

Two more joined the Cub hospital staff. McCarthy was disabled in the first round by the spikes of Max Saxe. Jimmy Archer returned in the eighth when a foul tip ripped off a finger of his throwing hand.

The Cardinals can be pushed just so far. They turned on the Reds in a double bill, taking both games. Steele of the Cardinals let the Reds down with three hits in the initial game.

The White Sox hosted the Indians in a game in which fists and spikes were used freely. Zeb Terry, the home short stop, left the game in the fifth when Ray Chapman's spikes cut a gash in his hand.

Thirteen hits were made off Coombs of the Indians, by the White Sox.

Plans for the second annual city tournament of the La Crosse Tennis tournament will be laid at a meeting of the association at the Y. M. C. A. it was announced today. That there will be more than 100 entries is indicated by advance interest in the event.

Two weeks from Saturday, eight Prairie du Chien stars will come to La Crosse to take on the local lights. The aviators will compose four double teams, it is understood.

FAMOUS AVIATOR DIES FROM HURTS IN OSHKOSH FALL

The Great Niles Falls to Ground in Burning Machine and Is Picked Up Unconscious

Charles F. Niles, known as "Loop-the-loop" Niles, famous aviator, who died at Oshkosh this morning from injuries sustained when his aeroplane fell yesterday, was to have flown in La Crosse during the racing meet July 18 and 19. Niles flew at the Inter-State fair here two years ago. Officers of the La Crosse Trotting association today stated that terms were being made with another well known flyer to exhibit here.

OSHKOSH, Wis., June 26.—The great Charles Niles, aviator of world reputation, died at 6:15 this morning from injuries sustained by falling.

Thousands of horror stricken spectators on Sunday saw Niles shoot to the ground in a burning aeroplane.

What was to have been an exhibition in aviation was turned into a tragedy. Niles was picked up in an unconscious condition, his face badly lacerated.

Machine in Flames
Niles was 3,000 feet in the air volplaning after having staged several spectacular loops, when smoke was seen coming from one of the wings of his machine. He was just about to take an upward flight, when the aeroplane caught fire. Niles immediately headed toward a landing spot in the center of the crowd.

About 400 feet from earth he succeeded in bringing the plane to an upright position, and while in great distress, luckily landed the machine on its side. The machine was completely demolished.

Tied to Aeroplane
Spectators rushed to the wreckage and cut loose the straps that fastened Niles to the aeroplane. He was unconscious when he landed.

CRIPPLED NELSONS LOSE TO CASHTON

With but three of their regulars in the lineup, the Nelsons base ballers lost yesterday to Cashton at Cashtown, 3 to 1.

Houston plays the Nelsons Sunday at League park.

The score:
Nelson Cto. Co.00100000—1 4 1

FOURTH OF JULY RACES TO BE HELD IN THE FORENOON

Announcement is made by Admiral Edward H. Van Patten that the racing program of the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association regatta at St. Paul on the Fourth of July will be held in the morning instead of in the afternoon, as previously announced. The racing will start at 3:30. This change is made to permit Twin City visitors who so desire, to attend the automobile races at the Speedway in the afternoon of the Fourth. The boat racing on July 5th and 6th, will be held in the afternoon, beginning at 1:30.

The annual convention of the association, previously announced for the morning of Wednesday, July 5th, has been postponed by Admiral Van Patten to 9:30 o'clock the morning of Thursday, July 6th. The convention will be held in the convention hall of the Saint Paul hotel, which is the official headquarters of the association during the regatta week.

The most famous boats in America are beginning to arrive in St. Paul by express. The boats occupy a car and facilities have been provided by the St. Paul Boat Club to unload them with a large crane direct into the Mississippi river.

The lucky man usually misses the boat on the sea of matrimony.

Quality, Weight, Ingredients and Preservatives
Some of Things Told
by Labels

Note—This is the second of five special articles on the business management of the home. The series was written by Laura B. Breese of the Department of Farmers' Institutes of the University of Wisconsin, who is well known to many of the readers of this paper.

THE national food law has accomplished much considering the conditions at the time of its enactment as compared with present conditions. Though the law has sometimes been used to protect manufacturers in attempted fraud, the aim of its authors is that of securing pure and wholesome products for the consumer. It is to be hoped that satisfactory amendments to the law enacted June 30, 1906, will eventually accomplish the original aim of the authors of the law. The pure food law has been an agent working to "clean up" and keep cleaned up, the production, storing, handling and distribution of foods.

The matter of food is one of the biggest questions before the public. Improper nourishment is responsible for much of the population in our institutions for the feeble minded, the penitentiary, and of over 80 per cent of the physical ailments, humanity is suffering from today. The pure food law has taken out of the market a lot of stuff unfit for the human stomach.

The "food label" has a very interesting history. Until the passage of the "pure food law" the label upon a food product was, in many instances, a pretty and attractive covering to a package containing unfit food for the human being. It literally covered "a multitude of sins" beneath it, which were perpetrated upon the unsuspecting public. Such evil practices as the use of injurious preservatives, filthy adulterations of foods, harmful coloring matter, short weights, etc., were followed by food manufacturers and covered up by an attractive looking label.

The passing of the pure food laws of 1906 was a great step toward reform in the production of foods and though our federal laws are still believed to be weak, time and the progressive housewife will strengthen them, as needed. The label stands as the housewife's interpreter of food products today, and the wise housewife will read its message. The law has shut out most of the chemical and harmful preservatives and the best food manufacturers no longer use them. The few that are allowed, and are used, must be stated upon the label so the purchaser may reject these if she reads the labels and wishes to. All states have such laws. For example, food laws and food departments now prohibit formaldehyde in milk; borax, boracic or sulfurous acid from meat; salicylic acid from catsup; salicylic, benzoic or sulfurous acid from cider; coal tar dyes from jams and jellies; borax, boracic acid, saccharine, salicylic and sulfurous acids from all canned fruits and vegetables, and so on. Since warrent benzates up from 18 cents to $2.00 a pound, we are protected in a measure from its use.

The label also tells the housewife that there are different grades of goods. Jobbing houses grade their goods for the retailers by means of different labels. The housewife should visit her grocer and ask him to explain to her the grades of goods he carries, then she may make her purchases intelligently. Prices of course are determined by the grade. Difference in grade does not necessarily mean undesirable or unwholesome goods; it usually just means that there are differences in selection and packing of materials, the more carefully selected and packed bringing the higher prices.

When a housewife learns all she can about grades of foods, her grocer will see that she understands and will not try to palm off a low grade at a high price.

These are some of the things a label upon food products will tell the housewife:

(1) The quality or grade of food; (2) the manufacturer's or jobber's name and address; (3) the net weight, or measure; (4) the materials in the composition; (5) statements of preservatives used, if any.

Read your labels, housewives, and help in the great campaign afoot for the protective standards for food products. Learn to know the superior from the inferior brands of goods. In the majority of cases, the grocer has the standard articles upon his shelves and is willing to give the housewife what she asks for. Carelessness upon the housekeeper's part may bring her undesirable goods. When she asks for a bottle of vanilla extract, it should be sent, not an imitation vanilla substitute flavor. Let the practice of such ordering as "Send me up some

BY FREDERICK J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 26.—Has the European war, along with the guerrilla fighting in Mexico, served to turn American attention from the issue most vital to American well-being—vital, even, to American safety? Have we become so absorbed in the European drama that we stand all unconscious while in the Orient a stage is set for a drama where we may no longer be spectators, but leading players with a life-and-death interest in the issue of the plot?

That such is the case is the sober opinion of some of the keenest and most experienced students of the Far Eastern situation. Their reiterated assertions as to the dangerous state of our affairs in the East is causing Americans to turn their eyes inquiringly across the Pacific, in spite of many assurances from other authorities, who ridicule any talk of serious trouble as a hybrid creature of the jingo and the yellow press.

Knowledge Essential
If we are faced by the necessity of action, to avert a situation where we shall have to choose between war and surrendering certain of our rights, then such action will have to be motivated primarily by the attitude of the American people. It follows that a knowledge of the actual state of affairs is essential to every citizen; but for a variety of reasons that knowledge is one of the hardest things in the world to get.

It is hardly possible for any European country long to keep secret the state of its public opinion toward the United States. Take the case of Germany for instance, when from time to time there arises the question of strained relations over points of international law. A score of correspondents keep us posted on every nuance of feeling in the German national mind. We know how the German people receive our suggestions and offers almost as soon as we know how the American nation as a whole regards them. It would be impossible for Germany, or any other European nation to adopt a national attitude that would take us by surprise. With Japan the case is fundamentally and fatally different.

Japan is a nation that speaks a language so totally different from ours that it is an immense task for an American to learn it, and one that comparatively few undertake. Japan's written word is built on a system basically opposed to our script; it is even harder for an alien to master than the language. As a result Americans who speak Japanese are few and far between, Americans who read it fewer and farther. Add to this the fact that Japan has today the strictest and most effective of press censorship, and two facts become evident.

First, that behind the wall of an alien tongue reinforced by the censorship, almost anything might be going on in Japan without our knowledge, and second, that whatever does get published in Japan, even in the "yellowest" section of the press, has a certain smack of the authoritative that a similar utterance in this country would lack, because every Japanese paper has been passed by the official censor.

The significance of this state of affairs as applied to the United States lies in the fact that it obliges us to give a different reception to news from Japan, which at first glance seems almost incredible, than we would give to similar news from any other country. If we were told that public opinion in Germany or Russia had shifted in a few years from a friendly attitude to one violently hostile, that this change was being deliberately encouraged by at least a section of the government, and with sinister purpose, we would be justified in laughing. When the same charges are made by men of high standing, as they are made, against Japan—then it is time for us to do some serious thinking.

It is charged, and backed up by numerous quotations from Japanese vernacular and English papers, that there is a deliberate campaign going forward in Japan to arouse anti-American sentiment throughout the nation. It is no news to Americans that there has been an increasing lack of cordiality in Japanese-American relations, but that affairs have come to the point where the United States is conceived in the popular mind as Japan's active opponent and logical enemy does come as news, and news of a somewhat startling character.

Side by side with this campaign to plant hostility against America in Japan, it is charged that a parallel campaign is being conducted in America—a campaign whose object is to spread abroad in the United States the idea that Japan cherishes only the friendliest intentions toward us, a campaign in other words, to lull our suspicions, to discourage any tendency Americans may have toward making preparations for a possible emergency. Thus should the clash come and neither side give ground, a fiercely inimical and heavily armed little empire would have to deal with a big, unready republic, whose national attitude toward her antagonistic could best have been described as one of complete indifference. The issue of such a possible conflict is not pleasant to consider.

It is a fact that except along the Pacific coast and certain tracts of the Rocky mountain region, American feeling toward Japan has vacillated between a rather sentimental sympathy, an honest admiration, and a great indifference. On the other hand, Japan has never regarded us with indifference. We have, from the beginning of her modern era, filled a much larger place in her national outlook than she has occupied in ours. Americans were concerned primarily with domestic affairs and then with concerns touching other nations on the American continent, and European powers, Asiatic world-politics trailed along a poor third. In Japan's scheme of things, the United States often occupied first place, and never sank below a rank of high importance. At the same time, the merciless logic of conflicting necessities several times forced us across the path of the island empire, and made us appear to her people in the light of a barrier between them and their destiny.

Even now, the United States remains in two diametrically opposed positions to the wishes and policy of Japan. The solution of each of these deadlocks it has been significantly and explicitly stated, is merely postponed. The present status in each case has been definitely qualified as temporary—once by Japan, and once by the United States. The former case is that of negotiation on the anti-alien land bills, where Japan dropped the matter with the stipulation of resuming it later; the second case is that of Japan's remarkable and unprecedented demands upon China. The United States, in a note of May 15, 1915, informed both governments that this government could not recognize any agreement to which they might come as binding, under the circumstances, if it infringed American rights (as several features of the new concessions forced from China do.) And there the two matters rest. Each must be settled somehow in the future.

In neither of these cases can the United States well recede from her stand. The citizens of this country can not give up their right to say who shall not enter their territory. Neither can the government well consent to the closing of the "open door" in China—a violation of a

Buying an expensive automobile on his fifth birthday, with money that he has earned, and paying a chauffeur out of his own salary, has just been accomplished by "Little Billy" Jacobs, the celebrated child actor appearing in the support of Marie Doro in "The Heart of Nora Flynn," which will be seen at the Bijou again tonight and Tuesday. "Little Billy" just a few months over five years old, is one of the best paid actors in the photo-dramatic profession. He drives to work from his home to the studio every morning in an automobile which he purchased with the money, he has made in the last three years, and pays the wages of his chauffeur out of his weekly salary. Of course he is always accompanied by his mother, but "Little Billy" foots the bill. Mr. Cecil B. DeMille, director general of the Lasky company, saw one of the pictures in which Billy was a star and promptly engaged him to support Marie Doro.

In speaking of "Little Billy" Mr. DeMille said recently: "If many of the more prominent, more popular and more expensive actors were as easy to direct as 'Little Billy,' the life of a director would be a 'bed of roses.'"

FIRE THREATENS MINNESOTA TOWN

SPRING GROVE, Minn., June 26.—(Special).—A fire originating in the local power plant threatened to destroy the entire village of Spring Grove Friday night. Fortunately the trouble occurred early in the evening, enabling the fire fighters to get the flames under control before much damage was done. The Root River Light and Power company had shut off the current going to Mable. In the evening the switch in the Spring Grove building was thrown on to furnish the neighboring village with light. The current of 1,200 volts proved too much for the small switch and an arc was formed in an instant. The extent of the damage is not known.

The lady jury had been out for hours. The judge looked tired, the clerk yawned, the loungers slept. The bailiff, after listening at the keyhole several times, shook his head with a discouraged air. And then, quite unexpectedly, the jury announced it was ready to report, and the twelve ladies filed in. "Have you agreed upon a verdict?" the judge demanded. The forelady smiled. "We have agreed upon twelve verdicts, your honor," she told him, in her flutchie voice. "You are discharged," roared the judge. "Isn't he horrid!" said the ladies.

FOWLER WANTS TWENTY-FIVE GUARDSMEN NOW

Company M Commander Makes Appeal in City for More Recruits to Bring Company Up to Full War Strength

Among scores of gifts sent to the La Crosse troops at Camp Douglas is a barrel of pickles, sent by the Onalaska Pickle and Canning company. Quartermaster Thompson shipped the present today.

Captain F. H. Fowler, commander of Company M, is in La Crosse with an appeal for twenty-five more volunteers for his company. Examinations are still in progress at Camp Douglas and although few are rejected, the ranks of the company are far from being filled and it is the captain's firm desire to leave for the front with the full quota of men, should the call come.

Captain Fowler is here settling up

Captain Fowler pointed out today that any former militiamen, members of any company, who are in the city are here under orders and through no desire to leave on their part. "Some must be rejected," said the captain, "and are forced to come home reluctantly. Their desire to serve their country is just as sincere and deep as that of men who leave and they should be looked upon in no other than a most praiseworthy manner."

Company M was forced to secure a new quartermaster when the results of the first examinations were secured. Quartermaster Claude Thompson, who has had complete charge of the equipment at home and was completely familiar with the work, could not be accepted. Two of his fingers are missing and his ankle had at one time been broken, making him unfit for the strenuous work which is bound to be encountered by the men if they reach Mexico. Alvah Hill, student at the normal school for the past year, was selected to fill the position vacated by Mr. Thompson. The former quartermaster

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., June 26.—Poured into the military reservation by regular and special trains and automobiles, fifteen thousand visitors streamed into the military encampment to enjoy experiences never before equalled in magnitude and interest on a Wisconsin parade ground.

In addition to its regular trains, which all came loaded with visitors, the Milwaukee system ran five packed specials into Camp Douglas: one from La Crosse, one from points east of Portage, one from Wausau, one from Beaver Dam and Ripon and one from Tomah. The Northwestern line carried two special trains, one from the north and one from Baraboo.

At 1 o'clock fifteen hundred automobiles were parked in Camp Douglas and along the roadway leading to and encircling the reservation. In places they were four deep, and late arrivals were obliged to park a distance of more than a mile from the entrance.

The La Crosse special leaving at 9:17 sold nearly 800 tickets, and the fourteen coaches which left here were filled to their standing capacity at West Salem, Bangor, Sparta and Tunnel City, so that although four coaches were added at Sparta it was necessary to make up a second special of five coaches at Tomah.

The La Crosse crowds arrived in camp just as the regiments were going into mess. The visitors were generally provided with lunch baskets, and many were entertained at the various mess tents.

While the visitors wandered about the grounds and to headquarters, getting a general idea of the camps, the various contingents spent much of their time in their own company streets, visiting with the home boys. With the parents and relatives came hundreds of sweethearts of the soldier boys, and romance never flourished under more encouraging conditions. A Great Spectacle

There was "big league" stuff in progress. At 4 o'clock Company A of the First Infantry held guard-mount. Followed dress parade by the Second and Third Infantry, a most imposing spectacle in which the La Crosse companies were among those loudly cheered as they passed General Holway and staff at the reviewing stand. The impressive "Retreat" was the final ceremony, in which fifteen thousand spectators watched three thousand soldiers drawn up on the parade ground at attention. The great gun was fired, the flag was hauled down and as the Third regiment band struck up "The Star Spangled Banner," hats came off and a great cheer swept over the mass of citizens.

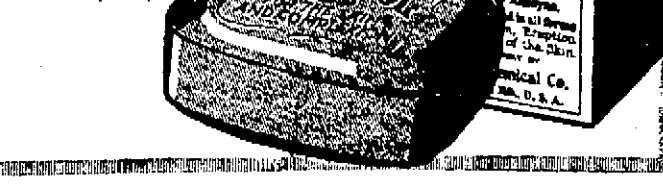

Longbrake Honored
For the first time since the civil war brigade religious services were held Sunday night, and Rev. George R. Longbrake of La Crosse, had the honor of presiding. His talk, hardly a sermon, lasted but a few moments. The Third regiment chaplain made an excellent impression in his address.

Sec La Crosse Officers
La Crosse people were able to see something of their old friend and neighbor, General Holway, and of Captain Fowler and Rupp and other company officers. Captain Rupp, new in the company command, is making a distinct "hit." He is an upstanding athlete to whom the military bearing is a natural posture. He looks carefully after his men, advising with the commissary about their eats and having their welfare constantly in mind. A regimental officer mentioned this in a tone of pleased approval.

Rain at Night
The La Crosse special got away on the return at 8:55, and made good time, but did not arrive before the beginning of last night's heavy rain which gave hundreds of people a cool bath at "the end of a perfect day."

THE ULTIMATUM SENT CARRANZA

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 26.—The text of the note to the Mexican de facto government, transmitted to James Finn Rodgers, special representative of the American government in Mexico City, says:

Mr. Arredondo on Saturday delivered to this government the following communication:

"I am directed by my government to inform your excellency, with reference to the Carrizal incident, that the chief executive, through the Mexican war department, gave orders to General Jacinto B. Trevino not to permit American forces from General Pershing's column to advance further south, nor to move either east or west from the points where they are located, and to oppose new incursions of American soldiers into Mexican territory.

"These orders were brought by General Trevino to the attention of General Pershing, who acknowledged the receipt of the communication relative thereto. On the 22d instant, as your excellency knows, an American force moved eastward quite far above orders, and was engaged by Mexican troops at Carrizal, the encounter several men on both sides were killed and wounded and seventeen American soldiers were made prisoners.

You are hereby instructed to hand to the minister of foreign relations

of the de facto government the following:

"The government of the United States can put no other construction upon the communication handed to the secretary of the United States on June 24, by Mr. Arredondo, under instruction of your government, than that it is intended as a formal avowal of deliberately hostile action against the forces of the United States now in Mexico, and of the purpose to attack them without provocation whenever they move from their present position in pursuance of the objects for which they were sent there, notwithstanding the fact that those objects not only involve no unfriendly intention towards the government and the people of Mexico, but are, on the contrary, intended only to assist that government in protecting itself and the territory and people of the United States against irresponsible and insurgent bands of rebel marauders.

"I am instructed, therefore, by my government, to demand the immediate release of the prisoners taken in the encounter at Carrizal, together with any property of the United States now in their possession, and to inform you that the government of the United States expects an early statement from your government as to the course of action it wishes the government of the United States to understand it has determined upon, and that it also expects that this statement be made through the usual diplomatic channels and not through subordinate military commanders."

COLONEL DECLINES AND COMES OUT IN BEHALF OF HUGHES

Roosevelt Declares All Progressives Should Forget Party Lines and Pull for Ex-Justice to Defeat Wilson

Colonel Declares Progressives Have Been Greatly Aided by Enactment of Many of the Party's Principles

CHICAGO, June 26.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt today definitely refused nomination of the progressives for president and in a letter to the bull moose national committee urged their support of Charles Evans Hughes, the republican nominee.

In his letter, a lengthy denunciation of the democratic administration, Colonel Roosevelt declared he would actively support Hughes and gave detailed reasons, based largely on the necessity for patriotic Americanism.

Roosevelt expressed his gratitude for the nomination, but added that a majority of the telegrams he had received from the convention expressed the desire that he should not run.

The colonel lauded the 1912 progressive platform and declared events, including the world war, have shown the necessity for its application, as well as of the necessity for universal military training.

"Sooner or later," Roosevelt wrote, "the national principles championed by the progressives of 1912 must in their general effect be embodied in the structure of our national existence. With all my heart I shall continue to work for these great ideals shoulder to shoulder with the men and women who in 1912 championed them."

"The progressive movement has been given an incalculable impetus by what the progressive party has done. Our strongest party antagonists have accepted and enacted into law, or embodied in their party platforms, very many of our most important principles.

"Yet it has become entirely evident that the people under existing conditions are not prepared to accept a new party.

"In my judgment," he went on, "the nomination of Mr. Hughes meets the conditions set forth in the statement of the progressive national committee issued last January and in my own statements. Under existing conditions, the nomination of a third ticket would, in my judgment, be merely a move in the interest of the election of Mr. Wilson. I regard Mr. Hughes as a man whose public record is a guarantee that he will not merely stand for a program of clean cut, straight out Americanism before election, but will resolutely and in good faith put it through if elected. He is beyond all comparison better fitted to be president than Mr. Wilson. I shall, therefore, strongly support Mr. Hughes. Such being the case, it is unnecessary to say that I cannot accept the nomination on a third ticket. I do not believe that there should be a third ticket. It is my deep conviction that at this moment we can serve our common country only by supporting Mr. Hughes.

"It is urged against Mr. Hughes that he was supported by various so-called German-American alliances. I believe that the attitude of these professional German-Americans was due, not in the least to any liking for Mr. Hughes, but solely to their antagonism to me.

"The world is passing through a great crisis and no man can tell what trial and jeopardy will have to be faced by this nation during the years immediately ahead. We can decide only whether during these possible vital years this country shall be entrusted to the leadership of Mr. Hughes or Mr. Wilson.

"Mr. Wilson has been tried and found wanting. The democrats have brought us to impotence abroad and

Mexicans Counseled to Violence to Americans in Mass Meeting Presided Over by Officials

EAGLE PASS, Tex., June 26.—Destruction of the American consulate in Torreon on June 18 by General Carranza's soldiers and civilians, led by the mayor was described here.

Members of the party say they saw the mayor of Torreon, with troops and a military band, followed by 3,000 citizens, march to the consulate, shouting "Death to the gringos."

They tore the American shield from the front of the building, then demolished the structure and its contents.

A mass meeting was held in the plaza later. The mayor and other Mexican officials counselled the mob to violence against all Americans. The refugees, numbering sixteen, were aided in their escape by the British consul. They were furnished a special train by the Carranza military authorities. They were unmolested enroute.

Army officers accompanying the train, commanded by General Francisco Murguia, told the refugees that a Carranza force is mobilizing at Salinas, seventy-five miles south of Eagle Pass, and will make its first stand against American invasion there. It was estimated that 8,000 troops are concentrated there.

"Any news from that bandit today?" "Yes. He has given orders that if anybody comes to capture him we are to say he is not at home."

to division and weakness at home. They have taught us that peace—the peace of cowardice and dishonor and indifference to the welfare of others—is to be above righteousness. Yet in Mexico they have failed even to secure the peace which they thus sought; and they have failed in spite of the most ample opportunity and most ample warning, to prepare in any real fashion to meet the crisis which their own policy invited. They have taught us to put safety first, safety before duty and honor.

"Mr. Hughes has shown in his career the instinct of efficiency which will guarantee that, under him, the government will once more work with vigor and force. We have the alternative of continuing in office an administration which has proved a lamentable failure, or of putting into office an administration which we have every reason to believe will function with efficiency to the interest and honor of all our people. I earnestly bespeak for my fellow progressives their ungrudging support of Mr. Hughes."

Parker Bolts on Secret Session
John M. Parker of Louisiana, progressive nominee for vice president, and national committeeman from six states, bolted the meeting of the national committee this afternoon after Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's letter supporting Charles E. Hughes was read.

Parker left the committee room followed by Henry F. Koehms of Wisconsin; A. T. Moon of Utah; J. M. Ingorsoll of Idaho; Judge H. D. Norton of St. Louis, who held a North Carolina proxy; Burton Vance of Kentucky, and Bainbridge Colby of New York.

They refused, they said, to become participants to a secret session of the committee. They had been voted down, by a large majority, on a resolution to make the meeting an open one.

The secrecy was imposed, it was rumored, when George W. Perkins intimated he had a confidential message from Hughes to the progressives.

REED HAS WARNING AGAINST "WAR IN A FEW HOURS"

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Possibility of "war within a few hours," was warning given the senate by Reed of Missouri today in urging all haste in aiding militiamen and their families.

Reed made his solemn warning during a bitter debate on the action of the measure in the house militia draft, which would grant payment of $50 a month to families of militiamen.

Hitchcock, Nebraska, seconded the fight by Reed on the clause substituted by the committee exempting married men from service and providing payment to dependents of militiamen. Once during an eloquent appeal by Reed, Senator James, who was presiding, threatened to clear the galleries if there was any more applause.

"It is as much the duty of a married man as of others," said Hitchcock, "to serve his country."

Hitchcock was loudly applauded when he declared heatedly: "These men are not to be deceived. And yet the people and taxpayers safe at home hesitate to care for their families."

He said to exempt all married men would demoralize our forces by eliminating trained men to be replaced with untrained men.

"If we have to call out 500,000 volunteers," interrupted Overman, North Carolina, "would you want also to pay their dependents?"

"That's a bridge to be crossed when reached," retorted Hitchcock.

Works of California, declared the system all wrong. The guardsmen "contemplated no such service when they enlisted," he said. He argued for a general draft.

"This is no time for availing over terms," said Reed. "We may be declared within a few hours. We must protect the border. The duty is on all, not merely on the guardsmen. Merely because the guardsmen prepare themselves to fight, shall we pile all the burdens of war on them?"

"Many have torn their arms of wives and children from their neck to leave for the front, yet here we haggle, haggle over their families. I put it on the conscience of all of you. Shall one class make all the sacrifices and we make none?"

Rufe Hoskins says his ancestors were so poor that all he inherited from his father was his politics.

"ALL TOGETHER FOR LA CROSSE."

A GENERAL STATEMENT OF THE PLANS AND PURPOSES OF LA CROSSE'S NEW COMMUNITY—BUILDING ORGANIZATION

The movement for a centralization of the civic and commercial forces of the city into a modern type of Chamber of Commerce, aggressive in character, representative in membership, and efficient in finances and management, is an expression of a general demand on the part of the business and professional men for an organization commensurate with the wealth and population of La Crosse and its needs as a commercial, industrial and agricultural center.

Its primary purpose will be to accomplish the greatest good for the greatest number of people through organized endeavor in every line of activity embraced in city building.

Its governing principle will be that there is nothing too great for it to undertake and nothing too small for it to do if it is for the best interests of La Crosse. It will be non-partisan, non-sectional, and non-sectarian.

It will be given the elements of stability, permanence and financial strength.

All commercial, civic, industrial and agricultural interests will receive continuous and intelligent attention in order that the city may be developed to its fullest possibilities and be made a desirable place in which to live.

THE FUTURE OF LA CROSSE

The future of this city is going to depend to a large extent upon the vision and organized activity of its commercial forces. La Crosse has every essential for greatness, but it is in competition with powerful cities on all sides, and each is using the agency of united endeavor to build itself up at the expense of the others. The future welfare of the city demands the efficient methods of the modern Chamber of Commerce. It demands the maximum of co-operation, personal service and financial support.

In order to build a commercial organization of the most advanced type, the committees in charge will look to the following essentials:

Representative Membership—A membership made up of the representatives of every interest, of every trade, of every industry, and of every profession, so that it may truthfully be said that when the Chamber of Commerce speaks or acts, it is speaking or acting for all the interests of La Crosse.

Adequate Working Capital—Funds to carry out constructive projects calculated to promote the welfare of the city and surrounding country, to employ a trained and competent managing secretary, and to maintain adequate and dignified headquarters, and meeting rooms.

Active Moral Support—A type of working machinery to draw and insure the personal service, support, and interest of the membership.

Definite Working Plans—Plans which will commit the organization to constructive work along specific lines, and the adoption of definite policies.

MEMBERSHIP DUES

In our investigations we have found that the experience of all cities and towns has proved the impracticability of trying to finance a Chamber of Commerce in the way we have been doing with our organizations in the past. The plan providing for annual dues of $25 per year has been universally adopted in the most progressive commercial organizations throughout the United States.

By making the dues $25, the interest of the member will be better secured and a sufficient fund of money raised so that it will not be necessary to "pass the hat" from time to time for civic and commercial organization purposes.

ONE FUND FOR ALL NEEDS

The Chamber of Commerce proposes to raise one fund at one time to meet all the civic and commercial organization needs of the city, and in soliciting memberships in this campaign, individuals and firms will be asked to invest (not donate) in the Chamber of Commerce a sufficient amount to cover their share in all such activities with the distinct understanding that the Chamber of Commerce will not ask for further funds during the life of the membership, unless an exigency would permit same upon a majority vote of the entire membership.

In other words, it is proposed to raise one fund sufficient to meet the needs of the community in civic and commercial organization lines and to appropriate these funds to the different activities in a conservative way and only where the activity is for the welfare of La Crosse. Under this plan every member of the Chamber can feel assured that each dollar he invests in commercial organization work will go further in aiding La Crosse than in the past.

The most modern methods of safeguarding the funds of the Chamber of Commerce will be adopted. The Board of Directors each year will appoint a finance committee, whose duty it will be to formulate a budget for the expenditures of the Chamber of Commerce and its several bureaus. No bureau, however, will receive a lump sum for expenses except upon a detailed representation and statement of the amounts needed. Each such appropriation will be passed upon first by the finance committee and then by the Board of Directors.

To insure permanency, to this Chamber of Commerce, memberships will be taken only on a three-year basis but payable annually. This will enable the organization to plan its work for more than one year in advance and will give it the necessary permanency to insure its success. In adopting the three-year plan the committee has taken the advice of all leading authorities.

MEMBERSHIP ON EQUALIZATION BASIS

The plan further provides for "plural memberships," which means that individuals and firms will be asked to invest in the Chamber of Commerce in proportion to their material interest in the community and to the benefits they may expect to derive from its work.

PLAN OF ORGANIZATION

The Chamber of Commerce will be organized on the Bureau plan, a feature that has been adopted by several hundred commercial bodies in recent years. This plan is modeled on the departmental organization of the modern business concern, and brings about concentration along a number of different lines by groups of men directly interested in those various lines.

The following bureaus will be organized immediately after the membership campaign:

Merchants' Bureau.
Manufacturers' and Jobbers' Bureau.
Conventions and Publicity Bureau.
Agricultural Bureau.
Civic Bureau.

Additional bureaus may also be created to meet the needs of the organization and the community. Even the city's charity work may be advantageously handled by a bureau of this organization. In fact the scheme of organization is so broad and comprehensive that any phase of public activity may be properly and economically handled under the Chamber of Commerce and in addition gain immeasurable prestige.

MEMBERS WILL CHOOSE THEIR BUREAUS

At the conclusion of the membership campaign this week an "information blank" will be mailed to each member to ascertain the lines of activity in which he is most interested. He will then be assigned to the bureau or bureaus which include these activities. If the member is a manufacturer, he will naturally choose the Manufacturers' and Jobbers' Bureau. If he is a merchant, he will naturally prefer the Merchants' Bureau. It will be permissible, however, for members to elect to be in more than one bureau. This plan brings together men who are thinking in like lines and talking in like terms and the maximum of results can naturally be expected.

A PLATFORM OF ACTIVITIES

A survey of the city is now being made by trained organization men with the view of formulating a definite program of activities not only of the Chamber of Commerce, but of the several bureaus. In making this survey the views of the leading men of the community, in all lines of trade, industry and profession, will be obtained. This platform of constructive work will be submitted to the membership at its initial meeting, and it will be the duty of the officers and directors to do their utmost to see that the entire program is carried out by the bureaus and the Chamber.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce will be composed of an equal number of directors from each of the bureaus and from the Membership Council, a department which will be explained farther on. This plan of electing directors insures a well-balanced directorate interested in every phase of civic and commercial organization work and will guarantee the support of the entire membership in all lines of general interest.

ACTIVITIES OF THE BUREAUS

In the by-laws to be adopted the functions and activities of each bureau will be definitely outlined. It is not the intention here to specify the activities of the bureau, but simply to make a general statement concerning the work of each. Each bureau will have the power of initiating measures for the good of the community and the activities of each will only be limited by the industry of the members, the general secretary and the officers.

THE MERCHANTS' BUREAU

The Merchants' Bureau will carry on all activities looking to trade extension and trade protection.

BIG FIELD FOR CONSTRUCTIVE WORK

There is a big field for constructive work for the Merchants' Bureau along the lines of trade extension and the Chamber of Commerce will give this bureau strong support in promoting fall and spring style shows, suburban days, dollar days, shoppers' trading excursions, picnics of farmers and other methods for bringing about increased trade.

Along protective lines the bureau will safeguard the members from promiscuous solicitors, fly-by-night merchants, and hostile legislation.

The Merchants' Bureau will also have the heartiest co-operation of the entire Chamber of Commerce in campaigns to educate the people of this city and county to do their trading at home. It will also work to bring about a more general co-operation among the retail, wholesale and manufacturing interests of La Crosse.

AGRICULTURAL BUREAU

It has become axiomatic that the growth of a city is largely in direct proportion to the growth in population and resources in the territory contributory to it. La Crosse is in the midst of a rich farming territory which has vast possibilities for development.

This is not going to be a bureau to tell the farmer how to farm, but a bureau where both the farmer and the business man can work out problems that will be for the material welfare of each. That this is practical has been demonstrated in many progressive commercial organizations and investigation of such methods will be one of the first activities of this bureau.

The business of marketing the surplus products of the farms is in many cases still in its infancy and this bureau will work to the end of making La Crosse a market clearing house for this section of the country and of providing better facilities for marketing home-grown products.

MANUFACTURERS & JOBBERS BUREAU

This bureau will continue and increase the activities of the present Manufacturers' and Jobbers' Club and work for industrial and wholesale trade expansion.

Promotion of the industrial growth of a community is one of the general activities of a Chamber of Commerce that yields large direct returns. Every existing industry enlarged and every new industry secured means increased pay rolls, more homes and families, and consequently an additional circulation of money throughout the community. In the comprehensive plans for the Chamber of Commerce it is designed to give much attention to fostering established industries and to securing new industries.

CAMPAIGN OF EDUCATION TO SUPPORT HOME INDUSTRY

The Chamber of Commerce will conduct a systematic campaign of education to show the value of supporting local factories; and local business houses of every other character.

In order that the industrial bureau may proceed with the best results, the Chamber of Commerce will direct this bureau to make an industrial survey of the city so that the advantages of La Crosse as a manufacturing location can be widely advertised.

CIVIC BUREAU

There is a great field of work to be done by an aggressive Civic Bureau in making this community a more desirable place in which to live. Statistics of commercial organizations throughout the country show that fully fifty per cent of their activities are along civic lines. In every field of civic work organized citizenship is needed. Civic work does not mean the expenditure of money in costly improvements. It simply means a non-partisan co-operation to bring about governmental efficiency and the maximum results for money spent in public work. It means community cleanliness, health, recreation, beauty and welfare.

OUR CITY SHOULD LOOK FAR AHEAD

La Crosse will do well to look not only to the civic needs of today, but to those of the city when it will have a population of 50,000, 75,000, or even 100,000 people. Chicago is today planning its public improvements on the basis of a population of 20,000,000 people. New York is looking ahead even as far as fifty years in planning its public work. Los Angeles in all its civic work visualizes the city of 1,000,000 people. La Crosse can profit by using such foresight and vision.

PUBLICITY AND CONVENTION BUREAU

Publicity is today one of the strongest constructive features in the world of human endeavor. Without it business wanes and men sink into oblivion. What applies to individuals and business applies also to cities. The publicity department is essential to all phases of Chamber of Commerce work.

The experience of the past has shown that La Crosse can be made a recognized convention city and that thousands of dollars of new capital can be brought to the city annually through convention delegates. In this bureau there will be a group of men specializing on the work of securing conventions along the most modern methods.

A careful analysis of commercial organization work in La Crosse in recent years reveals a lack of co-operation on the part of many citizens in giving their personal service. To remedy this and to have an organization where the membership will be interested and active continuously, the bureau plan was adopted, and to further strengthen the organization in this respect there will be a Membership Council.

This is an initiative and referendum body of about fifty representatives from the various lines of trade, industry, and profession represented in the membership. Each group, such as lawyers, clothiers, doctors, grocers, etc., will be represented in the Membership Council by a delegate. The council will meet regularly once a week or twice a month. All members of the Chamber of Commerce may attend the meetings, but only delegates may vote. The functions of the Membership Council shall be to originate and recommend to the Chamber and to the bureaus all matters of community effort.

MANAGING SECRETARY

The working capital of the Chamber of Commerce will be sufficient to employ an able, trained, and experienced Managing Secretary. Organizations here in the past have been handicapped by the lack of trained men whose entire time was given to organization work. The campaign committee is now securing the applications of capable men, and making an investigation of their merits, and the data will be turned over to the board of directors following their election.

CONCLUSION

The citizens of La Crosse are called upon to rally to this forward movement. To raise a sufficient fund to carry on this comprehensive plan of work, individuals, firms, and corporations must take memberships in proportion to the return they will get from a community building organization of this type.

Let every citizen with an investment in the future of La Crosse endorse this forward movement by becoming members of the Chamber of Commerce; to work with one purpose and thus develop a community spirit that will make it the pride of every man, woman and child to say to the world, "I am a citizen of La Crosse."
